The Prospect For Queen's

A Summary of Events During 1958 And an Indication Of What May Be Expected In the Future

At the end of each year it is the custom of Principal Mackintosh to speak over the regular Queen's quarter hour on Radio Station CKWS in Kingston. He reviews the campus highlights of the past year, describes plans for the coming year, and outlines future policy.

What is there of significance and interest which has been happening at Queen's University during 1958? Obviously much more than can be compassed in fifteen minutes. Some of the most significant events and movements—the growth and maturing of young people in mind, manner and interest, the stirrings of enthusiasm, the widening of horizons of awareness, the promise and excitement of research projects—these are difficult to identify and describe. Other events such as the publication of Professor A. R. M. Lower's notable book, Canadians in the Making, would require much more than fifteen minutes to review and a reviewer more competent than I. One of the most significant developments, the steady enlargement of research and scholarly work, is particularly difficult for a layman to explain to laymen. Its magnitude can be indicated inadequately by saying that ten or twelve years ago the amount of research grants received by the University for its scholars and scientists was only a few thousand dollars and, at present, it is about $800,000 a year.

We have had this year an unusually large increase in the number of students. We have 221 additional students, making a total of 2,856 in attendance, of whom 2,799 are full-time students. Nearly all of this increase is to be found in the Faculty of Arts and Science, in the Faculty of Law, and in graduate studies. The first year is limited in the Faculty of Medicine to 64 and in the Faculty of Applied Science to about 300 students but no numerical limitation has been imposed on entrance to other faculties. However, though these limitations exist, there were last fall no fully qualified applicants in any faculty turned away. Our increase in earlier years was between 4 and 5 per cent, but this year it is more than 8 per cent.

The mounting pressure of student numbers has made necessary the addition of new members of staff, particularly in junior positions, and we have been able to add senior professors for work in special fields. Among the appointments of most interest are those of Dr. R. B. Lynn as associate professor in charge of cardiovascular surgery and Dr. R. F. Hetherington as assistant professor in charge of neurosurgery. These appointments greatly increase the teaching, research and hospital services of this important department and bring highly qualified specialists to the service of the community.

A phase of university work which has recently shown great growth is that of the Summer School. Kingston has obvious advantages over other Canadian cities for summer work and the Summer School has always been an important project. It has increased in numbers. Last summer there were over 1,100 students in all categories. The number taking work toward a degree has risen and there has been marked increase in the number of secondary school teachers returning to the University to improve their standing in the subjects which they are teaching. This is work of the greatest value to the schools.

The University activity most visible to my fellow Kingstonians is the present building programme. Over the past fifteen months, we have had at least three substantial buildings under construction at one time, and we expect to have three more being built over the next eight months. A new men's residence on the Leonard Field, Morris Hall, has been in use since September. The architect, Mr. Marshall, and the contractor, Mr. Andre, are to be congratulated on their work and the building has been much praised by visitors from other universities for its careful planning and attractive decoration. Etherington Hall on Stuart Street is a building for use in the clinical subjects in Medicine. It too is a fine building which owes much to the good work of Drever and Smith and T. A. Andre and Sons. It is practically finished and in use though some of the research space has still to be equipped. Ellis Hall on University Avenue for Engineering is also practically completed and will be in use in the second term though much laboratory equipment will not be in place until the summer. The architect has contributed a very attractive and efficient design and M. Sullivan and Son have ensured excellent workmanship.

A third men's residence is taking shape on Queen's Crescent at the top of the Leonard Field. It will be larger than the other units and will provide a dining hall for the use of all men in residence. When it is completed on September 1 next, we will have residence accommodation for about 600 men. The building, of which the steel has now been erected on University Avenue, is to house the School of Commerce, the departments of Political Science, Economics, Industrial Relations and other related subjects. It is to be named Dunning Hall for the late Chancellor Dunning. We have advertised for tenders for a new women's residence to be built on Stuart Street and we hope to be able to let a contract early in January.

We have no other building projects planned at the moment but there will be a number of others which involve some extensions to present buildings and remodelling of existing structures. We are not likely to undertake additional large buildings immediately.

The need for our present large building programme arises in part from the greater number of students here and expected. It also reflects from the need for up-to-date, specialized space to meet the heightened requirements of present-day university work and, particularly, of more advanced work in all subjects. The student in 1958 requires much greater laboratory and library space, more elaborately equipped, than his predecessor in 1938. Further, we are now able to get funds to do things which ought to have been done twenty years ago.

It is fortunate that we have been able to fit so much building into the business recession of the last eighteen months and while in part this has been mere coincidence, in part it has been the result of good planning and hard driving. Our sense of urgency has been justified, for in meeting our needs we have been able during this period to make a sizeable contribution to employment in Kingston.

All universities are under great pressure these days to enlarge and improve their facilities and staff. We are fully alert to the heightened public interest of the last few years in the importance of university education. It seems certain that the university will continue to grow and there are areas of study in which we can with advantage to ourselves accept more students. We have, however, no intention of expanding the University to the point where there is serious congestion and deterioration of instruction, nor to the point where the advantages of a compact, unified university would disappear. Fortunately, we do not expect to experience as great an impact from the expansion of popula-

An Appreciation

JAMES MILLER

by James A. Roy

Dr. James Miller, late Professor of Pathology at Queen's University, died at Painswick, Gloucestershire, on September 21, at the age of eighty-two years.

Born in Edinburgh of distinguished medical stock, James Miller was educated at the famous Edinburgh Academy (of which school a former lecturer in History at Queen's, R. C. Watt, is now Headmaster), and at Edinburgh University. One of the highest recommendations Dr. Miller could give any distinguished person was, "He is an old Academy boy." Graduating in Science in 1896 and in Medicine, with Honours, in 1899, Dr. Miller was elected a Member and later, a Fellow of the Royal College of Physicians. In 1903 he received the degree of M.D. with Gold Medal for his thesis. After a resident appointment at Edinburgh Royal Infirmary, he served as assistant surgeon with the Edinburgh and East of Scotland Hospital in the South African War. He early devoted his life to pathology and bacteriology, in which he was for seven years lecturer in Birmingham University, where he was granted the degree of D.Sc. Later he was lecturer in the same subject at Edinburgh University and in the School of Medicine of the Royal Colleges of Edinburgh. In 1920 he was appointed Professor of Pathology in Queen's University and occupied that Chair until his retirement in 1946. For some years he was consultant in pathology for the Department of Health, Province of Ontario. On his return to England he eventually settled in Gloucestershire.

Dr. Miller published a large number of scientific papers and pamphlets. But he was not only a man of science who kept himself abreast of modern research; he was interested in other fields of intellectual and spiritual endeavour. His father, Mr. A. G. Miller, a well-known surgeon in Edinburgh Royal Infirmary in the 1880's and 1890's, was a devoted supporter of the Edinburgh Medical Missionary Society, and this interest his son inherited. His grandfather attended Queen Victoria when she was in the Scottish capital and collaborated with Sir James Young Simpson who first introduced chloroform to the scientific world. He was one of the "guinea pigs" before the effects of chloroform were fully understood and Dr. Miller used to tell how Lady Simpson coming into her house one day was horrified to discover three or four of the most distinguished and most highly respected medical men apparently in a drunken stupor on the floor. One of these gentlemen was Dr. Miller's grandfather.

Dr. Miller was devoted to his work and to his students. He had the highest respect for their capacity and potentialities and spared himself no effort to further their interests. Although a Scot of the Scots James Miller threw himself

THE AUTHOR

Thirty years professor of English at Queen's, James A. Roy retired from the University staff in 1950. Now living in Edinburgh, Scotland, he is more active than ever, writing, speaking, lecturing, to say nothing of entertaining his many friends from Queen's and from Canada who beat a path to his door whenever the opportunity presents itself.

wholeheartedly into Canadian life and gave of his best to Queen's. He could be critical of certain aspects of Canadian life but he took an immense pride in the Dominion and was quietly happy to know that he was privileged to make his contribution towards its development. He was proud of his students and had not only their respect but their love, and in the wider affairs of the University his wise counsel was eagerly sought. He was a member of the Editorial Board of the Queen's Quarterly, a member of the Senatus, and made various contributions to the discussions of the Saturday Club of which, like T. R. Glover in a previous generation, he was a keen supporter. A quiet man, an unassuming man, with a caustic sense of humour all his own, James Miller was as true as the finest steel to his friends, a man of inflexible principle where he felt honour or truth or duty was concerned.

Dr. Miller was perhaps the most genuinely Scottish Scot I have ever known. A Lowland Scot, a "typical" Edinburgh man if you will. His mind had a peculiarly Scottish texture. No one could be in his company for more than a few minutes without realising he was a Scot, an educated Scot who was simply and unaffectedly Scottish. He was not what is commonly called a "wide" reader—which is sometimes simply another word for a superficial reader; his chosen authors were Scottish. Of these Scott and Buchan were his favourites. The more complex psychological writers like George Douglas Brown, "Lewis Grassie Gibbon," and "Hugh Macdiarmid" he did not read. These men raised disturbing problems and James Miller sought relaxation in his reading and found what he sought in Scott and Buchan. I do not think he would have been too happy in the industrialised and somewhat harassed Scotland of today, for Scotland was, and remained for him, a "kingdom of the mind." Scott made him a freeman of his Scotland and for that he loved his great fellow townsman "this side idolatry."

DR. JAMES MILLER

John Buchan brought with him a whiff of bog myrtle and wet heather and a breeze from the Scottish hills. Latterly I could almost have told you when James Miller had been reading "one of John Buchan's." He looked so restored and refreshed.

Dr. Miller carried his inherited Liberal traditions with him to Canada and remained a firm believer in the political wisdom of the Manchester Guardian. In matters political that great newspaper was for him the ultimate court of appeal. Even on Canadian issues he seemed to think in terms of Gladstonian liberalism. The son and the grandson of two prominent members of the Free Church of Scotland, it was natural that Dr. Miller should be a member of Chalmers' Church in Kingston. He was no conventional church-goer and denominational formalism made no appeal to him. But he was a man of deep religious convictions; one felt his religion. Like Sir Wilfred Grenfell in modern times and like Sir Thomas Browne in an older age, he saw no real conflict between science and religion, between inner spiritual conviction and the progressive revelations of scientific discovery.

When Dr. Miller left Kingston it was a sad blow to his many friends in the city. The Millers' home was one of the happiest. Dr. Miller was a dignified host; his wife a most delightful and entertaining hostess. A welcoming hospitality was part of his religion—religion translated into activity. He was intensely happy in his home life and some of that happiness his guests took away with them. I have suggested that he might not have been too happy if he had settled in Scotland, or even in his native Edinburgh. But there was one spot in Scotland where he did find happiness. That was in a lovely part of the Highlands not far from Braemar. The Millers had a lovely summer home there. They went there until the distance from the south of England became too great. The last time I was there Dr. Miller and I walked slowly up the winding path through the pine woods behind the house. We turned to come down the hill again just as dusk began to fall. The deer had come down in search of fodder and the air was filled with their discordant baying. But it did not sound discordant in that setting. It was very quiet; even the baying of the deer seemed part of the silence, neither of us spoke. I knew the Millers had decided to sell the house. They were leaving for the South in a day or two. Dr. Miller stood as if unable to tear himself away from his beloved hills and drank and drank in the air as if he would never stop. And not one word was spoken between us until we got home.

The last time I saw Dr. Miller was in Edinburgh. He was very frail. He accompanied me to the door of the hotel where he was staying for a day or two with Mrs. Miller, and as he shook hands with me, he said very quietly: "I shall not be back. I shall not be back."

But I always felt that James Miller, like James Barrie, for all the years he had spent away from it, had never really been away from Scotland. He had never really left his "kingdom of the mind."

Alex Edmison Leaves Queen's

• Alex. Edmison is leaving Queen's. After nine years at the University as Assistant to the Principal and Director of Endowment and Public Relations, Mr. Edmison goes to Ottawa in February to become a member of Canada's first National Parole Board. His ten-year appointment to the four-member board was announced on January 7 by Justice Minister Fulton.

It was in the fall of 1923 that Mr. Edmison came to Queen's as a student; in the following spring he made his first tour of Kingston Penitentiary. During the subsequent thirty-five years his life has been marked by a continued and expanding interest in the University and in penal reform.

He took his Law degree at McGill, and at the time of his enlistment in 1940 he was a lawyer and city alderman in Montreal. His post-war service with UNRRA in Europe won citations from Generals Eisenhower and DeGaulle.

Even after his return to Queen's, Mr. Edmison remained active in the reorganization and direction of prison after-care societies, notably the John Howard Society. In 1954 he was appointed to the Fauteaux Commission which presented the government with forty-four penological recommendations. One result is the new Parole Board which replaces the sixty-year-old remission service.

J. Alex. Edmison has been not only an outstanding individual, but always a loyal Queen's man as was his father before him. Since his appointment to the University in 1950, he has carried the word of Queen's to hundreds of prospective students and has sparked a new enthusiasm in alumni across the country. He was the University Liaison Officer in the recent successful $4,000,000 drive for the National Fund. In all his travels and in all his contacts, "J.A.E." has been the articulate ambassador of goodwill for Queen's, and no matter where the future takes him, he'll always be a member of the team as Permanent President of Arts '26.

Department of Chemistry

• One hundred and five years ago some lectures were given on "Non-metallic Elements and Their Compounds" and the one-man Department of Chemistry was launched at Queen's College.

In the session 1958-1959, twelve undergraduate and seven graduate courses taught by eleven members of staff are listed under the heading "Chemistry" in the University Calendar. From its humble beginning to its present status as one of the most highly regarded departments in the country, the story of Chemistry at Queen's is one of consistent success.

Chemistry was first offered as a subject at Queen's in 1854 when the founding of the Faculty of Medicine made it essential. It was in 1858 that Dr. George Lawson, a distinguished scientist from Edinburgh, was appointed first Professor of Chemistry and Natural History, the latter probably being botany and zoology. From the records it is known that both teacher and subject were held in high esteem, for Lawson's salary was $1700, $200 more than any other professor was receiving at the time. Also of note is the fact that a student of Professor Lawson's won the first medal in Chemistry in 1859, a medal made of aluminium, a newly discovered and precious metal costing seventeen dollars per ounce.

A serious disagreement between two members of staff in 1856 brought about

This article is taken from material compiled by R. L. Dorrance, M.A., for the "Journal of the Royal Institute of Chemistry." Mr. Dorrance, author of several texts on general and analytical chemistry, has been on the faculty of Queen's since 1920 and now holds the position of Professor of Chemistry.

a long series of court actions and much friction within the University. As a result, Dr. Lawson resigned to accept the Professorship of Chemistry at Dalhousie University. In his place came Robert Bell, C.E., F.C.S., F.G.S., as Professor of Natural History in the Faculty of Arts and Professor of both Chemistry and Practical Chemistry in the Faculty of Medicine. Queen's was a smaller world in 1864.

By 1860 Chemistry had become the most ambitious subject in the University; in fact, the syllabus for that year devoted four pages to Chemistry—more space than was taken by all other subjects in Arts, Theology and Medicine combined. The University's second building, "New Hall," built mainly for the Faculty of Medicine, provided room for chemical laboratories where, according to the syllabus, "each pupil receives his instruction independently and not as a member of a class." Professor Lawson's syllabus went on to say—with a rather modern accent: "The class for Practical Chemistry will be conducted in the laboratory under the personal superintendence of the Professor. All necessary apparatus, material for examination and reagents are supplied free of expense. The student performs every experiment." Last year the professors' "personal superintendence" was shared by twelve graduate and nine undergraduate tutors.

A special feature of the Department at that time was a course in Agricultural Chemistry which covered such vocational subjects as brewing, distillation, and tanning. During the long dry spell last summer it might have been observed that a few members of the Chemistry Department had preserved at least two of these fine old arts.

In 1868 Dr. Bell left the department to become Professor of Geology, and in his place was appointed one of Queen's most illustrious graduates—young Nathan Dupuis, M.A., F.B.S. (Edinburgh). He was born on a farm near Kingston, had little schooling as a boy, and was apprenticed to a clockmaker here in the city. He took instruction at Queen's at every opportunity and was appointed "observer" by Professor Williamson in 1863.

Here was a man of real versatility: having joined the staff as Professor of Chemistry and Natural History, Professor Dupuis retired in 1894 as Professor of Mathematics and became Dean of the Faculty of Practical Science. Many of the wooden crystal models he built are still in use in Miller Hall and the clock he built in Grant Hall's tower still ticks away the school terms on at least one face.

The year 1901 was a big one for Chemistry. Owing to the expansion of the Faculty of Medicine, more accommodation was needed for sciences, and, through the generosity of Kingstonian John Carruthers, Carruthers Hall was built expressly to house all the teaching of science. New laboratories, lecture rooms and offices were provided for the Chemistry Department, according to a glowing account in the Queen's Calendar of autumn 1891.

DR. W. L. GOODWIN

Three years later a new Faculty of Practical Science, forerunner of the present Faculty of Applied Science, was announced and courses leading to a B.Sc. degree in Chemistry and Mineralogy were outlined. There is a story behind Chemistry's branching out this way into the Faculty of Science. The area north of Kingston was known to be a veritable storehouse of valuable minerals that could be developed only by personnel trained in Mineralogy, Geology, and Mining Engineering. Principal Grant and his staff, convinced that Queen's was the institution best equipped to provide this training, instituted a campaign. Success came in 1893 when the School of Mining was established with W. L. Goodwin as its Director. Gradually other courses in Civil Engineering, Metallurgical Engineering, and finally Chemical Engineering were included until the Faculty of Practical Science became in 1913 the Faculty of Applied Science. Thus the Department of Chemistry, which was necessitated by the Faculty of Medicine, gradually came to provide instruction in all three faculties.

DR. A. C. NEISH

In the meantime, William Goodwin, a native of Baie Verte, N.B., had been very active on the campus scene. He was another man of remarkable versatility. First appointed Professor of Chemistry and Mineralogy in 1883, he became director of the School of Mining in 1893, Dean of Science in 1911, and finally first Dean of the present Faculty of Applied Science in 1916. In collaboration with professors W. G. Miller and William Nicol, he made valuable contributions to the development of the silver, nickle, cobalt and gold mining industry of Northern Ontario.

Other names which figure prominently in the history of this department under Dean Goodwin are those of Dr. John Waddell, in charge of quantitative analysis, 1899-1921; Dr. W. D. Bonner, teacher of qualitative analysis, 1909-1915; and Dr. W. O. Walker, professor of organic chemistry, 1907-1918.

In 1919 Dr. Arthur C. Neish, a native Kingstonian and a Queen's graduate, succeeded Dr. Goodwin as head of the Department. He will be long remembered for his particular success as a lecturer in Freshman Chemistry during the influx of post-war students and for his memorable lecture demonstrations. It has been said that many men now occupying important posts in the industrial and teaching fields received their inspiration in Dr. Neish's lectures. Another notable personage is Dr. John McRae, emeritus professor of Chemistry and distinguished Queen's graduate of '09, who in 1941 became head of the Department. Upon his retirement he also held the position of director of graduate research. The recipient of an LL.D. from his Alma Mater in 1956, Dr. McRae was the inspiration of many honours students, among them Dr. Leo Marion, Sc. '27, director of the Division of Pure Chemistry at N.R.C. who was recently awarded an LL.D. by the University of Ottawa.

The present head of the Department of Chemistry is Grenville B. Frost, B.A. (Toronto), Ph.D. (California), who was appointed in 1956. This year marks his thirty-fifth with the faculty of Queen's. In his field of Quantitative Analysis and Physical Chemistry, Dr. Frost has directed the studies of a considerable number of graduate students and has organized a well-equipped laboratory to conduct research involving inorganic hydrates and the field of absorption.

In 1921 a research professorship had been founded by G. Y. Chown, Registrar and Treasurer of Queen's. Today this chair is held by one of the most brilliant men in Dr. Frost's department—Dr J. K. N. Jones, recognized authority in the field of carbohydrate chemistry and a Fellow of the Royal Society. Since his appointment in 1953 his important contributions to this field of research have won him an enthusiastic group of graduate students plus grants from the Banting Research Foundation and the National Research Council.

In addition to Drs. Frost and Jones, the staff includes the following men: L. A. Munro, M.A., Ph.D., F.R.S.C., F.C.I.C., in charge of Qualitative Anal-

Smith, B.Sc., Ph.D., F.C.I.C., in Physical Chemistry especially in the fields of Electrochemistry and Kinetics, and R. Y. Moir, M.A. (Queen's), Ph.D., whose special interest lies in organic syntheses and stereochemistry. Assistant Professors are K. E. Russell, M.A., Ph.D., investigating reactions involving free radicals; R. C. Wheeler, M.Sc. (Queen's), Ph.D., who has made studies in shock waves and ionization in flames; W. G. Breck, M.Sc. (Queen's), Ph.D., who is engaged particularly in the determination of transport numbers and electrochemistry; and R. A. Stairs, M.Sc., Ph.D., presently engaged in a study of surface phenomena in salt solutions. Lecturer this year is M. B. Perry, B.Sc., Ph.D.

From its modest beginnings with ten students and one building, Queen's University has developed into one of the leading Canadian universities, one well-known and highly regarded internationally. The Department of Chemistry has grown along with Queen's in size and in reputation, and this year its post-graduate group is drawn from countries as widely separated as the U.K. and India. According to figures published in the December issue of Chemistry in Canada, the Queen's group of twenty-nine postgraduates is topped only by U.B.C. (42), Alberta (39), and Toronto (33). This means that on a per capita basis, Queen's post-graduate enrolment in Chemistry is Canada's highest.

During the last ten years Kingston has developed into a chemical centre, and among the developments of major importance in this field are the Research Laboratories of Aluminium Limited, the Nylon Plant and Textile Research Centre at Du Pont of Canada, and the Terylene Research Laboratory of Canadian Industries Limited. The completion of the St. Lawrence Seaway and Power Project will bring even higher industrialization to the St. Lawrence Valley and to Kingston, and since chemistry is so vitally linked with industrialization, it will be interesting to note the effect that these changes will surely have upon Queen's and upon her Department of Chemistry in particular.

Today there are eighteen graduate students engaged in research in the Gordon Hall Extension alone, men ranging from post-doctoral fellows to recent Queen's graduates working toward their master's degree. Under the supervision of Dr. Jones, these scientists are looking for answers to two particular questions—How can the sugar manufactured by beets and cane be converted into nylon, terylene, or some new industrial product? How can the waste products of the manufacture of paper be put to profitable uses? Both wood and sugar are undergoing exhaustive research in connection with these and several related problems.

For many years the staff has encouraged qualified students to return for a year of graduate study and qualify for the Master's degree. Further encouragement is given graduate researchers in the form of money from the University, N.R.C., the Ontario Research Foundation, Shell Oil, C.I.L., Inco, Cominco, Milton Hersey, William Neish, and R. S. McLaughlin. Since 1920 almost two hundred Masters' degrees have been awarded for work in the Department of Chemistry, and the number of Ph.D. students increases since the first doctorate was awarded in 1956.

Born as an accessory to the Faculty of Medicine, the Department of Chemistry has certainly come into its own. At the present time, instruction is given in organic, inorganic, and physical chemistry to first and second medical students and in all branches of chemistry to students registered in the Faculties of Applied Science and Arts and Science.

The accomplishment of the Department would be almost impossible to estimate; equally immeasurable will be the effect on the Chemistry Department of local and world-wide developments in the field of science. What, then, can be said of its past? Something which Dr. Leonard Brockington, Rector of Queen's, once said of the whole University may well be applied to her Department of Chemistry: "It has been distinguished by an apostolic succession of great teachers and a noble array of graduates." As for tomorrow, a wise man has said that the future belongs to the thing that can grow.

The late Victor E. Bullock is shown at work on one of his pet projects, the Science Club of Glebe Collegiate. For twenty years he devoted his after-school hours to this organization, said to be a model of its kind. It was, as one former student recalls, an "enriched curriculum."

Bullock Memorial Scholarship

One of the best-loved teachers of the staff of Glebe Collegiate Institute, Ottawa, Ontario, the late Victor E. Bulloch, B.A. '22, M.A. '23, has been honoured with an annual memorial scholarship, first of its kind offered in the school's thirty-six-year history.

The V. E. Bulloch Memorial Award for excellence in chemistry was recently presented for the first time. The winner was Norman Rice, now a first-year student at Queen's.

A large number of Glebe alumni, many of them graduates of Queen's, have fond recollections of Mr. Bulloch. He was a member of the Science staff at Glebe since 1923 and head of the Department for fifteen years. For twenty years he devoted his after-school hours to his pet project, the Science Club. A model for all other organizations of its type, the club went well beyond the confines of upper school chemistry. It was, as one former student recalls, an "enriched curriculum."

Soon after his death in October, 1956, associates began working for a suitable memorial to the science teacher. A committee was set up, a letter was sent out to all Glebe alumni, former staff members, and others closely associated with the school. The response was immediate and impressive, and one-third of the objective has now been obtained.

It is interesting to note that all members of the award committee are graduates of Queen's: Dr. R. P. Graham (chairman), McMaster University; G. W. Motherwell, head of the Science Department at Glebe; Dr. R. A. B. Barnard, Defence Research Board, Ottawa; Dr. D. J. Dewar, Atomic Energy Control Board, Ottawa; A. R. Hazelgrove, Du Pont Research Centre, Kingston.

The committee is still actively soliciting funds and would be pleased to hear from any Glebe graduates who are interested. Communications should be addressed to G. W. Motherwell, Glebe Collegiate Institute, Ottawa, Ontario.

Edited Book on Arts. The Arts in Canada, edited by Professor Malcolm Ross and sponsored by The Canadian Conference of the Arts, has just been published by Macmillans of Toronto. The book is intended as a representative rather than a comprehensive appraisal of the state of Canadian arts from 1945 up until the present. It features more than one hundred illustrations in addition to critical articles on every branch of the arts by experts in the respective fields. Among the contributors are Queen's professors Andre Bieler and Glen Shortliffe.

Appointed to Board. Dr. A. R. M. Lower, Douglas Professor of Canadian History at Queen's, has been appointed a member of the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada. He has been at Queen's since 1947, the year he first won the Governor General's Medal for historical writing. His recently published book, Canadians in the Making: a Social History of Canada, has met with the usual furore accorded the publications of Canada's "Angry Old Man."

Technician Honoured. A Kingston man's enthusiasm, skill, and devotion to duty so impressed his associates that an important medical laboratory has been named after him. Dean G. H. Ettinger has announced that the teaching lab in the new physiology building has been named after the late Jack Patterson. Jack came to Queen's after graduating from K.C.V.I. in 1940 and worked as a research technician under Dr. Ettinger. He died last April in his late thirties. This frail-looking man who was an invaluable member of the Physiology Department will be warmly remembered and mourned by graduates of the past eighteen years.

Women's Residence. Work is expected to begin this month on the proposed third women's residence on Stuart Street. Plans are for a T-shaped, five-storey, limestone building with three "houses," one in each arm of the T. Each house will have a resident don and there will be one resident warden. Student bedrooms will occupy the top four storeys while the ground floor will consist of reading and recreation rooms. Completion of this residence will mean that 400 co-eds will have the benefits of residence life.

Named Editor. Professor J. M. Blackburn, head of the Department of Psychology, has been named editor of the Canadian Journal of Psychology. Assistant editor is Dr. Henry James, assistant professor in the Department. Queen's Department of Psychology for the next five years will be in charge of publishing the journal, which is the official organ of the Canadian Psychological Association.

Teacher Returns. Dr. George Humphrey, for twenty-five years head of the departments of Philosophy and Psychology at Queen's, is returning to Kingston next summer to teach a psychology course at Queen's Summer School. After retiring from Queen's in 1947, Dr. Humphrey was appointed first professor of Psychology at Oxford University, England. He recently retired from active teaching.

Receive Microscope. A $30,000 electron microscope has been given to Queen's by the National Research Council of Canada for use in the scientific research departments of the Faculty of Medicine. Under the direction of Dr. R. M. More, head of the Department of Pathology, the microscope is being used at present to study kidney diseases and several kinds of tumours. This electron microscope, capable of magnifications of 200,000 times, has been called one of the most significant advances in medical research in the last ten years. Other doctors using the machine for research are Drs. Douglas Waugh; D. M. Robertson; G. F. Kipkie, Med. '39; Howard Steele, Med. '44; and John Frei, Med. '56.

To Extend Gym. Plans for a small two-storey addition to the University's gymnasium are being prepared by Kingston architect Logan V. Gallaher to make possible a much-needed reorganization of facilities. The budget will also provide for larger dressing rooms, foldaway spectator stands, and a folding door for the main gymnasium.

Play Televised. The Queen's Drama Guild recently scored another "first." In co-operation with the local TV station CKWS, members of the Drama Guild presented Kingston with its first live television drama. The play presented was Robertson Davies' Overlaid.

Elected Life Fellow. Professor William Angus, director of Drama at Queen's since 1937, has been elected a Life Fellow of the International Institute of Arts and Letters centred in Germany. Its purpose is world-wide co-operation in the cultivation and promotion of Arts, Letters, and Science.

Hap Shouldice Is Speaker At Ottawa Football Night

Football players past and present were featured at the Football Night put on by the Ottawa branch at the Assembly Hall in Lansdowne Park on December 2.

Members of the 1958 team on hand were Captain-elect Bill Truelove, Ross Arber, Bob Burleigh, Don McNay, Noel Rebick, and Team Manager Neil McNeill. Among the former players were three members of the Ottawa Rough Riders, Gary Schreider, Lou Bruce, and Ron Stewart, who brought as their guests team-mates Ted Smale and Kaye Vaughan.

Speaker of the evening was Hap Shouldice, senior official of the Big Four, who gave a refreshing comparison of American and Canadian professional football. He also described some interesting experiences as a referee in Big Four competition.

Football films of the past Intercollegiate season were shown, with the commentary provided by Neil McNeill. The programme also included a sumptuous smorgasbord.

Frank Macintyre, Sc. '49, former Queen's star, was convener of this highly successful event.

London Alumnae Hold Supper Meeting

A delightful supper meeting was held by the London alumnae at the home of Mrs. T. H. Lewis (Lois Craig), Arts '39, in November. Nineteen members were present.

Miss Clunas McKibbin, Arts '40, entertained with a lively description of her travels in Australia, illustrated with coloured pictures.

The president, Mrs. Mabel Anderson Fells, Arts '34, conducted a short business meeting, at which plans for the coming season were discussed.

HAMILTON ALUMNI DANCE

Three successful luncheon meetings were held by the Toronto alumni during the fall term, at Scott's "Coach Room," 7 King St. East. The schedule was as follows:

J. A. Edmison, Director of Endowment and Public Relations at Queen's—"Some Hints on Public Speaking"—October 9.

Col. Kurt R. Swinton, vice-president and managing director of Encyclopaedia Britannica, and chairman of the Canadian Conference on Education—"Education in a Divided World"—November 13.

Herbert A. Mowat, executive director of the Canada-Israel Association—December 11.

The next luncheon is scheduled for Thursday, February 12, and the speaker will be Prof. W. G. Leonard, Director of Professional Courses in the School of Commerce at Queen's.

Convener of the series is E. R. Quinn, Arts '55.

Fort Frances-Rainy River Graduates Hold Social Gathering

Graduates in the Fort Frances-Rainy River area held a social gathering at the home of Rev. L. H. Sanders, Arts '29, Theol. '32, and Mrs. Sanders in Fort Frances on December 1. Queen's colours and pennants decorated the room, while year books were available to revive memories of college days.

The evening was spent in an 'inter-faculty sports meet' between Arts, January, 1959

Medicine, and Science. Each faculty group chose contestants for the various events which bore familiar names, but called for strange execution. Each winner was greeted with his faculty yell. At the close of the meet, the Science representatives were declared the winners, with Arts second, and Medicine third.

A buffet lunch was served by the hostess. Mrs. Don Kincaid, wife of the "oldest grad," poured coffee.

Present, in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Sanders, were: Don Kincaid, Sc. '27, and Mrs. Kincaid, International Falls, Minn.; Ed Maybee, Arts '28, and Mrs. Maybee; Mrs. Callahan (Kathleen Morrison), Arts '36; Bob Martin, Arts '42, and Mrs. Martin; Mal Steele, Arts '42, and Mrs. Steele; Wes Dwyer, Sc. '49, and Mrs. Dwyer; Dr. S. F. Morrill, Med. '49, and Mrs. Morrill (Eleanor Maher), Arts '50, Jim Kirk, Sc. '50, and Mrs. Kirk, International Falls, Minn.; Gordon Rose, Arts '53, and Mrs. Rose; J. Maher, and Mrs. Maher (Ella Mae Moore), Arts '57.

To The Women Of Queen's

An Open Letter

From the Alumnae President

Mrs. W. J. Hyde

Happy New Year! We all say it and we all hope it will come true. But a year is a long time—365 days. Byron suggested a solution:

All who joy would win
Must share it—happiness was born a twin.

That is the thought I wish you would consider for Queen's in 1959. Not one of us but look back on our student days with pleasure. Let us share it with coming generations.

The report of the annual meeting of the Queen's University Alumnae Association was in the November issue of the Review. The new wing of Ban Righ is about to be started. Principal Mackintosh asked the Alumnae to be responsible for the furnishing. The annual meeting agreed to undertake this responsibility to the best of their ability. So I am appealing to the whole body of women graduates to help in the project over the next two years. It is not too difficult a task when assumed by the many. Already more than $8,000 has been subscribed to the New Women's Residence and the number participating was a very small percentage of our potential membership of 4,000.

As all donations are handled at the University by the Alumni Association, with which we are affiliated, your donation should be sent to the Alumni Fund either directly or through your Branch, specifying that it is for the furnishing of the New Women's Residence. The first $5.00 is retained by the Alumni for refunds to Branches and administrative expenses—all the rest is allotted to the project indicated.

The Queen's University Alumnae Association is only as strong as the individual members make it. As reports of participants in the Alumni Fund projects come to your Executive, it is most encouraging to know that so many are helping to carry the responsibility which we have undertaken as Women Graduates of Queen's. This is the beginning of a New Year. Do it now!

Prospect

tion as will fall on the large metropolitan universities. While the Queen's University of the future will be larger than it is today, I expect that it will be further down the scale of size among the universities of tomorrow than it is now. I expect that it will continue to be distinctive in character, drawing students from all parts of this country, emphasizing excellence and concentrating on those things which our position and tradition enable us to do best.

The year 1958 has been an extremely busy year but one is encouraged by evidence of worth-while accomplishment, of heightened intellectual interests among students, of lively and loyal activity of the teaching and research staff. We at the University look forward to 1959 as a year of promise.

The School of Nursing

141 Nurses Have Graduated

Since the School Was Opened

In 1942

by Cathy Perkins

A nurse who has a true appreciation of the value of the individual, who has a respect for education as a continuing process, and who respects and is respected by members of other professions — this is the product of the School of Nursing at Queen's University.

To date there have been one hundred and forty-one nurses who have graduated from the school; in another five years that number will have almost doubled. But the School of Nursing, like a good nurse, goes so quietly and efficiently about its work, with everything in such good order, that people outside hardly realize how much is being done.

And she's just a young thing, for it was in 1942 that Queen's opened its School of Nursing. The shortage of nurses now so keenly felt in Canada was becoming evident to far-sighted authorities. It was becoming apparent also that the nursing profession had not sufficient leaders with the special qualifications necessary to teach and supervise the student nurse, nor to meet the demands of the Public Health field.

In order to train nurses for these appointments, Queen's outlined a course leading to the degree of Bachelor of Nursing Science. The student in her final year was to choose a specialty — either Hospital Administration or Public Health Nursing.

Formation of this school was initiated by Principal Wallace, Dean Douglas, and Miss Acton of the Kingston General Hospital.

Dorothy M. Riches was appointed its first director in 1946 when she was discharged after four and a half years with the Canadian Army Medical Corps. Before joining the army, Lt. Col. Riches had graduated in Arts from the University of Saskatchewan, trained at the Royal Victoria Hospital in Montreal and taken postgraduate work in schools of nursing in England, Switzerland and Germany. The young school could not have been in more efficient hands. In 1951 Miss Riches retired from Queen's to become Mrs. Noel Catto, and she is now the proud co-owner of a successful turkey farm in Dewittville, P.Q.

Since 1942, several new and progressive steps have been taken by the school, and, as most of its graduates will tell you, a major step was the University's appointment to the staff in 1948 of Miss Jenny M. Weir, B.Sc., M.A., Reg. N.

Miss Weir, now Director of the School and an Associate Professor, is a native of British Columbia, but she went to the University of Alberta for her college training. With a degree of B.Sc. she returned to British Columbia to study Public Health Nursing. After completion of her studies at U.B.C. Miss Weir was appointed to the Metropolitan Health Committee of Vancouver. As an R.C.A.F. Nursing Sister from 1944 to 1946 she saw duty at several Canadian bases, but left the Air Force to continue her studies at Columbia University. The Teachers' College there awarded her an M.A. in 1947.

Miss Jenny M. Weir, Director of the School of Nursing, is shown in her office in the New Arts Building with Margaret Hooton, a student majoring in teaching and supervision and one of twenty-two nurses who will be graduating this spring. The essay under discussion is a sociological study which Miss Hooton was required to do of her home city of Peterborough.

It was in the autumn of 1948 that Miss Weir came to Queen's as a lecturer in Public Health. In 1951 she was named Acting Director of the School and the next year she became its Director, a position she has held capably and successfully ever since.

Miss Weir is one of the best known members of the Queen's staff owing to her active membership in several organizations, both local and provincial, and to her popularity as a speaker.

Her office is shared by Miss Evelyn Moulton, Assistant Professor of Nursing Education. Miss Moulton joined the University staff in 1952 with a fine collection of degrees. Born in Westport, Ontario, she trained at Kingston's Ontario Hospital and the Toronto General. She went on to earn a certificate in psychiatric nursing from the Toronto Psychiatric Hospital and another in Nursing Education from the University of Toronto. Miss Moulton proceeded to Queen's where she completed work for the degree of B.N.Sc. in 1950 while teaching part-time in the School of Nursing. Before she joined the staff permanently in 1952, Miss Moulton won her M.A. from the Teachers' College of Columbia University and a certificate from the Yale Institute of Alcohol Studies.

Under the supervision of these two well-qualified professors, the School of Nursing now offers a five-year undergraduate course leading to the degree of Bachelor of Nursing Science (B.N.Sc.) For graduate nurses there is a two-year degree course and other courses leading to a diploma (Dip.N.) in teaching and supervision in hospital schools and public health nursing.

At present, girls taking the five-year course spend the first year at the University taking courses in Arts, Science, and Medicine. The following three years are spent in practical training in nursing at one of eleven hospital training schools. The fifth year sees them back at Queen's for specialized training.

"But changes must be made soon in the curriculum," says Miss Weir, "for the school is in a stage of transition and enrolment is increasing. We'd like to use the resources of Queen's and Kingston even more than we do."

Miss Weir's idea is to keep her students more on campus. As it is, they are away at eleven hospital schools. This seriously reduces contact during those years.

"If our contact with the students were maintained," states Miss Weir, "They could progress at a quicker rate. We might even reduce the course to four years," she added.

Actually some gradual changes have been made in this direction over the past three years. First-year students have been given a chance to observe and begin their experience in actual nursing care in two Kingston hospitals. Then they report on their experience for class discussion.

As Miss Moulton puts it, "We feel that our students have a great understanding of people and their needs in a hospital. They shouldn't have to wait until they begin actual training to put this understanding and enthusiasm to use."

The School of Nursing awarded its first degrees in 1947 when three nurses graduated in teaching. They were Rhoda Marshall, Mrs. Margaret Stevens Kaiser, now living in England, and Mrs. Jo-Ann Langdon Woods, now settled in Marysville with a family of four.

Now there are 141 graduates scattered to the four winds with that Queen's tradition "which sweeps and sweetens the dusty and the musty places." Mrs. Laura Larmour Adeney, '52, is living in Tel Aviv after teaching for some time in Nazareth; Mrs. Valerie Hora Tveit has gone to Norway with her husband;

MISS EVELYN MOULTON

Margaret Vogan, '55, is on the staff of a Bermudan Hospital; and Margaret Drew, '57, is many miles north of her in Derry, Northern Ireland. Just down in Leeds, England, is Mrs. Mary Gibbs Hazell, '56.

Many other alumnae of the School of Nursing have emigrated to the U.S.A. Among them are Mrs. Barbara Price Hawkins, '53, of Bronxville, N.Y.; Mrs. Helen Devlin Cameron, '49, whose husband Alan of Sc. '49 is at the U.S.A.F. Institute of Technology in Dayton, Ohio; Mrs. Helen Gilmour Kalfras, '53, married to a neurosurgeon in Youngstown, Ohio; and Mrs. Catherine Vaughan Whelen, also '53, of Baltimore, Maryland.

A surprising number, though, have stayed in Kingston or else returned here. An early graduate, Mary Dingwall of '48, is married to Dr. H. D. Steele of the University's Department of Pathology. Her fellow-classmate, Jean Godard, has been science instructor at Kingston General Hospital for the past nine years. Sister Mary Coderre, '49, is Associate Director of Nursing Education at the Hotel Dieu. Mrs. Velma Johnson Vosper, who graduated the following year, spent a while at the Toronto Sick Children's Hospital before returning to Kingston three years ago to become nursing supervisor at the Angada Children's Hospital. Another graduate now in Kingston is Mrs. Grace Scott Shackell, '55, who was in Ireland with the Dufferin County Health Unit. Barbara Chase, '49, has returned not only to Kingston but to Queen's where she is doing post-graduate work in psychology.

Then too there is a fair distribution in Canada apart from Kingston. To mention just a few, in the west are: Marion Sundberg, '49, of Panoka, Alberta; Marie Holaday of Yorkton, Saskatchewan, and Mrs. Edna Haussler of Vancouver, B.C. — both members of '51; and Mary Roberts, '56, of Winnipeg, Manitoba.

wood Dolman of '48 is on the staff of the School of Nursing at Assumption University but is commuting to Wayne University for her M.A. studies. Lorna Churchill of '54 is teaching obstetrical nursing at Queen Elizabeth Hospital, Toronto. Up in Ottawa with the City Health Department is Jean Moyan of '48. Farther east in Cornwall is Sister Audrey Mantle, '50, who is an instructor at the Hotel Dieu. And the women of Queen's are represented even on the Ontario "frontier" of Elliot Lake. They are both members of '53 — Mrs. Winefride (Freddie) Drover Thompson and Mrs. Moe Farrell (Virginia Hamilton).

The school's exports to Quebec include Mrs. Isabel Milligan MacKenzie of '53, now working in Quebec City, Mrs. D. B. Jennings (Gail Richardson) '57, Carly Peplar '58, and Norma Churchill, '58.

Scattered as they are, though, these alumnae manage to keep in touch with each other and with the school through a periodical newsletter edited by Sylvia Mountney with the willing assistance of Genny Fawcett.

Did you notice how often "Mrs." appeared in this brief cross-section? Though it is perhaps no reflection on the super-powers of the school, Miss Weir notes that over 65 per cent of her graduates have married and that they all claim that their course was excellent training for marriage.

"Of course," she adds, "the School of Nursing seems to attract fine girls who are genuinely understanding and interested in people. Miss Moulton and I can hardly believe it when each new class seems as fine as last year's."

At present there are 112 girls enrolled in the school. Only fifty-three are on campus, and the other fifty-nine are at various hospital schools. Of this number the school expects to have fifteen degree students and seven diploma students at Spring Convocation. As for next fall, there are already commitments to twenty-five degree students and applications from diploma students are still coming in.

Since 1952 the two-year degree course for graduate nurses has been steadily strengthened. According to Miss Moulton, the school gets a fine type of nurse for this course. "We consider carefully their hospital school record," she says, "but we also insist upon senior matriculation. We feel that our girls should have the minimum qualifications of other students on the campus."

"The professional nurse requires more than practical training," continues Miss Moulton. "She needs a liberal education that includes offerings from the humanities, biological, physical and social sciences, nursing and the allied arts. Then", says Professor Moulton, "her practice will be based on real understanding, sound reasoning, and thoughtful planning."

To this end the School of Nursing has nineteen officers of instruction from the three faculties, and is affiliated with three Kingston hospitals — the General, the Hotel Dieu, and the Ontario—the Public Health Department, the V.O.N., Sunnyside Children's Centre, and the Ongwanada Sanatorium.

As director of the school, Miss Weir sums up the case this way: "Nursing is concerned with the care of the sick, prevention of disease, and the promotion of health, mental as well as physical. New and changing needs call for special preparation, knowledge, and skills that may take years to acquire. If Queen's School of Nursing can give its students an understanding of the immense satisfaction there is in helping people to stay well and in giving comfort to so many people in so many circumstances, then we have fulfilled our purpose."

SOCIAL WORKER

● A romance born in Toronto's Chinese community has made a little Queen's alumna one of the most active figures in Ontario's largest Chinese group outside Toronto. She is Mrs. Ronald Con who graduated from Queen's in 1956 as Pauline Lai.

The couple met during Chinatown's first United Appeal tour while Mr. Con was in second year Theology and Pauline was studying at Toronto's School of Social Work.

They now live in Sudbury where Mr. Con is the first Chinese pastor ministering to a non-Chinese congregation. Mrs. Con works with the Children's Aid Society and bears one of the heaviest case loads in the city. Somehow, both of them find some free time, and as much of it as possible is spent helping the local Chinese women's group.

It was only in 1947 that Chinese citizens were allowed to bring their wives to Canada, and their arrival in Sudbury was rapid and confusing. Today the Chinese wives are well-organized, and Pauline has been most helpful in teaching them English, helping them to adjust to life in such a new environment, and instructing them in Christianity. The community in Sudbury now numbers over four hundred.

The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Con are a couple popular with all ages in the city. Pauline is the daughter of a Hong Kong doctor and was the third member of her family to come to Canada to study. She chose an Arts course at Queen's followed by a year at the School of Social Work because she planned to return to her native China as a social worker. "We are badly needed in Hong Kong with the present poor conditions intensified by mainland refugees," she says.

Cosmopolitan Pauline finds time to look after her husband, her home, and her fellow Chinese, but confesses that she had to come to Canada to learn many old Chinese customs. But anywhere she goes, this sympathetic young woman will find problems that need coping with, so that plans for returning home to China become more and more indefinite for Mrs. Con as she and her husband are assigned increasingly important roles in the community life of Sudbury.

AFRICAN WILD LIFE

●Did you know that this is a wonderful time of year to be in Africa, that land teeming with adventure, amazing sights, and strange contrasts? To "Tim" Smith, sitting in an office in Blenheim, Ontario, Africa must seem a million miles away and the snows of Kilimanjaro must have more appeal than the snows of Western Ontario.

"Tim" is the head of the Smith family, probably the most widely travelled family in Blenheim, and father of three sons and a daughter who haven't yet run out of tales to tell their new Canadian-born friends. L. M. A. Smith, Sc. '36, after a long residence in Africa as a mining engineer, has returned to Canada with his wife (Evelyn Shillington), Arts '35, and family, loaded with enthusiasm and a very exciting scheme. Tim wants to share his experience of the "dark continent" by making East Africa the new adventureland for holidaying Canadians.

Just a hundred years ago East Africa was a totally unexplored wilderness. Today it is still a place of primitive native tribes and vast herds of wild game as plentiful as the buffalo were on the American prairies a century ago. But it is also a land of modern cities and skyscrapers, of well-tended tea and coffee plantations, a land where the clicking of cameras is a more familiar sound than the echoing boom of a big-game rifle.

According to Mr. Smith, the combination ensures an unforgettable holiday for any Canadian, and he is currently promoting an adventurous tour that a few years ago would have been within the reach of only the very wealthy. With a partner, Ted Robertson, Mr. Smith has established a firm called African Wild Life Safaris for the express purpose of encouraging Canadian visitors to take an exciting and widely-varied look at Africa — its wildlife, its natives, and its breath-taking scenery.

While Tim is in North America promoting his East African holiday-land,

Three eland, odd animals much resembling cows, graze peacefully with zebras on a treeless plain in East Africa, land of strange contrasts where cameras outnumber guns on safari.

A FARIS

Ted Robertson, an experienced hunter and "Man of Africa," is managing actual tours of the area from Nairobi, Kenya. They have set up facilities for a variety of trips — from two weeks to a month for parties of one to four people. Transportation is provided in special four-wheel-drive station wagons or in five-ton trucks loaded with full equipment for life "on safari." In this land of contrasts, they also offer a choice of nights on the African veldt under canvas or in comfortable hotels and safari lodges in the National Parks of Crown Game Reserves.

"On one of these tours," says Mr. Smith, "a photographer can come within easy shooting range of many wild animals. There are even tripod brackets on the hatch of the station wagons for steadying a camera. Of course, taking pictures of the most ferocious of our beasts is quite safe from a station wagon. In the car or on foot, though, you can rely fully on the expert knowledge of the White Hunter guiding you."

If asked to mention some of the highlights of his remarkable Africa, Mr. Smith would probably list these features:

- Ngorongoro Crater, the world's largest, over 2,000 feet deep and fifteen miles across, a scenic wonder filled with teeming thousands of buffalo, elephants, wildebeestes, eland, zebras, and gazelles, to mention a few.

- The descendants of the Maneaters of Tsavo, lions that ate railway workers so fast in the 1890's that they halted construction work.

- The snows of Kilimanjaro, Africa's highest peak, towering 19,340 feet over the veldt.

- Flocks of hundreds of thousands of spectacular flamingoes and four hundred varieties of other jungle birds, great and small.

- Native African tribes dancing ritual tribal dances in their own primitive villages.

Tim Smith, Canadian partner of African Wild Life Safaris, holds a drum, knife, and shield made by natives of the East African adventure-land he is boosting from Blenheim, Ontario.

- The vast treeless Serengeti Plains, a 5,500 square mile wild life sanctuary where herds of game in the hundreds of thousands migrate twice a year.

Mr. Smith became a strong advocate of the preservation of African animal life, and before his return to Canada he was a trustee of the Tanganyika National Parks. During his career as an engineer in Africa, he became familiar with such story-book sights as Lake Victoria, source of the historic Nile; thousands of crocodiles and schools of hippos in the Nile's shallows; the Great Rift Valley, a remnant of pre-historic Africa dotted with hot springs, steam vents, lakes, and not-long-inactive volcanic peaks; the Mountains of the Moon and the Palace of the Kabaka of Buganda.

"If those things aren't enough to crowd into a month," laughs Mr. Smith, "it is possible to arrange a few days of big-game hunting, deep-sea fishing, trout fishing, or mountain climbing.

Around the CAMPUS

Plaque Unveiled. The memory of the late Dr. Frederick Etherington was honoured on February 7 when E. C. Gill, chairman of the Board of Trustees, unveiled a plaque in Etherington Hall, the new University-Hospital building on Stuart Street. The large bronze memorial bears the words: "This building is named for Frederick Etherington, CMG, M.D., LL.D., 1878-1955, anatomist, surgeon, soldier, dean of medicine, laconic in speech, swift in decision, benefactor, and for thirty-eight years a loyal servant to this university."

Sports Picture Brightens. The Queen's sports picture is looking very bright this winter. On February 1 four Queen's men won the Intercollegiate Badminton Championship, upsetting Varsity, 19-17. The team won all four doubles matches and three of four singles on Saturday to go with twelve victories in sixteen games Friday. . . . On the same week-end, Jim Jackson of the ski team captured top individual honours at Carleton University's revived invitational ski meet. The Queen's ski team under Jake Edwards placed second in the five-team meet. . . . On February 7 the girls' badminton team smashed its way to fifteen straight victories to walk off with Queen's second intercollegiate shuttle championship of 1959. . . . Prospects look good for the revitalized hockey and basketball teams, but there will be more on that subject at the end of the season. . . . The Queen's Ski Club is benefitting from a new burst of enthusiasm this year. The campus club has attracted well over 100 members and has made Kingston so ski-conscious that 300 citizens have established a tow at nearby Knowlton. The Queen's Club has arranged excursions to ski in resorts throughout Eastern Canada and the northern U.S.A., their latest adventure having been a week-end on Whiteface Mountain in New York.

Tribute To Dean. At the Aesculapian Society's banquet held early this month, special tribute was paid to Dr. G. H. Ettinger who will have completed ten years as dean of Queen's medical school at the end of the present session. Dr. H. D. McEwen, honorary president of the society, made special mention of the expansion of both buildings and staff under Dr. Ettinger and praised the Dean's "even temper, exceeding good humour, and great energy." Guest speaker at the banquet was Dr. Charlotte Whitton, Arts '17, LL.D. '41.

Newman House. For the first time in its forty-two year history, the University's Newman Club has a Newman House. A residence at 131 Johnson Street, bequeathed by Miss Estelle Dwyer, will serve as a centre for undergraduate and alumni club activities and as a residence for seven Catholic students. It will provide a library, a reading room, and an office for the club's chaplain, Rev. E. J. Keyes, Arts '52.

PRIZE SCULPTURE

Hillel Conference. This month Queen's was host to the annual inter-Hillel institute and conference. A concentrated cultural programme leavened with such things as folk-dancing and a musical review provided 150 delegates with a well-rounded supply of "food for thought." Fifteen schools participated. The two guest speakers were Dr. Sol Liptzin of New York City College and Rabbi Alfred Jospe, director of the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation.

Won Trophies. The Queen's Drama Guild carried off two trophies from the recent Inter-Varsity Drama Festival held in Kingston. Six universities competed, and Sir George Williams College of Montreal won the London Free Press Trophy for best production. Queen's won the awards for the best Canadian play and the best actress. Robertson Davies, Arts '36, distinguished author and playwright, was one of the adjudicators.

Sixty-Sixth Year. The Queen's Quarterly entered its sixty-sixth year of publication with the recent release of its winter edition. In accordance with the book's new policy of printing works by Canadian artists, this issue includes a frontispiece by artist Alex Colville. This is the first Quarterly edited by Dr. Glen Shortcliffe, who succeeded Prof. J. E. Hodgetts last September. Dr. Shortcliffe is also Professor of French and director of the Summer School of English.

New Auditorium. The new auditorium at Ellis Hall, the civil engineering building completed at New Year's, had its public opening on January 19 when the first in a series of lectures on the International Geophysical Year was given by Dr. J. T. Wilson of Toronto. The auditorium has a capacity of 300 and has been much in demand even in its first month.

at the BRANCHES

Dr. J. A. Corry Is Speaker At Niagara Annual Meeting

An address on some of the problems facing universities was given by Dr. J. A. Corry, vice-principal of Queen's, at the annual meeting of the Niagara Peninsula branch held in the Kate Leonard Room of the St. Catharines Y.M.-Y.W.C.A. on January 30. Sixty members and friends were in attendance.

Dr. Corry said that regimentation of education such as that employed in the Soviet Union would not work in Canada. He felt it was preferable to overcome the weakness in Canadian culture, the lack of respect for teachers, the failure to attract the best brains into the field of education.

The speaker said that since the arms race is becoming a stalemate, the battle for world peace may still be won by the civilization that can best produce a way of life attractive to other nations in the world.

Dr. Corry was introduced by C. R. Buss, Sc. '28, and was thanked by F. E. Wright, Sc. '53.

H. J. Hamilton, alumni secretary, spoke briefly with reference to the Alumni Fund, its record in 1958, and plans for 1959. The film, "Queen's University at Kingston," was shown and greatly enjoyed.

In the election of officers R. L. Burns, Arts '52, Niagara Falls, was elected president. Also appointed were: first vice-president, F. E. Wright, Sc. '53, Welland; second vice-president, D. J. Clements, Sc. '51, St. Catharines; secretary-treasurer, W. N. Vaughan, Sc. '56, St. Catharines; representatives — St. Catharines, W. M. Yovanovich, Sc. '57, K. E. Ludwig, Sc. ### Prof. Burton Keirstead Addresses Toronto Alumnae

Prof. Burton Keirstead of the Department of Economics of the University of Toronto spoke on "Combines and Monopolies" at the meeting of the Toronto alumnae held at the University Women's Club on November 20. Professor Keirstead said that though large combines tend to crush small business concerns, in some cases, as in the aluminum industry in Canada, a combine can compete in world trade better than smaller firms.

The president, Miss Evelina Thompson, Arts '38, was in the chair.

Teaching The Humanities Is Subject of Address

Prof. A. R. C. Duncan, head of the Department of Philosophy, was the guest speaker at the meeting of the Kingston alumnae held in Ban Righ Hall on January 20. Dr. Duncan spoke on "Teaching the Humanities in this Technical Age," and described vividly what living in a technical age means, what the humanities are, why a knowledge of them is essential to human beings and how they must be taught to present-day students. The speaker stressed the importance of producing the all-round human being whose mind is trained and has developed the capacity for sound judgment in human affairs.

The speaker was thanked by Mrs. F. W. Gibson (Margaret MacKay), Arts '46.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Marjorie Graham, Arts '20, and her committee.

The president, Mrs. R. D. Bradfield (Eva Newell), Arts '26, was in the chair.

KINGSTON ALUMNAE EXECUTIVE

Also named to the executive are: Honorary president, Dr. Ann Hume, Arts '14, LL.D. '57; vice-president, J. M. Carter, Com. '51; secretary, A. B. Harris, Sc. '47; faculty representatives—Arts, Miss Nanette Chouinard, Arts '56, B.P.H.E. '57; Science, R. J. Wilton, Sc. '51; Levana, Miss Jean Newell, Arts '56; Medicine, Dr. F. A. B. Inch, Med. '56; Theology, Rev. Gladstone E. Wood, Arts '19, Theol. '21.

Alumnae Hold Theatre Night

The Toronto alumnae held a theatre night on December 11 at the Crest Theatre with the play Pygmalion as the attraction. The event was an outstanding success, the demand for tickets exceeding the supply, and provided an ideal occasion for the members and their friends to meet one another.

Rectorial Address

Three Albertans held the centre of the Grant Hall stage at the Rectorial Address on January 29: Dr. L. W. Brockington, Rector of the University, who emigrated from his native Wales to Alberta in 1912; Mort Low of Raymond, Alta., president of the A.M.S., and Cecilia Comba of Calgary, A.M.S. vice-president. Referring to the recently-announced engagement of the couple, Dr. Brockington described them as "a Romeo of the western plains" and "a Juliet of the foothills." Addressing a capacity audience from what he called his "anecdot-age," the Rector described Canada as a land where "the prevailing winds are the winds of freedom." He urged the cultivation of understanding rather than tolerance, of a Canadian speech and language, and the courage to be ourselves. "I hope we will always be a people with the neighbourly kindness of the frontier," he added. Dr. Brockington stressed the point that a more just and merciful world can come through education, for if education does not raise a bulwark against tyranny and bigotry, he said, then "it fails in its promise."

Wild Life

The things to do and see in this country are almost beyond imagination."

The Smith family found that East Africa's best weather comes between January and March and from July to December. The rainy season includes the three months of April, May and June. "But even then," says the enterprising Tim, "we can arrange tours wherever the huge area isn't too rain-soaked."

Modern travel has eliminated the last obstacle in the way of an East African holiday, he pointed out. "Whenever we begin reminiscing about Africa, we remember that Nairobi is only two days by air from Montreal.

"There are many people who in the past few years have enjoyed trips to Europe, holidays in the Caribbean, or a Hawaiian cruise. They're ready for something new. For them and for anyone who is planning his first trip overseas, there's no place like Africa for a real thrill.

"I'll return some day for the same reason Kipling's old sailor sailed round and round the world":—

For to admire an' for to see

For to be'old this world so wide.

WHAT'S NEW IN Tele - Communications

Practically everything. The past 5 years have seen sweeping changes in the mechanical, electrical and electronic design of dial telephones, as well as tremendous improvements in telephone exchange switching equipment, carrier and radio system. Many of these engineering advances are now being used in computers and other automation equipment. Also, in the past 10 years the telecommunications field has doubled its size . . . 10 years' growth that equals all previous growth of this field during its entire history!

Engineering developments and new methods of manufacture at Automatic Electric have played a big part in this phenomenal expansion of telecommunications. We are looking forward to continued and accelerated growth. And with nation-wide direct-dialing almost here, our products and engineering services will be needed and used more than ever before.

No. ~~2~~ 3

Official Publication of the Alumni Association of Queen's University, Kingston, Ontario.

Cover

Spring comes to the campus again. The snow leaves the ground, student activities, other than studies, grind to a halt, and even the members of staff relax. On one of the campus walks, between the Douglas Library on the left, and Gordon Hall on the right — with the Students Union in the background — Dr. Hans Eichner, professor of German language and literature, is taking a stroll.

THE ALUMNI FUND

4,335 Alumni
Contributed $135,417
in 1958

Objective in 1959
Is $150,000
From 6,000 Graduates

When the books were closed for the Alumni Fund for 1958 the record showed that a total of $135,417 had been contributed by 4,335 alumni, a substantial increase over the $110,685 received the previous year from 3,823.

The year 1958 was regarded as a critical period in the operations of the Fund for two reasons: first, the credit from the National Fund, which had been $54,895 in 1957, would be considerably less; second, the Alumni Association had abolished membership fees in favour of one financial appeal, on behalf of the Fund, and it was difficult to predict with any accuracy what effect this might have in the immediate present although it was felt to be advantageous as a long-term policy. The National Fund credit fell off to $27,563, but increased contributions to the Alumni Fund offset this decrease. The number of contributors rose from 3,823 in 1957 to 4,335 in 1958, attributable in some measure at least to the elimination of membership fees. But, the most important factor in the growth of the Fund was the fact that so many of the branches carried on effective personal canvasses as a follow-up to the direct mail appeals from head office.

The objectives of the Fund in 1958 were men's or women's residences, or general endowment. The results show that $33,243 was earmarked for the men's residences, $17,889 for the women's residences, and $84,285 for general endowment.

The same objectives, namely, men's or women's residences or general endowment, will be maintained for the present year.

It is interesting to note that there were approximately 600 alumni who contributed to the Fund last year who had never participated before in the programme of annual giving. This number included, of course, the 138 members of the graduating class of 1958, which represented 30 per cent of the total, as compared with the 28 per cent over all.

The average contribution was $31.10, but it might be pointed out that 75 per cent of the contributions were for $25.00 or less, and that 50 per cent were for $10.00 or less. The emphasis is on participation rather than the size of the contribution. The National Alumni Fund committee has set a goal of $150,000 from 6,000 alumni in 1959.

In addition to the Alumni Fund, the graduates supported a number of other projects as well: including $3,115 to scholarships and $130,958 to the National Fund and the Medical Centenary Fund. Through bequests $91,128 was given to endowment and $918 to scholarships.

Alumni givings to colleges, universities and independent secondary schools in the United States and Canada rose to new levels in 1957-58, as demonstrated in the Survey of Annual Giving and Alumni Support conducted by the American Alumni Council.

More alumni responded to annual giving fund appeals than ever before: 1,211,395—with contributions of $38,799,845.

MORRIS HALL – MEN'S RESIDENCE

Morris Hall, from the lakefront. Named in memory of the Hon. William Morris, first chairman of the Board of Trustees, this is the second unit of the men's residences. For the past few years a portion of the money raised through the Alumni Fund has been allocated to the men's residence programme. A third unit, the largest, is now being constructed and will be ready for occupancy in the fall of 1959. All three are located on Leonard Field on Albert St.

School of Commerce

Education by Mail

Education by mail is big business in the School of Commerce and Business Administration at Queen's.

About 5,000 students from Newfoundland to the Yukon and Vancouver Island are taking this instruction by mail.

William G. Leonard, F.C.A., Professor of Commerce and Director of Professional Courses, heads the organization which gives this instruction to certain employees of The Canadian Bankers' Association, to students enrolled with the Institute of Chartered Accountants of Ontario and several other provincial institutes, as well as to employees and officers of the Trust Companies Association of Canada.

The professional courses are an integral part of Queen's School of Commerce and Business Administration of which Lawrence G. Macpherson, B.A., F.C.A., Professor of Commerce, is director; also of the Department of Political and Economic Science of which Dr. Clifford A. Curtis, F.R.S.C., Professor of Economics, is head.

Mr. Leonard has two immediate aides: B. J. B. Galvin, C.A., Assistant Professor of Commerce who is assistant director of professional courses and looks after the chartered accountants courses; and Ian A. Stewart, M.A., lecturer in economics and assistant director of banking courses. Both were appointed in 1956.

The bankers course was established in 1914 — five years before the School of Commerce itself was formed. Today there are 2,500 banking students taking this course in addition to 340 special students.

Said Professor Leonard: "The University offers the Fellows' Course in Banking, leading to the diploma of Fellow of the Canadian Bankers Association (F.C.B.A.), on behalf of the Association. Enrolment is restricted to employees of Canadian chartered banks who have had more than one year's experience in banking.

Ian A. Stewart, as the assistant director in charge of the details of the bankers course, commented that there are eight subjects in the course, with twelve lessons in each subject.

"There is no specified time for the student to finish the bankers course," Mr. Stewart added, "but he is expected to take two subjects a year." That means the student is supposed to complete twenty-four exercises a year.

The University supplies the text books and tuition material to the student bankers and also appoints the examining board. Only students who have completed the required course work are eligible to sit for examination. These are offered twice a year, in January and June, at centres throughout Canada and abroad.

"Given sufficient notice, we will establish an examination centre any place where there is a branch of a chartered Canadian bank," said Mr. Stewart.

The course for chartered accountants was established in 1920 and Professor Brian Galvin states that there are today more than 1800 C.A. students, as well as another 600 in the provincial institutes, taking Queen's material. These include future accountants in the Institute of Chartered Accountants of British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba, all of which buy the lesson material prepared by Queen's, but service their own students.

"More than 40,000 pieces of mail are handled each year in our accounting courses alone," said Professor Galvin. "This mail goes between the University, the student and the instructor. There are

IN CHARGE OF PROFESSIONAL COURSES

Left to right: B. J. B. Galvin, W. G. Leonard, director, and Ian Stewart. About 5,000 students from Newfoundland to the Yukon and Vancouver Island take instruction by mail in banking and chartered accountancy. There is also a course for trust company employees.

200 part-time instructors located all over Ontario, mainly chartered accountants and lawyers."

The routine is something like this: Queen's sends the accounting student his individual lesson. Then the student studies the lesson material, prepares the required exercise and mails his completed exercise back to the University. Queen's then forwards the exercise to the instructor for correction and grading. The instructor mails it back to the University which in turn records the result and returns the exercise to the student. The University is represented by the professional courses section of the School of Commerce and Business Administration.

"Normally," Professor Galvin added, "the whole process with a good instructor functioning properly takes about three weeks to receive, read and correct, and return an exercise."

In the professional accounting courses the University has no concern with examinations for these are conducted by the provincial institutes themselves. The University "just educates" the students.

No individual student in either the banking or the accountancy courses can come into the courses by personal application to the University, but must do so through his Institute or Association.

The C.A. student programme is an evening home-study programme except in Quebec province where the universities of that province give evening lectures. In the rest of the country instruction is by mail.

Professor Leonard pointed out that the chartered accountants course given by Queen's is the only one of its kind in the world where the university does the teaching. A five-year course, it is under constant revision to keep the material abreast of current practices. One third of the course is reprinted every year for revision purposes.

In addition to the bankers and the accountants courses, Queen's School of Commerce handles the trust companies courses. This is a two-year study programme with correspondence instruction for trust company employees and officers. Queen's conducts these examinations once a year and grants a diploma to the person who passes all four subjects of the examination.

Around the CAMPUS

New Chair. Abitibi Power and Paper Company Ltd. of Toronto has established a new Chair of Engineering Mathematics at Queen's and has provided a ten-year grant for its support. According to an announcement by Principal W. A. Mackintosh, the first appointee to the new chair is Dr. J. E. Hogarth, at present leader of the radar section, Defence Research Telecommunications Establishment in Ottawa. Dr. Hogarth, who is a graduate of the universities of Toronto and London, will assume his new duties next September.

Staff Notes. Queen's professors are on the move, as usual, making headlines here and there as they go. Professor R. L. Jeffery, head of the Mathematics Department, recently chaired a meeting of the Canadian Mathematical Congress at Mount Allison University, New Brunswick. The Congress decided upon a renewed effort to raise the academic qualifications of mathematics teachers . . . . Professor A. R. M. Lower, at a meeting of secondary school teachers in Prescott, Ontario, accused Canadians of being a nation of headline readers and urged that more stress be put on the fundamentals of communications in our educational system. . . . Dr. H. W. Curran, Director of Extension and Director of the Summer School at the University, has returned from a ten-day visit to Bermuda with the assurance of a record attendance for Queen's Summer School there this summer. While in Bermuda, Dr. Curran visited eighty-five classrooms and spoke with more than 100 teachers about the opportunities offered them by Queen's to study for a B.A. degree.

English Department. Douglas V. LePan, assistant undersecretary of state for external affairs at Ottawa, has been appointed to the University's Department of English. A graduate of Toronto and Oxford universities in English literature and the winner of a Guggenheim Fellowship, Mr. LePan taught at the University of Toronto and at Harvard before the war. He has been with the Department of External Affairs since 1945. Mr. LePan, author of two books of poetry, will teach Queen's first course in creative writing.

Grants. Spring has brought more than rain to Kingston; lately, grants have been pouring in. Grants totalling $1,377,141 were announced by the Canada Council to assist Queen's with the three buildings now under construction — the Social Science Building (Dunning Hall), the women's residence, and the third men's residence. . . . The Minister of Health and Welfare has approved a federal grant of more than $70,000 toward the cost of extending research facilities in Etherington Hall. . . . Dr. James D. Hatcher was one of thirteen Canadian doctors who received research fellowships totalling $76,000 from the National Heart Foundation. . . . Dr. E. A. Carlson, Conn, W. H. Patterson, H. S. Van Patter, R. C. Dunn, J. C. Hamilton, W. A. Marshall, L. W. Bladon; back row: G. M. Minard, A. W. Denny, R. H. Hay, F. W. Gilbert, O. C. Allenby, J. C. Maquire, A. W. Johnston, W. A. Roliff, Y. O. Fortier, and G. S. Jarrett.

lecturer in the Department of Biology, was awarded a grant of $10,000 by the National Science Foundation, Washington, D.C. His grant is for study of the structure and function of the gene, the basic unit of heredity.

C.O.T.C. Lt. S. S. Lazier, assistant professor of Civil Engineering, has assumed command of the Canadian Officers' Training Corps at the University. He succeeds Lt. Col. R. J. Kennedy, M.C., Sc. '41, who has been with Queen's C.O.T.C. since 1940 and who has been commander for seven years. Lt. Col. Kennedy is associate professor of Civil Engineering.

Art Centre. The Agnes Etherington Art Centre is one of the busiest buildings on campus lately. A recent display of abstract paintings entitled "Painters 11" gave rise to a lively panel discussion on "How Much of Modern Art is Bunk?" Result? Hot argument laced with few cold facts. . . . An art rental service which has made contemporary Canadian paintings available in Kingston at a reasonable monthly rate has definitely caught the City's fancy. . . . Portraits of interest from local collections have been gathered at the Art Centre in a display entitled "The Art of Portraiture". One of the earliest and most eye-catching is a portrait of Queen's pale and handsome first principal, the very Rev. Thomas Liddell. Other prominent subjects are a "contentious" Professor Lower, a "cheerfully Satanic" "Arnold Edinburgh, and Andre Bieler as "a 20th-Century seer".

Student Notes. Student energy has had its post-Christmas explosion and attention has swung to lecture rooms and library. What's been happening on campus? . . . The twenty-ninth Session of Queen's Model Parliament, where the Reactionary Monarchists were almost elected and where students heard guest speaker Dr. Eugene Forsey promise a new party sponsored by the CCF and the Canadian Labour Congress. . . . A Sunday afternoon canvass by 500 students which realized $4,000 for the Ontario Heart Foundation. . . . A student-organized expedition to Ottawa, where a day of sightseeing ended on Parliament Hill with seventy-six students as guests of the Hon. Roland Michener, Speaker of the House, at a name-studded reception. . . . Graduation dinners for all faculties, given by the Board of Trustees and chaired by Dr. Homer McCuaig. . . . The annual election of the A.M.S. where Bruce Alexander, Senior Arts Representative, Oakville, Ont., was elected president, and Bob Sowden, Simcoe, Ont., Senior Law Representative, vice-president. . . . The opening of the Aesculapian Society's new club room in Etherington Hall. The room, named in honour of Dr. D. C. Matheson, retired professor of anatomy, features his portrait and a plaque. . . . The annual meeting of the Queen's Drama Guild, where Bob Penty, Sc. '60, became the first Science man elected president in over twenty years. . . . The annual Baccalaureate Service in Grant Hall, with the Rt. Rev. J. G. McNab, moderator of the Presbyterian Church, as the preacher. . . . Tom Marshall, Arts '61, Niagara Falls, Ont., appointed as editor of the Journal for 1959-60, is the son of D. W. Marshall, Arts '34, and Mrs. Marshall (Helen Kennedy), Arts '34, a one-time Journal news editor herself.

Levana Society. The Levana Society had a real burst of activity before settling down to the spring-time grind. At their annual graduation dinner held on February 25, the Levanites welcomed back a distinguished Queen's woman as guest speaker. She was Mrs. E. I. Holmes (Billie Nobes), Arts '24, now a well-known Montreal lawyer and a partner in the firm Holmes and Gilchrist, the first all-woman law firm in Canada. . . . The girls in the School of Physical and Health Education presented their annual Aquacade for three nights running. This year's show took the form of a colourful travelogue entitled "Fascinating Countries". . . . This was followed up a few nights later by "Levana on Edge", the ice revue. A top-notch show was highlighted by three Canadian amateur champions. . . . A final but fresh note was struck by Levana's presentation of "Spring Silhouette", a preview of spring fashions featuring eighteen Levanites as models.

Sports Picture. The hockey team campaigned in the senior Intercollegiate on an exhibition basis and had four wins against three losses, including a 5-3 victory over the University of Toronto, league champions. Queen's has been re-admitted to the senior loop next year, after an absence of nine years. . . . The basketball team wound up the season with a 5-5 record, after dropping the first three games. They were tied with Varsity for third place. . . . By the narrow margin of one point, Queen's lost the boxing championship to Varsity. Each team won four championships, but the Blues got an extra point by virtue of having one more representative in the finals. The Tricolour winners: Eric Almquist, Brockville, 135 pounds; Terry O'Brien, Ottawa, 145; Hugh Wood, Kingston, 155; Al Hyland, Trinidad, B.W.I., 175. . . . Levana won the Intercollegiate badminton championship, winning all fifteen events without a loss. On the team were Marg Benson, Toronto, Jessie Wallace, Brantford, Sue Hough, Windsor, and Dorothy McLaughlin, Oshawa. . . . Queen's won the men's Intercollegiate badminton title, edging Toronto 19-17. Also competing were McGill, Western, and Assumption. On the Tricolour squad were Dick Lawrence, Oshawa, Ted Muraro, Kimberley, B.C., Chris Armstrong, Oakville, and Gary Gale, Windsor.

REUNION IN PUERTO RICO

REUNION IN PUERTO RICO

●Nine members of the Class of Medicine '39 and their wives held a reunion, unique for the Alumni of Queen's University, in San Juan, Puerto Rico, January 31 to February 9, 1959.

The realization of a long-term ambition of Dr. A. A. Perea, a member of the Class of Medicine '39, and a native of Puerto Rico, was brought to focus at the Class Reunion two years ago at Queen's. Many members of the Class were enthusiastic, but owing to other commitments this year several regretfully had to forego the trip.

Those who went down were Dr. M. M. James, Kingston, Ont., Dr. S. P. Pakozdy, Welland, Ont., Dr. G. W. Sprague, Paris, Ill., Dr. S. J. Bociek, Baltimore, Md., Dr. G. H. Emery, Ingersoll, Ont., Dr. L. G. Reid, Pembroke, Ont., Dr. K. G. Trotter, Woodstock, Ont., and Dr. G. R. Scott, Kingston, Ont.

Upon arrival at the Isla Verde airport in San Juan, the group was met by Dr. Augusto Perea, his very gracious wife, Juanita, and Dr. Nelson Perea, Med. '36. During their stay, these hosts par excellence left nothing undone for the interests and comforts of their tourista classmates and wives. For their complete and varied programme, the Medicine '39 tourista were quartered at the Caribe Hilton Hotel in San Juan, the summer resort of La Parguero, and the most recently inaugurated of the luxury hotels in Puerto Rico, La Concha. The members combined pleasure with pleasure, with a study of the advancing medical programme of the Island, inspection of Hospitals, Clinics and Medical Institutions, and a cordial reception by the Puerto Rican School of Medicine, ably administered by their enthusiastic and inspired Dean of Medicine, Dr. Hinman, strangely enough, by coincidence, Queen's Arts '27; Medicine, Louisiana State University.

The members of '39 left Puerto Rico reluctantly and with many memories of a fond experience, further cementing the close ties of Medicine '39. They had enjoyed about every interesting inch of this "Island Paradise", as labeled by the Puerto Ricans, and experienced the complete Spanish type night-life of the Island, ranging from Calypso rhythms and steel bands, to the Spanish classics.

On their departure, the grateful touristas could only say to their gracious hosts, the Pereas, hopefully: Hasta la Vista: See you again soon.

R. E. Robinson Elected President of Cornwall Branch

R. E. Robinson, Arts '47, was elected president of the Cornwall and District branch at the annual dinner meeting held at the Cornwall Golf and Country Club on March 4. Mr. Robinson succeeds L. E. Harris, Sc. '35.

Also elected were: vice-president, Kenneth McLennan, Arts '55; secretary, Mrs. Scott Latimer (Patricia Crompton), Arts '55; treasurer, Gordon Hill, Com. '49; Alumni Fund chairman, Frank Boucher, Arts '50; committee—Douglas Browning, Sc. '45, Mrs. George Bateman (Mary Davidson), Arts '40, Mrs. H. G. Wood (Ruth Hermiston), Arts '21, A. E. Gratton, Arts '36.

Speaker of the evening was W. G. Leonard, Professor of Commerce and director of Professional Courses in the School of Commerce at Queen's. Mr. Leonard was introduced by W. H. Young, Sc. '34.

Speaking on "Income Determinations for Tax Purposes," Mr. Leonard discussed the income tax structure of Canada and the tax law as it is employed at present. He said that a lot of disputes were attributable to two things—the lack of publicity of rules governing taxes, and lack of uniformity in the way disputes were handled in the various sections of the country. He recommended that the way to improve the situation would be for legislation to halt "this drifting in the direction of complete codification" of the tax law, and instead to adopt a broad, general provision whereby a tax payer would be permitted to use any reasonable method of year-end determination of his income, provided he applied it consistently from year to year. "This," said Mr. Leonard, "would be practical and sensible and would not result in any lost tax revenue if administered properly."

The speaker was thanked by Dr. C. B. Pender, Med. '48.

H. J. Hamilton, alumni secretary, spoke briefly regarding highlights of the past academic year at Queen's. He congratulated Mr. Boucher as chairman of the Alumni Fund committee for the success of the canvass conducted by him and his committee in 1958.

Dr. Bruce Young Is Speaker At Kingston Alumnae Meeting

Dr. Bruce Young, Director of the Frontenac and District Rehabilitation Centre in Kingston, was the guest speaker at the meeting of the Kingston alumnae held in Ban Righ Hall on March 3. He spoke of the work carried on among the disabled of the community.

The keystone of rehabilitation is physical restoration and the Centre has been carefully planned to effect this result. Dr. Young was able to cite many cases in which success had been obtained. He stressed the fact that the staff could only show the patient the way toward rehabilitation and the importance of teaching the patient how to help himself.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. G. M. Douglas-Murray (Pat Osborough), Arts '55. The thanks of the meeting were expressed by Miss Diana Blake, Arts '45.

It was announced that Mrs. D. A. Barnett (Nancy Pauline James), Arts '55, would convene the Convocation Tea in May, and that Miss Diana Blake would serve as chairman of the nominating committee for the annual meeting in April. The latter will take the form of a dinner in the McLaughlin Room in the Students Union, and Mrs. Norman Miller (Grace Jeffrey), Arts '14, will be the convener. Mrs. G. M. Douglas-Murray will be in charge of the programme.

TORONTO ALUMNI AWARD

Principal W. A. Mackintosh, left, was presented with the Toronto Alumni Award by Graham Whidden, president of the branch, at the dinner meeting held at the Granite Club on February 10. Previous recipients have been Col. E. A. Baker, J. M. Macdonnell, and E. C. Gill.

Toronto Award Presented To Dr. W. A. Mackintosh

Presentation of the Toronto Award was made to Dr. W. A. Mackintosh, Principal of Queen's, at the annual dinner meeting of the Toronto branch held at the Granite Club on February 10.

The award is made to one who is "deserving of recognition for services to society and directly or indirectly to Queen's University." Previous recipients have been Col. E. A. Baker, J. M. Macdonnell, and E. C. Gill.

Graham Whidden, Com. '44, president of the branch, in making the presentation to Dr. Mackintosh, described him as a "man well-known, well-regarded, and well-liked throughout Canada's academic and public service institutions . . . an architect of society and Queen's."

Mr. Whidden paid tribute to Dr. Mackintosh as an "outstanding economist, educator, and administrator — his career has been a mingling of public service with academic achievement. After outlining the Principal's contributions to the affairs of Canada, Mr. Whidden said: "There are those among us who believe that as notable and valuable as your public service has been, of even greater social significance is your responsibility in moulding the character of Queen's so that she will continue great without being big; so that she will set standards and make her students conscious of them when so much today is directed to the lowest common denominator; so that she will be a citadel of education and learning, not a grist mill of schooling and training; so that she will be a beacon for society to strive towards, not a mere mirror to reflect its tendencies; so that full meaning will attach to her motto, Sapientia et Doctrina Stabilitas."

In his response Dr. Mackintosh thanked the Toronto alumni for the honour they had given him in selecting him for the award. He then proceeded to deal with the problems facing higher education in Canada today, mentioning the large percentage of students who are admitted to universities and then fail to make the grade. He advocated better methods of selection and financial aid for students who have high academic standing.

"The Russian experiment in education is both a danger to themselves and a challenge to other countries," said Dr. Mackintosh. "Of all the experiments which the Russians have tried, this is for them the most dangerous," he said. "It is, nevertheless, a challenge to us and we should be afraid neither to learn something from Russian experiences nor to reject what our experience teaches us is less desirable."

The speaker was warmly thanked on behalf of the meeting by Miss Evalina Thompson, Arts '38, president of the Toronto alumnae.

A toast to the University was proposed by E. C. Gill, chairman of the Board of Trustees. Response was made by Rev. A. M. Laverty, University Chaplain.

Convener of the dinner, which was attended by 160, was K. R. Church, Com. '42.

London Alumnae Hold Buffet Supper

Fifteen members of the London alumnae met at the home of Mrs. Walter Herron (Ruth Redick), Arts '31, for a delightful buffet supper on March 5.

The president, Mrs. Mabel Fells, Arts '34, conducted a brief business meeting. Plans were made to hold a bridge party in May.

G. H. Lawlor, Arts '46, reported on the Alumni Fund. He stressed the importance of persuading as many graduates as possible to participate in the programme of annual giving. He said that percentage of participation was of greater value than size of contributions.

The remainder of the programme consisted of a tour of the Elwell Ceramic studios in suburban Londn.

J. Alex Edmison Addresses Ste. Anne de Bellevue Branch

J. Alex Edmison, member of the National Parole Board and formerly director of endowment and public relations at Queen's, was the guest speaker at the meeting of the Ste. Anne de Bellevue branch held in Adair Hall, Union Church, on February 18. More than fifty were in attendance.

Mr. Edmison gave a practical and humorous address on the art of public speaking. He was introduced by Dr. D. C. Bews, Med. '35, and was thanked by Dr. D. Fairbairn, Arts '38.

H. J. Hamilton, Alumni secretary, gave a short report on the work of the Alumni Association in general and on the Alumni Fund in particular.

The president, Rodney Bruce, Sc. '36, served as chairman. The programme concluded with the serving of refreshments by Mrs. G. N. C. Rivington (Ruth Chatham), Arts '40, and her committee, and by a social hour. The proper atmosphere for a Queen's gathering was provided in the decorations consisting of tricolour pennants and ribbons.

Kingston Alumnae Raise $230 For Women's Residence Fund

The sum of $230 was netted at the highly successful dessert and coffee Valentine Bridge Party held by the Kingston alumnae in Grant Hall on February 18. The proceeds will be turned in to the Women's Residence Building Fund.

About 320 members and friends met for refreshments and then exercised their skill across the bridge tables for the next two hours. The party was convened by Mrs. R. D. Bradfield (Eva Newell), Arts '26, president, assisted by Mrs. C. H. R. Campling (Laura Miller), Arts '46, and Miss Janet McGinnis, Arts '46. Tickets and financial arrangements were made by Mrs. W. A. Cassell (Mary Timmins), Arts '56, Miss Verna Wilson, Arts '43, and Miss Melva Eagleson, Arts '25. In charge of desserts and coffee were Miss Caroline Mitchell, Arts '26, Mrs. Ian Stewart (Gail Ward), Arts '54, and Mrs. F. W. Gibson (Margaret MacKay), Arts '46. The prize committee consisted of Miss Helen McRae, Arts '40, and Mrs. M. F. Graham, Arts '20.

During the course of the evening Miss Belle Elliot, Arts '29, and her committee sold small Valentine baskets of candy to the players. Nine active and agile members of the Levana Society cheerfully assisted the bridge committee in the serving of desserts and coffee.

Presentation of prizes was made by Mrs. W. A. Mackintosh: men's high, D. Mills, and N. G. Stewart, Arts '11, Sc. '15; men's consolation, Dave Bessant, Arts '60; ladies high, Miss Olivia Wilson and Mrs. W. Bales; ladies consolation, Mrs. W. E. Corbett (Lois Grant), Arts '54; door prizes—Mrs. V. B. Crothers (Mary Free), Arts '14, Mrs. James Melvin, Mrs. G. Gransden, Miss H. Miller, and Ian Stewart, Arts '54.

Arnold Edinborough Addresses Toronto Alumnae

Arnold Edinborough, one-time member of the Department of English at Queen's, and now editor of Toronto Saturday Night, was the guest speaker at the annual reception and dinner of the Toronto alumnae held at the Granite Club on February 24.

Mr. Edinborough spoke on "Future Greatness of Canada," and said that Canada's national characteristics were reflected in the works of Robert Service, Stephen Leacock, and Robertson Davies. In art the "Group of Seven" set a distinctive pattern in landscape painting, while in medicine the names of Osler, Banting, and Best will always be remembered.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Beverley Galloway (Priscilla Peebles), Arts '51, and was thanked by Mrs. J. E. O'Farrell (Anne McAllister), Arts '22.

On the reception line were Mrs. Frank Yeigh (Annie Laird), Arts '01, honorary president, Miss Evalina Thompson, Arts '38, president, Mr. Edinborough, and Miss Marcella Jackson, Arts '48, vice-president. At the head table, in addition to the foregoing, were Miss Kay Elliott, Arts '25, Miss Marg Donevan, N.Sc. '51, Mrs. N. A. Donaldson (Helen Eakin), Arts '37, Mrs. Beverley Galloway (Priscilla Peebles), Arts '51, Mrs. J. E. O'Farrell (Anne McAllister), Arts '22, and Mrs. Calvin Wiley (Lillyan Cochrane), Arts '15.

This gala event was convened by Miss Bessie Billings, Arts '25, Mrs. Joseph Dyer (May Sharpe), Arts '27, and Mrs. Arthur Scafe (Jean Simmons), Com. '26.

Graduates in Algoma-Blind River Hold Social Evening

Fifty graduates and friends from the Algoma-Blind River area gathered at the Algoden Hotel at Elliot Lake on February 28 for a social evening.

Guest speaker was J. Alex Edmison, member of the National Parole Board in Ottawa and formerly director of public relations and endowment at Queen's. Mr. Edmison spoke in reminiscent vein of some phases of the University's history, and studded his remarks with many interesting anecdotes.

H. J. Hamilton, alumni secretary, spoke briefly in outlining recent developments at the University and plans for the future.

The film, "Queen's University at Kingston," was shown and greatly enjoyed. The programme concluded with dancing to records.

J. J. HARPELL

Harpell was one of the most outstanding students of his day, unique in many ways. When the City of Kingston gave Queen's the new Arts Building, Kingston Hall, Harpell conceived the idea that Frontenac County might follow the lead and give the Convocation Hall so badly needed, and have it called Frontenac Hall. He sold the idea to the County Council and a By-Law was submitted to the people to carry out the scheme. Harpell worked vigorously for the By-Law but it failed to get the necessary vote. Undaunted, he came to the Alma Mater Society and proposed that the students should undertake to erect the Hall and call it Grant Hall in memory of Principal Grant. His challenge was accepted by the students and Grant Hall was erected. His energy and skill in the canvass was a real factor in putting the scheme across. To him credit is due for the initiative and much of the success of the project.

He also rendered great service in reorganizing the finances of the Journal and later of the Queen's Quarterly.

He was a great salesman and an aggressive and forceful character.

W. H. MacInnes, Arts '02

David Lloyd G. McKay, B.A. '24, at Willowdale, Ontario, on January 6, in his fifty-eighth year. After graduating from Queen's, Mr. McKay taught in Wallaceburg and Galt before going to Earl Haig Collegiate in Toronto. In 1947 he was appointed head of the Science Department there, and though ill health forced his resignation from the post in 1953, he continued as a very capable and much loved teacher until his death. Mrs. McKay and two children survive.

Mrs. R. H. F. Manske (Jean Gray), Arts '25, in Wellesley Hospital, Toronto, on January 11. Born in Komoka, Ontario, she attended Strathroy Collegiate Institute and the London Normal School before coming to Queen's in 1921. Mrs. Manske is survived by her husband, Dr. R. H. F. Manske, Sc. '33, research director for the Dominion Rubber Company of Guelph. Mrs. H. McCallum (Barbara Jean Manske), Arts '51, is a daughter.

Allan Roscoe Simpson, B.Sc. '14, at Toronto General Hospital on March 5, at the age of seventy. Mr. Simpson, a member of the Association of Professional Engineers, was born in Napanee, Ontario, and after leaving Queen's joined the Department of Public Works. His work took him all over Canada, building bridges and dams. From 1928 until his retirement last April, he was with the engineering department of the Bell Telephone Company in Toronto. Mr. Simpson is survived by his wife, a daughter, and four sons.

Thomas C. Smith, B.A. '05, M.A. '17, at Ottawa, Ontario, on October 16, 1958, in his ninety-eighth year. He taught school in Chatham, Renfrew, Smiths Falls and Campbellford. ### What does it mean to be rated?

Not long ago men and women with coronary artery disease, tuberculosis or diabetes were unable to obtain life insurance. Today it is possible for many of these people to be accepted in a special premium classification. Technically speaking they are said to be "rated" policyholders. For many years Manufacturers Life has contributed leadership in this special field. Today we are well known for our progressive outlook and for the favourable premium rates being offered.

Actually 90% of the people applying for Manufacturers Life policies today are accepted at regular rates. Another 8½% are offered insurance at the lowest possible cost considering their particular physical condition, while only 1½% are declined. Whatever your needs, you can be sure of progressive life insurance service when you call the Man from Manufacturers.

Dr. A. R. M. Lower

Dr. Norman Miller

Dr. A. Vibert Douglas

Four distinguished Queen's University professors will retire from active teaching and one will retire from an administrative post at the end of the present academic term. The retiring professors are:

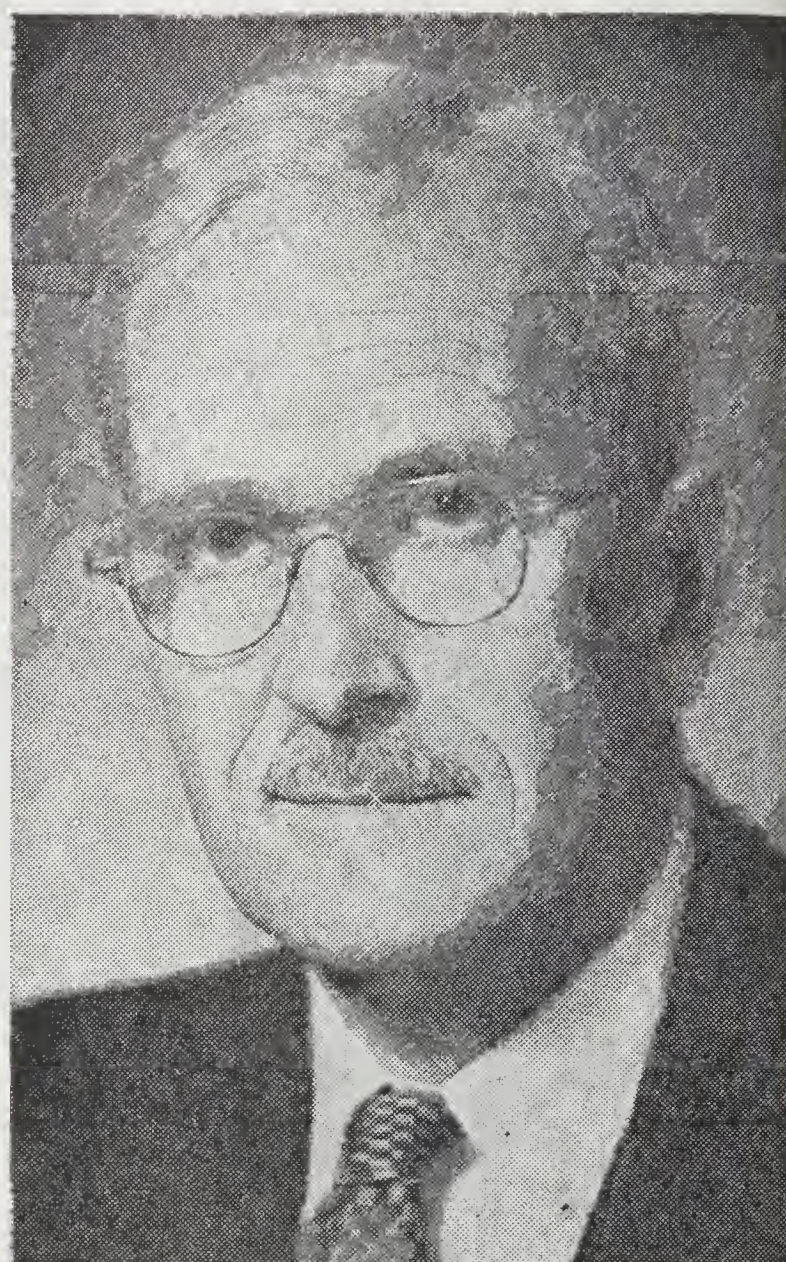

Dr. R. O. Earl, Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Science and the John Roberts Allen Professor of Biology. For many years Dr. Earl was head of the Department of Biology.

T. V. Lord, Professor of Metallurgy and Head of the Department of Metallurgy in the Faculty of Applied Science.

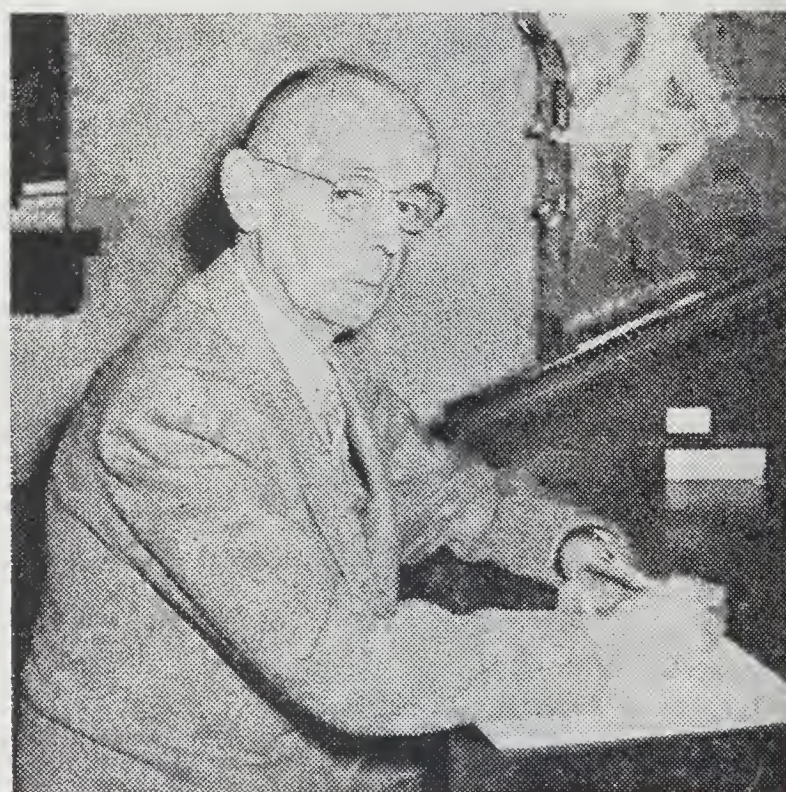

Dr. A. R. M. Lower, the James Douglas Professor of Canadian and Colonial History, Faculty of Arts and Science; noted historian and author.

Dr. Norman Miller, Professor of Mathematics and Chairman of Extramural and Tutorial Work in Mathematics, Faculty of Arts and Science.

Dr. A. Vibert Douglas, Dean of Women and Professor of Astronomy, will retire as Dean, but will continue her teaching duties.

DR. R. O. EARL

PROF. T. V. LORD

Dr. R. O. Earl has served Queen's and the cause of education in Canada for forty years in the fields of teaching, research and administration. Born in Brockville, Dr. Earl on graduation from Brockville Collegiate Institute was awarded the Leitch scholarship in English and chemistry by Queen's University. In 1914 he graduated from Queen's at the top of his class with the honours B.A. in general science.

Three days before Britain declared war on Germany in World War I he took steps to join the Canadian army, and was a lieutenant with the First Contingent which sailed for Britain in September, 1914. He saw action in France and Belgium and at the war's end transferred to the Khaki University, London, as a science instructor.

On discharge, Dr. Earl took a post with the Canadian Civil Service in Ottawa but was persuaded by his former professor, Dr. W. T. MacClement, to return to Queen's as assistant Professor of Botany. After post-graduate study he was awarded the Ph.D. by the University of Chicago which unsuccessfully tried to retain him on its teaching staff. A botanist by training, he has done much research in his own field. He continued his interest in military affairs and in 1938 was appointed in command of Queen's C.O.T.C. unit with the rank of lieutenant-colonel. In 1940 Lt.-Colonel Earl was appointed chairman of the Canadian Universities military committee.

Long prominent and active in teachers organizations, Dr. Earl has served a number of times as examiner-in-chief of botany and zoology for the Ontario Department of Education. He also has been a member of numerous departmental boards and committees. As Dean of Queen's Faculty of Arts and Science he has influenced educational policy at the University and in the province.

Professor T. V. Lord graduated from Lindsay Collegiate Institute in 1913. After a year at Queen's he volunteered for active service in the Canadian Army, going overseas in 1915 with the 6th Field Company. In the spring of 1917 in France he joined the Royal Flying Corps as a fighter pilot. Captured a few months later over Germany he spent the rest of the war in a prisoner-of-war camp.

After the war Mr. Lord returned to Queen's and graduated in 1922 with the B.Sc. in metallurgy. Entering the employ of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company, he served in various capacities at Trail, Kimberley, and Moyie, in British Columbia, returning to Trail in 1928 as superintendent of the concentrator there. He was in charge of the construction of two gold mills, one in the mountains where everything was moved by caterpillar, and the other on Texada Island, off Powell River. In 1937 Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company opened a new gold mill at Big Missouri in northern B.C. with Mr. Lord in charge.

In July, 1938, Mr. Lord succeeded the late Professor George J. McKay as head of the Department of Metallurgy at Queen's. Since then, besides teaching, Professor Lord has done a great deal of research in his own field as well as acting as a consultant.

Dr. A. R. M. Lower is one of Canada's most distinguished authors in the field of history and his interpretation of events has aroused considerable interest both in Canada and abroad. His Colony to Nation: A History of Canada, 1946, won for him the Tyrrell Medal of the Royal Society of Canada, the Governor-General's Medal of the Canadian Authors Association and the I.O.D.E. award. He also won the Canadian Authors Association medal again in 1955.

A native of Barrie, Ont. Dr. Lower graduated in 1914 from the University of Toronto with his B.A., and nine years later was awarded his M.A. degree. In 1926 Harvard University gave him the A.M. degree and in 1929 the Ph.D. degree.

In the meantime Professor Lower had served as instructor in language and history in the Faculty of Education, University of Toronto, from 1914 to 1916 and had acted as assistant chairman, Board of Historical Publications, Public Archives of Canada, engaged in editing, translating, and research in Canadian history. This was in the period of 1919 to 1925. For most of World War I, 1916 to 1919, Dr. Lower saw service with the R.C.N.V.R. in the Dover Patrol in the North Sea.

In 1926 Dr. Lower began university teaching at Tufts College, Mass., and later at Harvard University and the University of Manitoba. He has been the James Douglas Professor of Canadian and Colonial History at Queen's since 1947.

Dr. Lower has held many important elective posts including the presidency of the Canadian Historical Society, presidency of the Civil Liberties Association of Manitoba, presidency of the Quinte Historical Sites and Parkways Association and chairmanship of Section 2 of the Royal Society of Canada.

His books in addition to Colony to Nation, have included Canada, Nation and Neighbor (1952), Unconventional Voyages (1953), This Most Famous Stream (1954) and Canadians in the Making (1958).

Dr. Norman Miller was born and brought up in Elgin County, Ontario. After graduating from Aylmer Collegiate Institute, he entered Queen's University as a freshman in the Faculty of Arts. A brilliant student, he graduated in 1910 with the Master of Arts degree.

On leaving Queen's, Professor Miller taught from 1911 to 1913 at Seaforth Collegiate Institute as mathematics master. He then studied advanced mathematics at Harvard University for three years, being awarded the Ph.D. degree by Harvard in 1916. For the next three years Dr. Miller served with the Canadian Army, most of that time with the 53rd Battery in France.

On returning to Canada Dr. Miller was appointed to the teaching staff of the Department of Mathematics at Queen's. He was an instructor in 1919, assistant professor, 1920, associate professor from 1921 to 1928, and professor since that time. His present rank is Professor of Mathematics and Chairman of Extramural and Tutorial Work in Mathematics. He has served Queen's for forty years.

Dr. Miller has written several books in his own field of interest. His book, First Course in Differential Equations was published in 1935. In 1940 he was joint author of Advanced Course in Algebra. In 1943 was published his Plane Trigonometry and Statics, and 1948-53 his Mathematics for Canadians. He is also prominent and active in several professional societies and associations. One of Dr. Miller's greatest personal triumphs has been the success of his students in the Putman mathematical competition, competing with top students from all U.S. and Canadian universities.

Dr. A. Vibert Douglas was appointed Dean of Women at Queen's in September, 1939.

As a young woman at Cambridge University she studied under such distinguished scientists as Rutherford and Eddington. She is the official biographer of the latter.

Dr. Douglas was born in Montreal, attended private schools in England and public schools in Westmount before attending McGill University. She graduated in 1920 with an honours B.A. and first-class honours in mathematics and physics. She obtained the Master of Science degree in 1921 and the Doctor of Philosophy degree in 1926, both from McGill.

During World War I she worked in the War Office under the late Sir Auckland Geddes as statistician in the Department of Recruiting, and after the Armistice was registrar of the Khaki University under Dr. H. M. Tory.

DR. A. VIBERT DOUGLAS

Dr. Douglas has taken an active part in women's organizations, particularly those of world-wide influence such as the International and Canadian Federations of University Women. She is a former convener of the committee of selection for scholarships of both organizations. She is also past president of the International Federation of University Women and of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada of which she is a Fellow. Last August she attended the International Astronomical Union conference in Moscow as one of twenty Canadian scientists active in the Geophysical Year's astronomy projects.

These five members of staff were honoured at the Faculty Club annual dinner in Wallace Hall on April 3. Principal Mackintosh, on behalf of the Club, presented life memberships to the four who are retiring from teaching: Dr. R. G. Earl, Professor T. V. Lord, Dr. A. R. M. Lower, and Dr. Norman Miller.

In paying tribute to the group Dr. Mackintosh said that all have made distinguished contributions to Queen's. The purpose of the presentation was not to recount their achievements, but to assure them that they would continue to be members of this company of scholars.

Dean Earl was retiring despite pleas to continue teaching. "We were undergraduates together, but separated by that abyss which yawns between senior and freshman," said the Principal. "A military colleague vowed he was the best adjutant in the Canadian Army. We know him, as a great teacher, devoted to science, apprehending and knowing a life wider than science."

Prof. T. V. Lord — "Students and colleagues will find his retirement a great loss. I find it an embarrassment, because I taught him in 1922. He had extensive experience as a practising metallurgist before becoming a worthy successor to Prof. George McKay. We are all glad that he is going to continue his researches at the University."

Dr. A. R. M. Lower—"He came to us as a seasoned but by no means silent veteran . . . Queen's may have put on him something that Sandy Macphail called the 'imprint of her mighty thumb'; but the chief imprint is that of his own lively, questing mind, his fine style, and his deep-rooted Canadianism."

Dr. Norman Miller — "He graduated just before I entered Queen's . . . When he left Harvard he bequeathed me his share in 41 Conant Hall. He was appointed to the Queen's staff before I was. Few can have equalled the soundness and solidity of his teaching service or the firmness of his standards. The proof is in the fine mathematicians he has produced."

Dr. A. Vibert Douglas — "She retires from the post of Dean of Women, but will continue part-time as Professor of Astronomy. She is notable for the vigour of her intellectual leadership, the breadth of her interests, and the depth of her compassion. . . . I expect Dr. Douglas will continue to be my most-travelled colleague."

Dean Earl replied on behalf of the group of retiring staff members. He said they were grateful for the kind words that had been spoken about them but "our opinion is that we should praise Queen's for its help to us. Some days ago I heard one of our number, Arthur Lower, in a moving talk say, among other things, that Queen's was free. So it is, and we are free to be good, indifferent, or worse. But I prefer to look at it as opportunity—opportunity to do the best we can in the ways we like best, and be paid for it. There is no other occupation of which that could be said and no university so truly free as Queen's."

"This is no accident," said Dean Earl. "It is the result of our history and our government, which is carried on as the result of elections within Faculties by the staff, and for the Council and the Board of Trustees by the graduates, and, to some extent, by their deputies. It also rests broadly upon the fruits of centuries of struggle which we take too much for granted. And so we have been happy here."

"One thing which I do not appreciate is the expression of hope (most kindly meant) that we will enjoy a well-earned rest in our declining years. Declining years! Let me tell those of you who are not biologists that the human being begins to fall off in its rate of metabolism well before birth, that this rate swings down until middle age with deceleration, after which decline is very slow indeed. So you are declining faster than we are. Indeed, if you had gone in for prize-fighting instead of scholarship you would all have been retired by reaching the old age of thirty, if not for another reason before."

" . . . And so, though much moved and touched by this occasion and what it represents, we are still sure that we shall go on like old Ulysses

Made weak by time and fate, but strong in will

To strive, to seek, to find, and not to yield.

IMPROVING THEIR STEPS

By NEIL M. LECKIE,
(Arts 1897)

• I have been requested by the Editor to write a few paragraphs recalling an incident which took place in this University in the autumn of the year 1896; an incident or occurrence the effects of which survive to the present day. I use a title borrowed from a different but an equally respectable source, which will be found quite relevant by any one who will glance over this page. A relative of mine has some connection with the famous old Episcopal St. George's Church in New York, and recently, within a few weeks of each other, two items appeared in a weekly publication which is furnished to all the families of the congregation, both touching on the same subject, though not quite harmoniously. The first of the two was a copy of a solemn admonition seventy years old warning the Church members to refrain from giving any countenance to dancing parties, while the second was an official announcement of the date on which the dancing classes would be resumed for the young people of the Church, explaining also that a welcome would be given to persons of more advanced age who wished to "Improve their Steps." Two opinions.

THE AUTHOR

The author of these reminiscences is the Rev. Dr. Neil MacMillan Leckie, who served first the Presbyterian Church and then the United Church in Western Ontario for a lifetime. Now retired and living in Grimsby, Ontario, he is still active in many lines of endeavour. Recently the Ryerson Press published a collection of his delightful essays under the title of "Any Well that Springs," and he is well known as a writer and columnist to the readers of the "United Church Observer." An enthusiastic alumnus he still takes an active interest in the affairs of his Alma Mater as a member of the Board of Management of the Theological College, and he is a past chairman of the Theological Alumni, and a past member of the University Council.

On a certain evening in this University in the year 1896, this same difference of opinion was expressed even more emphatically. Prior to this date there was held each year a social gathering which was called a "Conversazione," or a "Conversat." There was music. Food was served, and there was a parade of young men and maidens, with conversation on philosophy and other academic matters; and at a seemly hour of the evening all was over, some at least of the members of the Levana Society being escorted politely to their boarding houses. But there was growing up in some undergraduate hearts a desire for a different kind of entertainment. There had been some classical studies about the Nine Muses of Mount Parnassus, and it was thought fitting that honour should be paid to another of these ladies as well as to the high priestess of mere conversation. And one evening there came to me a group of five or six students with a request. On the following Saturday evening at the Alma Mater Society, the plans for the coming annual Conversat were to be made, and the wish was expressed that I should introduce a Motion in favour of dancing in Convocation Hall as an item of the programme. I asked them,

● Who's on the University's Board of Trustees?

At a recent meeting of one of the branches this question was raised by a prominent graduate, who ventured the opinion that the majority of alumni, himself included, did not know who were on the Board, the chief governing body of the University. He suggested that the list, as well as a list of the membership of the University Council, might be published in the Review, for purposes of information.

There are three ex-officio members of the Board: the Chancellor, the Principal, and the Rector. Officers of the Board are E. C. Gill, Toronto, Ont., chairman; M. C. Tillotson, secretary, and J. W. Bannister, assistant secretary. Elective members are as follows:

Around the CAMPUS

U. K. High Commissioner. Sir Saville Garner, high commissioner of the United Kingdom in Canada, was the guest speaker at the annual dinner of the Faculty Club held in Wallace Hall on April 3. "The free world must advertise its virtues, not its vices, among the awakening millions in Asia and Africa if it is to be successful in its struggle with communism for men's minds," he said. "In all the talk of the struggle of the free world versus communism, of freedom against tyranny, everyone in the West assumes that communism is godless and evil, while the virtues of democracy are apparent," he said.

Awards. Queen's graduates were prominent in the scholarship list of the National Research Council for 1959-60: studentships ($2,200), Gerald B. Anger, Kingston, Ont., Irvine J. W. Robinson, Kingston, Ont., John R. Whittaker, Cornwall, Ont., Richard S. Crabbe, Deseronto, Ont.; bursaries ($1,800), Edward A. Ballik, Toronto, Ont., William A. Crabbe, Kingston, David J. Fieldhouse, Kingston, Ont., and Peter P. M. Meincke, Waterloo, Ont.; Robert Lantos, Budapest, Hungary, and Thomas G. Kincaid, Prescott, Ont.; post-doctorate overseas fellowship ($2,700-$3,500), James F. Richards, Napanee, Ont. . . . Three scholarships, valued at $1,350 resident and $800 non-resident, for graduate study at Bryn Mawr College, Pennsylvania, have been won by Miss Dolores Mary Ryback, Hamilton, Ont.; Miss Mary Ann Thatcher, Ottawa, Ont., and Miss Susan McCorquodale, Kingston, Ont. . . . Seven Queen's students have won Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation awards, valued at $1,500 each plus the full cost of tuition and fees for the first year of graduate study at the university of the winner's choice. The Queen's students are: David J. Fieldhouse and R. Edward Stephens, Kingston, Ont.; Miss Dolores Ryback, Hamilton, Ont.; Kenneth D. Card, Lake St. Peter, Ont.; John A. Gunn, Sillery, Que.; George E. MacKinnon, Fort William, Ont., and Royce C. MacGillivray, Dunvegan, Ont.

Soviet Ambassador. Dr. A m a s a s p Aroutunian, Soviet ambassador to Canada, gave the annual Alma Mater Society Lecture before a standing-room-only audience in Grant Hall on March 19. The ambassador spoke on the Seven-Year Plan (1958-65), and said the object of Soviet economy policy was "to overtake and to outstrip the most advanced capitalistic countries in output per head of population in the briefest possible period. The aim is to attain the world's highest standard of living." The speaker saw the Plan as "a solid basis for economic and cultural co-operation—and I venture to say not only in that sphere—between Canada and the Soviet Union." He emphasized that peace was essential to the realization of the Plan.

FACULTY CLUB DINNER

Principal W. A. Mackintosh makes a presentation to Sir Saville Garner, high commissioner of the United Kingdom in Canada, at the annual dinner of the Faculty Club, while the president, Dr. H. R. Clark, looks on. Sir Saville, guest speaker, spoke on the advantages of democracy.

Courses in Opera. This year, for the first time, the Queen's Summer School is offering courses in opera. The courses will cover a programme in elementary, intermediate, and advanced vocal and operatic production, and will be conducted by Luciano Della Pergola, formerly of La Scala Opera, Milan, and Edith Della Pergola, formerly of the Staatsopera in Vienna. Maestro and Madame Della Pergola are members of the staff of the Faculty of Music of McGill University. The courses will be offered July 6 to August 14, as one of the features of the School of Fine Arts which also provides instruction in painting, ballet, and drama.

Summer Visitors. About 3,500 out-of-town visitors will take part in various activities on the campus this summer. More than 1,000 are expected to attend Summer School, and about 2,450 persons will attend conferences, meetings, and seminars. The largest gathering will be of 500 delegates attending the Baptist Church Conference in Grant Hall June 22 to 26. Another large conference will be that of The Faraday Society, September 1 to 3, when 250 delegates will attend meetings in Ellis Hall.

Staff Notes. H. P. Gundy, chief librarian, has been named as recipient of a travel grant in the humanities and social sciences by the Nuffield Foundation of Britain. Mr. Gundy will spend July and August in Great Britain. . . . Seven members of the faculty are among the winners of senior research and senior Arts fellowships and short-term grants offered by the Canada Council: senior research fellowships — Dr. Hans Eichner of the German Department and Prof. J. E. Smyth of the School of Commerce; grants in aid—Dr. Hugh G. Thorburn, Department of Pol-

AN EVENING OF TRIBUTE TO DR. R. O. EARL

A large number of former students in honours biology met in the Students' Memorial Union on April 25 for a testimonial dinner in honour of Dr. R. O. Earl, Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Science and Professor of Biology, who is retiring this summer. The moving spirit in organizing this dinner was Dr. Luella Weresub of the Botanical Research Institute, Ottawa. A large framed photograph of Dr. Earl by Karsh was presented to the Department of Biology and a smaller photograph to Mrs. Earl, while a magnificent camera was given together with a book which contained the record of achievements of the contributors and excerpts from their letters to Dr. Weresub. Shown above, with the large Karsh photograph, are Dr. Weresub, Dr. J. R. Vallentyne, of Cornell University, who served as chairman, and the guest of honour, Dr. Earl.

Hodgetts, Department of Political Science. . . . Dr. B. W. Sargent, head of the Physics Department, has been re-appointed as a member of the National Research Council for a further three-year term. . . . Prof. E. G. Clarke, lecturer in Hebrew in the Faculty of Arts and Science and professor of Hebrew and Old Testament in Queen's Theological College, has been awarded a Canada Council grant for research in semitic languages. . . . A painting by Ralph Allen of the Art Department is one of the award-winning entries in the seventy-sixth annual spring exhibition of the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts. . . . Dr. W. A. Miss Royce brought news of staff changes at the University, and word about the new buildings. With a softly modulated voice and warm smile, she explained her subject, "A Room of One's Own," meaning the attainment of a position which recognized one's ability. She recalled that on the continents women had headed university departments over the centuries, but in England women had never been given a prominent teaching position until recent times. Now in England and in Canada several women had each been given "a room of her own." Miss Evalina Thompson, Arts '38, president, was in the chair. There was a large attendance for the meeting.

Mrs. C. H. R. Campling Will Head Kingston Alumnae Executive

Mrs. C. H. R. Campling (Laura Miller), Arts '46, was elected president of the Kingston alumnae at the annual dinner meeting held in the McLaughlin Room of the Students' Memorial Union on April 7. Mrs. Campling succeeds Mrs. R. D. Bradfield (Eva Newell), Arts '26.

During the business portion of the meeting the sum of $300 was voted to the Marty Memorial Scholarship and $100 to the Eliza Fitzgerald Scholarship. Presentation of various reports was also a feature of this part of the programme.

A highlight was the description of colourful personalities known at Queen's given by Mrs. H. W. Harkness (Maud Brownlee), Arts '13, Miss Caroline Mitchell, Arts '26, Mrs. J. R. Carter (Evangeline Girvan), Arts '37, Mrs. David Slater (Lillian Bell) Arts '42, and Mrs. G. M. Brockington, and Ron Stewart.

The door prize was won by Mrs. C. W. Workman (Lucy Cumming), Arts '02.

Dean H. G. Conn Speaks To North Bay Alumni

Another factor besides general Grade 13 standing is needed to determine which students should enter university, Dean H. G. Conn of the Faculty of Applied Science told the North Bay alumni at a dinner meeting held in St. Andrew's Church Hall on March 18.

Dean Conn said that in the past it had found that there was no positive correlation between a student's marks in individual Grade 12 subjects, and his success in a similar course in university. General Grade 13 standing gives a better indication. Those students with an average less than 65 per cent in Grade 13 have a poor chance to succeed in university; those with 70 per cent usually do well. However, many students who have an average of 75 per cent or better will fail to finish their course.

"We require another factor of screening," stated Dean Conn. "A method is needed that will discover those personal characteristics that are essential for a university graduate."

The speaker was introduced by Jack Albulet, Sc. '32, and was thanked by J. G. A. Stevenson, Sc. '28.

In the election of officers, Frank Speers, Com. '27, was named as president for the ensuing year. He succeeds Dr. F. D. Wallace, Arts '09, LL.D. '56, who served as chairman.

Also appointed were: first vice-president, Frank Lamorie, Com. '49; second

Dean A. Vibert Douglas Addresses Brantford Branch

Dr. A. Vibert Douglas, Dean of Women at Queen's, was the guest speaker at the meeting of the Brantford branch held in the Brant Avenue United Church Hall on March 9. Dean Douglas described a trip she had made recently to Russia in company with other Canadian astronomers. The Russians, who were hosts for the International Astronomical Union's conference, gave the visitors a warm welcome, she said. Her informative address was well received.

Remember When

"Why do you come to me!" and received the answer that as I had attained the dizzy eminence (I think this was the word they used) of being the Chairman of the Senior Year in Arts, and that as I was a prospective Divinity student, though not quite as solemn in appearance as the other Theologs, they thought I was the man for the job. I think they added something about my successful nomination of a candidate for the presidency of the Alma Mater Society in the person of my dear friend William Folger Nickle, who so recently departed from us. In short I listened to their story, and although I had never taken a sten. improved or unimproved, on any dancing floor, I agreed to perform this duty.

I did so, as I had nominated Mr. Nickle a few weeks earlier. On that occasion the Chairman gave ample time for any other nomination. But no other name was proposed. On the subject of the dancing it was different. The hall was crowded. And as was expected, Divinity broke out into a tempest of opposition. "Dancing!" shouted one of the best of the students of Theology, who was to give a good account of himself at a later day. "Dancing! It is from the Devil! How can we go out even to Calabogie and Snow Road, to preach the Gospel, if people know that we come from a College where dancing is permitted!" And for an hour the battle raged. But at last a silence fell upon the scene. A Show of Hands! No! The Chairman gave the order, for all those who voted "Yea" to congregate on the east side of the Hall, and those who opposed this terrible innovation to huddle together on the opposite side of the building. Heads were then counted, and if there were any special correspondents present from Calabogie or Snow Road, or any other part of the world, the word would be sent forth that the motion had been carried by a small majority. Nor is it for me to say whether or not they were in the right. But this I have observed. I have been journeying to our beloved University once or twice a year ever since I ceased to be a student, and I nearly always notice some printed paper on the wall, announcing some function made possible by the casting of a majority of the votes at our lively meeting in the year 1896.

In Memoriam

Though I am not a Queen's man born, nor a Queen's man bred, yet when I die there's a Queen's man dead. So works the magic of this place.

● So spoke Dr. W. E. McNeill on the occasion of Queen's University's hundredth birthday in 1941. Today there is a Queen's man dead.

Dr. W. E. McNeill, M.A., Ph.D., D.C.L., LL.D., F.R.S.C., died in Kingston General Hospital on May 8, in his eighty-third year. He had been in failing health since 1951, but up until a few months ago Dr. McNeill could be seen taking his daily walk through the campus which he claimed had worked such magic for him.

It is true that he was not a Queen's man born, though he claimed some advantage in having had a mother baptized by the young Rev. George Monro Grant. William Everett McNeill was born at Lower Montague, Prince Edward Island, November 29, 1876. After graduating from Prince of Wales College in Charlottetown he proceeded to Acadia University in Nova Scotia where he graduated with his B.A. degree and the Governor General's Medal. After a year at Harvard where he earned his second Bachelor of Arts degree, he taught for three years at Bates College. There he met his future wife, Caroline Emily Libby, who was to serve as Professor of Romance Languages and Dean of Women. This gracious lady predeceased Dr. McNeill in 1948.

In 1905 McNeill returned to Harvard as a James Savage Scholar and as a teaching assistant in English. Harvard awarded him his M.A. in 1907 and his Doctorate two years later.

In 1910 and 1911 Dr. McNeill spent his time between terms at Oxford University, continuing his study of English under some of the most brilliant scholars of the time. It became a long-standing custom for him to use his time away from lectures in this way to improve his teaching.

It was fully a half-century ago that Dr. McNeill turned down more lucrative positions to accept an appointment at Queen's as assistant professor of English under Prof. James Cappon. His students recall his lectures as being extraordinarily clear and lucid with an excellent and brilliant style of presentation. Indeed, Dr. McNeill's lectures were known as some of the most interesting and profitable in the University. During the course of time, he was made acting head of the Department of English.

As the 'teen years drew to a close Dr. McNeill was made chairman of the University Board of Studies in Arts, the board which was responsible for the modernization of undergraduate and graduate study courses in Arts. His whole life was changed in 1920 when Dr. McNeill was appointed the University's Registrar and Treasurer upon the resignation of George Y. Chown. He also served at this time as secretary to the Board of Trustees and in this capacity he sat in upon planning committees during Queen's great period of development after World War I. After ten years, Dr. McNeill dropped the position of Registrar to become Vice-Principal and Treasurer of Queen's.

Even after his retirement in 1947, Dr. McNeill officially served the University until 1954 as an elected member of the Board of Trustees. It was under his chairmanship that both R. C. Wallace and W. A. Mackintosh were installed as Principals of Queen's, two of four under whom he served.

One of the greatest testimonials to Dr. McNeill's versatility was his success during the 1920's with the debating teams. He coached the Queen's teams to several intercollegiate championships and to victory over the Imperial Debating Team from Great Britain. It was his facility in choice and presentation of words which made Dr. McNeill one of the great public speakers of his day, and his Convocation addresses in particular are remembered as masterpieces.

He had more occasion than most scholars to make such addresses. In 1933 Acadia honoured Dr. McNeill with the degree D.C.L. and in that same year the University of Western Ontario granted him the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws. Perhaps his best-known address is "Have You Anything to Declare?", the one which he made upon receiving an LL.D. from Queen's in 1947, the year of his retirement. In an editorial which appeared in the Ottawa Journal following Dr. McNeill's death, it was said of this address that "for scholarship, for understanding, for grandeur of advice and beauty of form, this was one of the noble utterances of our time."

"If I could find one word which would best describe him, I think it would be the word loyalty." This was another of the tributes heaped upon Dr. McNeill's memory, this being from the funeral address of the Rev. Dr. H. A. Kent. The funeral service was held on May 11, in Chalmers United Church, Kingston. The Rev. Dr. W. F. Bannister officiated with the assistance of the Rev. Dr. George A. Brown and the Rev. Dr. Kent, a former principal of Queen's Theological College during Dr. McNeill's time as an administrator. Heading the list of many friends and colleagues gathered to mourn this distinguished gentleman was his cousin, Mr. A. G. Cameron of Trail, B.C., a graduate of Arts '06.

Dr. Kent praised Dr. McNeill's loyalty to his work, his colleagues, and his friends, recalling that during the dark days of the depression "he stood between the University staff and the dangers threatening them as an immovable barrier. . . . He loved good things: good writing, good speaking and good behaviour. He had the reticence of his race . . . and spoke seldom of his inner life . . . but he loved God and goodness all his days."

A brief committal service was held at Cataraqui Cemetery where Dr. McNeill was laid to rest in the ground hallowed to Queen's University. By Dr. McNeill there lie in adjacent graves three former principals—George Monro Grant, Daniel Miner Gordon, and Robert Charles Wallace.

It was Principal Wallace who described Dr. McNeill upon his retirement as "one who has rendered conspicuous service to Queen's University. An exponent of English prose, pure and undefiled, a financier of unusual sagacity, a careful husbinder of University funds, a wise counsellor and a warmhearted friend, he has made a mark on Queen's that will endure."

These sentiments were echoed by a host of graduates with whom his influence remains permanent when Dr. McNeill was presented with the Montreal Medal for bringing honour to his university and distinction to himself.

At Queen's his memorials are everywhere. He himself considered the modernization of the course of study in Arts as one of his major contributions to the University. At the end of Dr. McNeill's tenure of office, half the university was new and all the rest renewed but two frame buildings, now replaced. He played a leading role in this tremendous programme of development and much of the burden of planning and financing fell to him.

Among his lesser known but lasting contributions to the University are several inscriptions either composed or chosen for plaques in the Students' Memorial Union. His remarkable collection of speech recordings taped by Queen's contemporaries or by notable personages visiting the University and the contents of his study will never be sold, but have been left in the hands of University officials for distribution to selected students and members of staff. Each piece will be a memorial, small perhaps, but highly cherished, for he himself was a cherisher of memoirs and mementoes.

The greatest visible tribute to his memory, though, is one most enjoyed, paradoxically, by those who knew him least — McNeill House, the first men's residence to be erected on the campus (1955). Over the fire-place in the common room hangs an impressive portrait of this "outwardly austere gentleman" who proved to previous generations of boys "a very gracious and human sort of man."

Respected and admired by thousands of graduates the world over as teacher, scholar, administrator and orator, Dr. McNeill was for fifty years a force to be reckoned with in educational circles across the continent.

Tributes

Principal W. A. Mackintosh:

The death of Dr. W. E. McNeill ends a career which had singular significance and fruitfulness for Queen's University. For the thirty-eight years of his active service and in nearly twelve years of association during his retirement, his administration for scholarship, his respect for facts, his fine precision of speech and thought, and his devotion to the interests of the University, were of immeasurable benefit. Whether as Professor, Registrar, Treasurer or Vice-Principal, he believed in being prepared. In the very difficult days twenty-five years ago, his prudence and unremitting care saved the University from the serious effects of the depression. His name will be remembered not only by those who pass McNeill House but by all who know the history of Queen's University.

M. C. Tillotson, University Treasurer:

The announcement of the death of W. E. McNeill has saddened the day of all who know of his contributions to Queen's University. From the Department of English he succeeded to the position of registrar and treasurer in 1921, with little or no training or understanding of business administration. Within a relatively short time, he acquired a very considerable knowledge of accounting, economics, and finance. He understood the educational objectives of Queen's as well as the business and fiscal aspects of these objectives. He was an educator in a broad sense of that term.

As indicated in his character, his decisions and his way of life, he had, in large measure, the qualities of integrity and moral courage, a sense of personal responsibility and the stamina to stand against pressure. He had the ability to marshal and weigh evidence objectively. He was a wise counsellor, a devoted officer and Trustee of the University. On the occasion of his retirement in 1947, the late Professor George Herbert Clarke composed the following poem in his honor:

FIRST OFFICER

Sir, your last watch is over: curt and terse
Are the bells of Time: they strike, and all hands wait
To hail and honour their departing mate;
Earnest their tones, nor do they need rehearse
Praises, but as a poet feels his verse
Reach for its rhythm, they would celebrate
Your constancy and courage, truly great
When storm ravaged the ship and fears grew worse.
Alone, off duty, you would read once more.
(Your secret strength) ancient ancestral tales
Of Beowulf and Tristan, Hamlet, Lear —
Seeming to mark the while, from some far shore,
Lute music and a gust of nightingales
Chiding the silence of a midnight mere.

Gordon J. Smith, former Treasurer:

It was my great privilege to know Dr. W. E. McNeill for a half century, and to be closely associated with him in the affairs of the University for almost twenty-five of these fifty years.

My first contact with him was in the fall of 1909—when he joined the staff of the Department of English at Queen's and when, as a lad of seventeen, I sat in his "Senior English" class. Even yet I well remember the vigour and lucidity of his lectures.

Then from 1926 until his resignation in 1947 as Vice-Principal and Treasurer of the University, I had the good fortune to be in constant contact with him in connection with the various administrative and financial concerns of Queen's. In the several posts which I held in the Alumni and University organizations during these years, Dr. McNeill's kindly help and invariably wise counsel were always gladly given and deeply appreciated.

When I succeeded him in 1947 as Treasurer and as Secretary of the Board of Trustees, his invaluable advice continued to be available to me at all times. He was an ever present help in time of need. And the warmth and the mellowness of his personal friendship during the years of his retirement were among my most cherished possessions.

Dr. McNeill was a man among men. As scholar, teacher, writer, speaker, administrator, financier, his tremendous and versatile knowledge and abilities were constantly a source of amazement to me. Year by year the wonder grew

That one small head could carry all he knew.

To be transferred suddenly, as he was in 1921, from his academic post as head of the Department of English to the combined offices of Registrar and Treasurer of the University and Secretary of the Board of Trustees — to become virtually the business manager of Queen's—would be a frightening change for any man. But Dr. McNeill's immense capacity enabled him to meet this challenge. He filled his new and strange positions with conspicuous success. For twenty-six years — through times of serious financial stress and other difficulties—he served the University faithfully and well. His analytical mind, his remarkable ability to marshal his facts and to present them clearly and succinctly, were not the least of his many attributes.

In 1930 he gave up the Registrarship, but retained his other offices. And in that year an additional honour came to him by his appointment as Vice-Principal. Then for several years after he relinquished his formal duties, he continued to render valuable service as a member of the Board of Trustees. The University will for all time owe an incalculable debt to Dr. W. E. McNeill. He was truly one of the "Makers of Queen's."

Dr. A. Vibert Douglas, Dean of Women:

Sir, your last watch is over: curt and terse
Are the bells of Time; they beat, and all hands wait
To hail, to honour their departing mate. . . .

This salute was written in 1947 by his old friend and colleague George Herbert Clarke to mark the retirement of William Everett McNeill as Treasurer and Vice-Principal of Queen's University.

And now to mark his passing with the flag flying at half mast over the grey limestone tower and the young spring leaves just emerging around the campus he loved we who were his colleagues pause to hail, to honour his memory. We hail him first as a scholar—he would be gratified to know that we place this first. That Professor Kittridge of Harvard had, in 1907, chosen him to read his papers in his course on Shakespeare was a life-long source of quiet pride. We hail him also as a conscientious teacher who instilled a love of English literature in many of his students. We honour him as a man of practical wisdom in University affairs, a staunch and loyal friend, a man of character with a powerful will yet withal a gentle spirit and a diffidence born of sensitive self-criticism.

It was this diffidence that made him value so highly and treasure so carefully letters and little notes in which friends and colleagues and some whom he had never met expressed their appreciation and enjoyment of one or another of his addresses or paid heartfelt homage to his influence as a teacher and as a scholar quick to encourage scholarly endeavour in others. Somewhat apologetically and hesitantly he would now and again show a few of these warm tributes to a friend, dwelling upon the pleasure and encouragement he derived from them. To one friend, a colleague and neighbour for twenty years, he entrusted several folders of letters, clippings, typescripts of addresses and of citations composed when, by virtue of his office as Vice-Principal, it was his task to present distinguished men for honorary degrees. From this material a few excerpts are selected for the Queen's Review so that colleagues, graduates and friends far spread may be reminded of his influence and of his rare ability to express noble thoughts in fitting and beautiful prose even as "apples of gold in baskets of silver" a phrase from the Book of Proverbs which he greatly loved.

Offering his thanks at the dinner in 1947 when his portrait was presented, he said, "My heart's desire was to look like a Professor of English. I should like best of all to look like a Queen's man." He then spoke of his colleagues during thirty-five years at Queen's: "All these, seen and unseen, have put windows in my mind. They have made me a Queen's man and so in that portrait I hold my head high."

On this same occasion he said of Principal W. A. Mackintosh, "He is a great economist because he is so much more. He has humour in his heart and poetry in his soul. He worthily wears the large mantle of Shortt and Skelton."

In the interregnum of the spring of 1936, the Convocation became the Vice-Principal's responsibility and Dr. McNeill rose to the occasion with an eloquent Convocation address based on the scriptural admonition, "Be not conformed to this world but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind." The university could teach a man human dignity and worthwhileness in life, and impart what Thomas Hardy so hauntingly portrayed as "radiance rare and fathomless/When I come back from Lyonesse/With magic in my eyes."

On his retirement in 1947, he again gave the Convocation address—the oft quoted and well remembered "Have You Anything to Declare?" It was reproduced in Canada, it was reproduced in Scotland. Letters of appreciation came to him from near and from far bringing him a sense of achievement that warmed his heart. Other letters which he filed with appreciative care were from past students testifying to beauty in poetry, prose and drama which his class-room lectures had revealed; or to the delight which his public lectures on Carlyle and Milton had given, and his scintillating Story of Queen's, perfect in substance, in expression and in delivery. In his Chancellor's lectures to the Theological Conference in 1949 entitled The King's English his erudition shone forth with unostentatious richness.

In some memorable addresses, in succinct citations and moving memorial sketches Dr. McNeill praised famous men and women with discrimination, sincerity and eloquence. Phrases from some of these fine tributes are right worthily applicable to himself. Like Professor James Cappon, who was to him "a quickening and liberating power. . . . The high priest of my salvation," he thought of languages as "repositories of man's spiritual experience"; and like Cappon he loved the subject which he taught. What he said of another older colleague, Professor John Watson, is equally true of himself, "his voice is yet heard . . . and his power still goes out unbound like the sweet influences of the Pleiades." Likewise applicable to himself were his words in praise of J. M. Macdonnell, Chairman of the Trustee Board, in 1955: "He has represented Queen's with distinction on many notable occasions . . . perfect in every sentence . . . a strong man in helping maintain the best traditions of the University . . . wise and judicious always, and when necessary as authoritative as a Prime Minister . . . Queen's would have been a much lesser place without him."

So too, the sympathetic tribute to Dean Matheson, Professor of Mathematics, was a self-portrait when he wrote, "His fineness of character and fairness of mind illumined a way of life for all to follow. . . . He loved truth and honour and courtesy. All his deep instincts were to do justly, to show mercy, and to walk humbly. He spent his life prodigally for Queen's University, believing with quiet passion in its ideals and mission. He spent his life for something that will outlast it. No man can do better than that."

To the impact of Dr. McNeill's addresses the words apply which he penned in praise of his respected Principal, Dr. R. Bruce Taylor, "He was a master of kindling thought and vivid words that stirred the imagination and revealed truth like flashes of lightning."

One of Dr. McNeill's tours de force was his tribute to Lord Tweedsmuir delivered at less than a day's notice at the Memorial Service in Grant Hall in the winter of 1940. The opening and the closing sections of this superb oration read thus: "This hour, though shadowed with sadness is lighted with gladness. A knightly spirit has gone by to the sound of triumphal acclamations:

Servant of God, well done; well hast thou fought
The better fight.

That the dust of the ground can take so valiant a shape is the urge of our striving. That the dust of the ground can flower so whitely into virtue is the end of our hoping. . . .

All fires burn out at last. 'The sweetest canticle', wrote Lord Bacon, 'is Nunc dimittis, when a man hath obtained worthy ends.'

God accept him Christ receive him.

Thus with his own words upon our lips knowing full well that our minds and spirits have been enriched through association with him we bid him a respectful, an affectionate and a grateful farewell.

HAVE YOU ANYTHING TO DECLARE?

. . . The man who knows is wanted. He builds the bridges, wins the lawsuits, performs the delicate operations, preaches the good sermons, becomes a university Principal, does the honest thinking.

"Honest thinking," that is, thinking based on full knowledge. Some flabby persons try to make education painless. Do not, they say, ask students to learn facts, but teach them to think. O Thinking—what intellectual crimes are committed in thy name! How can a man think if he doesn't know? Charles Darwin gathered biological facts for twenty years without seeing any binding relationship. Then one day, while he was walking through an English country lane, the idea of evolution suddenly came to him. That's what thinking is—the flashing emergency of any idea after facts have been mulled over a long time. Even then it is probably wrong. It must be well tested. Roentgen, the discoverer of X-rays, when asked what he thought they were, replied: "I do not think; I experiment." Thinking is a highly dangerous performance for amateurs. You cannot think with hopes and fears and ignorance, but only with a well-trained and a well-filled mind.

Ettinger, Dean of the Faculty of Medicine, cited Dr. Urquhart as follows: "University teacher, investigator, soldier, industrial physician, who brings to his post as Chairman of the Ontario Hospital Services Commission the confidence of the profession of medicine, that as magician for the people, the government, and the profession, he will balance hospital budgets while keeping empty beds always in view, pull free diagnostic procedures out of hats, change indigence into fees-for-service and convert for the Ontario citizen the threat of disastrous costs to the monotonous payment of instalments."

ANYONE FOR CURLING?

Over the years there has been considerable loose talk about the comparative curling skill of the many Queen's graduates who are devotees of the game, but it remained for A. S. Robb, Sc. '36, of Belleville, Ontario, to come up with a concrete suggestion as to how this enthusiasm might be channelled into an inter-club competition.

At the spring meeting of the Board of Directors of the Alumni Association Mr. Robb hurled a challenge into the teeth of Queen's curlers everywhere to compete in a bonspiel to be arranged next winter at the new Belleville curling rink. The challenge was quickly accepted by various directors representing Hamilton, Ottawa, Brockville, and Kingston, and there were indications of other entries.

Graduates interested in learning more about this proposed venture are requested to get in touch with Mr. A. S. Robb, 246 Dufferin Ave., Belleville, Ont.

Alumni Directors Meet

Alumni Fund Objective

Set at $150,000

In 1959

Suitable Presentation

Planned For

Fifty-Year Graduates

● With an objective of $150,000 in contributions to the Alumni Fund from 6,000 alumni in 1959, the sum of $43,000 had been received from 1,874 by the end of April, D. L. Rigsby, working chairman of the Alumni Fund national committee, reported at the meeting of the Board of Directors held at the Students' Memorial Union on May 15.

Mr. Rigsby said it was intended to send out four appeals by mail this year and to organize a personal canvass in the various communities where there is a concentration of alumni. To date there are 211 contributors who have never before participated, and 110 who had increased the size of their contributions.

In the discussion that followed Mr. C. H. Drew described plans for an appeal on a class basis and volunteered to act with the years of his own vintage as a pilot group. Mr. Howard Hart reported that the Montreal executive liked the practice employed by some universities of suggesting that the annual gift might consist of, say, $5, plus a dollar for every year elapsed since graduation.

Consideration was given to the selection of a suitable presentation to be made to the fifty-year graduates who attend the Fall Reunion. Final decision for the gift this year was left to the advisory committee, and future policy will be decided at the fall meeting.

Presentation of reports by committee chairmen and branch presidents was a feature of the agenda. It is planned to circulate copies of the proposed constitution among the branch executives and to present the final draft for approval at the annual meeting in the fall.

D. G. Geiger, president of the Association, was in the chair.

Around the CAMPUS

Theological Convocation. The annual Convocation of Queen's Theological College was held on April 22 in Sydenham United Church. Before an audience of over 400, Principal Elias Andrews presented eleven graduates with testamurs and chalices. The Convocation address was given by the Rev. Norman M. Slaughter of Montreal, who warned against the forces attacking Christianity from within as well as from outside. Other speakers during the ceremonies were Principal Andrews, Principal W. A. Mackintosh, Dr. George A. Brown, and Rev. S. L. Osborne, principal of Ontario Ladies College.

Postgraduates. Thirty-four degrees in postgraduate studies were awarded at the Convocation of Arts and Science this spring. Ten candidates received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy, ten the Master of Arts degree, and fourteen the degree of Master of Science. Twenty-two postgraduate students in the Faculty of Applied Science also became Masters of Science. Of these students, nine were from Great Britain, three from Australia, two from New Zealand, and two from India, with Hungary and New Zealand represented as well.

Author. A book entitled The Wonder of the Christian Gospel, written by the Rev. Dr. J. M. Shaw, has just been published in Canada and in Great Britain. Dr. Shaw, professor emeritus, was for many years professor of Systematic Theology and Philosophy of Religion at Queen's Theological College. His latest book was written especially for laymen, he says, and is a statement of the substance of Christianity readily understandable by ordinary members of the church.

Staff Promotions. Following the May meeting of the Board of Trustees, Principal Mackintosh announced the following promotions among the academic staff—To the rank of Professor: W. D. Gilbert, mechanical engineering; R. J. Kennedy, civil engineering; Stuart Ryan, law; M. C. Urquhart, economics. To the rank of Associate Professor: Arthur Brebner, civil engineering; Dr. A. M. Perry, chemistry; Duncan Robertson, English.

A. B. of C. Pat Galasso, Arts and P.H.E. '55, has been appointed Secretary-Treasurer of the Athletic Board of Control. He succeeds Mr. Charles Hicks, for many years general secretary to the Board. Mr. Galasso, a native of Toronto, was an outstanding athlete and coach during his undergraduate days at Queen's and has undertaken to coach track and field and harrier activities next year. Since graduation he has taught for two years at Smiths Falls and has studied toward his doctorate at the University of Michigan. In addition to

HOUSEHOLD EFFECTS

Sixteen out of the fifty-six members of the graduating class in the Faculty of Medicine were married and the fathers of children. his position with the A. B. of C., Mr. Galasso will hold academic rank in the School of Physical and Health Education.

Switchboard. With the opening of a private branch dial telephone system at the University all buildings and offices have been linked together under one number. Previously there were 110 different numbers with several telephones on each. Now a two-position switch-board is connected to 293 telephones in University offices, residences and Kingston General Hospital. The extensive network necessitated by the University's rapid growth also provides for future expansion.

The Regina meeting was held on May 6 at the H.M.C.S. Queen, preceded by a dinner with the executive at the Assiniboia Club. Dr. N. B. McCannel, Med. '50, chaired the meeting, which was attended by seventy-five. Dr. McCannel introduced Mr. Laverty, and H. C. Flegg, Com. '30, thanked him.

On his return to Queen's Mr. Laverty was warm in his praise of the hospitality accorded to him by the graduates everywhere. He reported a widespread feeling that a University official should pay a visit to the branches in Western Canada at least once a year. Subsequently the Board of Directors of the Alumni Association promised to look into the matter of making the necessary arrangements.

Tribute

JAMES M. FARRELL, B.A., Q.C., LL.D., who died in Kingston April 2 at the age of ninety-two was one of our few nonagenarian graduates. Although born in Detroit he lived for almost ninety years in Kingston and practiced law in the city for sixty-five years. Indeed, he continued to spend the mornings in his office until a few weeks before his death.

J. M. Farrell gave signal leadership to many worthy causes and all that he did was marked alike by his concern for integrity and quality and his lack of concern for honours and recognition.

During the University's lean years his prudent counsel and his generous dedication of time and talents as a member of the Board of Trustees meant much. In these latter days he rejoiced that his beloved Alma Mater now had the means to do so many of the things he and others had dreamed of in an earlier day and no one took a livelier interest or greater pride in the changes and achievements on the Old Ontario Strand. The establishment of the Faculty of Law under such happy and promising auspices gave him great satisfaction and pleasure.

J. M. Farrell was fastidious without being fussy and possessed a rare feeling for the fitness of things. His courtliness and considerateness touched many for good and his integrity and sense of duty inspired and strengthened all who knew him. His faith, courage and cheerfulness lifted many a heart and lightened many a step.

It was fitting and a matter for deep thankfulness that there was quietness at the end because he was a man gentle in all his ways.

University Chaplain*

HOW MUCH LIFE INSURANCE SHOULD YOU OWN?

Most of us have asked this question only to discover there is no ready-made answer because needs and circumstances vary from family to family. The father of three children has greater needs and responsibilities than the young man who has just recently married. Some people have more substantial financial reserves than others. How much Life Insurance should you own to meet YOUR needs? Would it be $15,000?—$25,000?—$50,000 or more?

The Man from Manufacturers is in business to help you arrive at the right answer. Through his Security Graph Service you yourself can determine if you have enough life insurance to do the job you want done. Ask him about this special service today.

What has TIME done to Your LIFE INSURANCE ?

Everyone knows what can happen to the performance of a car that isn't serviced regularly. The same risk of "poor performance" holds true for your life insurance if you neglect to keep it up to date. Time brings changes in your life that in turn create the need for a review of your policies. Perhaps new beneficiaries should be appointed. Perhaps the method by which benefits are to be paid, either by income or by single amount, is no longer in your family's best interest. What would a careful review of your policies reveal? That you have more than enough life insurance—or that time has brought new needs for protection and saving?

By keeping in touch with the Man from Manufacturers you can be sure your life insurance is arranged to do the job you want it to do. Why not call him for a policy "check-up" today?

Weekend of October 17
Set for Fall Reunion
Registration Will Be Held
In Students' Union
Queen's-Varsity Game
Will Be A Feature

Kingston will be Mecca for hundreds of devout pilgrims on the weekend of October 17, the occasion of Fall Reunion. Approximately thirty - five classes are officially scheduled to convene and half a dozen others are planning to join the throng, as well as individual alumni who make the annual pilgrimage every year.

Under the Dix Plan the classes of '09, '10, '11, '12, '28, '29, '30, '31, '34, '47, '48, '48½, '49, '50, '59 are scheduled to hold a reunion. Because of the proximity of their fiftieth anniversary, the members of '10, '11, '12, however, are not planning any organized celebration. Several classes, including Science '19, and some in the '50's, are planning special reunions.

Registration begins Friday afternoon and from that time until the programme concludes with a University Church Service on Sunday there will be much to see and do. Not the least of the attractions will be the Queen's-Varsity game on Saturday afternoon.

The spotlight will be on the members of the Classes of '09 who will be returning to the campus from far and wide to mark their graduation of half a century ago. These elder statesmen will be guests of the University at the Reunion Dinner in Wallace Hall and at the football game. Judge J. H. McDonald, J. B. Stirling, and Dr. M. Y. Williams are acting as party whips for these groups. Their headquarters will be the John Orr Room in the Students Union.

The Class of '19, with John Buss and N. F. Tisdale making the arrangements, are planning a dinner at the Glenarden on Friday evening, and will attend the General Reunion dinner in the Union on Saturday.

In the Arts '28-'29-'30-'31 classes, J. A. Broadbent, Morgan Brown, and Graydon Saunders are acting as organizers. Science '28-'29-'30-'31 have K. R. MalGregor, Phil Roy, H. P. Dickey, A. G. Farquarhson, and H. G. Conn to round up their members, and Medicine '29-'30-'31 is depending on Dr. Gordon Mylks, Dr. G. B. Macpherson, and Dr. J. T. Tweddell. Medicine '28, which celebrated their thirtieth reunion last year, is not planning a formal reunion. For their twenty-fifth reunion, the Classes of '34 have A. B. M. Bell, J. C. L. Elliott, and Dr. J. E. Gorman to look after the details for this important occasion.

For Arts '47, '48, '49, '50, A. Kniewasser, Geoff Bruce, Mac Sinclair, Eric Bronskill,, John Chance, T. A. McEwan, George Manjuris are issuing the invitations. For Medicine '47-'48-'49-'50 the organizers are Dr. L. B. Cronk, Dr. F. Norman Brown, Dr. Wilfred A. Roy, and Dr. H. F. Williamson, and for Science '47, '48, '49, '50 there are George A. Jewett, Murray Gill, J. F. A. Smythe, Derek Austin, Eric Jorgenson, George Devlin and Jim Minnes.

Special reunions are being planned for Medicine '54—Dr. K. G. Appleby; Medicine '57—Dr. D. B. Jennings; The Classes of '59 are also making plans for their first reunions.

The Class of Science '55 is holding a reunion on the week-end of October 3, and the Class of Science '58, on October 31.

Class letters have been sent out by most of the organizers and in some cases several letters and notices have been mailed. The response to date has been excellent, so good in fact that there are indications accommodation will be at a premium.

In many instances the organizers are working with class members resident in Kingston, and many special events have been planned to supplement the formal programme, including cocktail parties, meetings, dinners, and social gatherings.

Around the CAMPUS

Annual Meetings. Over 2000 Canadian scientists and educators will be in Kingston in June of 1960 for the annual meetings of the Royal Society of Canada and the twenty-five Learned Societies which meet concurrently. Held this year in Saskatoon they will be jointly sponsored by Queen's and R.M.C. for the three-week period. At the 1959 session Professor Glen Krotkov, head of Queen's Biology Department, was elected president of Section Five of the Royal Society. Dr. A. G. C. Whalley of the Department of English was elected a member of Section Two.

Commerce Appointment. Dr. F. Dermott Barrett has been appointed to the School of Commerce and Business Administration as an associate professor. Formerly associate director of the Banff School of Advanced Management he has also had several years' business experience both with the Aluminum Company of Canada and the Canadian National Railways. Dr. Barrett obtained a B.Sc. in psychology from McGill in 1948 and a Ph.D. in industrial economics from M.I.T. in 1953. In addition to his teaching duties he will also direct the annual management conference programme at Queen's.

Queen's Visit. On Sunday, June 28, Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip made a twenty-minute stop at Richardson Stadium where they were greeted by Queen's Principal W. A. Mackintosh (see cover). Also on hand at the Stadium were representatives of Kingston Boy Scout, Girl Guide, Brownie and Cub troops as well as various ethnic groups in national costume. The royal couple circled the field by car and then walked through the various groups, speaking to many.

Research Grants. Two of twenty-nine grants, totalling $172,826, given by the Ontario Cancer Treatment and Research Foundation have been awarded to Queen's University staff. Dr. Frank Batley of the Department of Radiology has received one of the awards for an investigation of skin erythema with cobalt therapy. Other awards went to Professor G. M. Brown, Dr. D. L. Wilson, Professor E. M. Robertson and Professor Wyllie for projects started in previous years. The awards were given to medical specialists and scientists at Ontario universities, hospitals and clinics for cancer research.

Summer School. With 1035 students in attendance a new record has been set by this year's Summer School. Previous high was 919 in 1958. In addition to the normal course of study, ranging through thirty-five courses from astronomy to zoology there are special courses offered in the School of English, catering to students from the province of Quebec, and the School of Fine Arts with classes in painting, ballet and drama. Seventy-three teachers are being trained by the Ontario Department of Education in elementary art and the School of Physical Education for women has an enrolment of thirty-seven high school teachers. Another seventy-one students are enrolled in the Bermuda section in either biology or psychology.

Delegates. Dr. A. Vibert Douglas, retiring Dean of Women, and Miss Jean I. Royce, University Registrar, were two of the forty-six Canadian women who attended the conference of the International Federation of University Women in Helsinki, Finland, August 4 to 10. Dr. Douglas is a past president of the International Federation and has been honored by the Canadian Federation in having an international fellowship named after her. Miss Royce was convener of the international relations committee of the Canadian Federation and the leader of the voting delegates from Canada. Theme for the Conference was "World-Wide Opportunities for Women."

Siltation Research. A Queen's research team has begun a long-range engineering project which may save Ontario port municipalities and government large sums in dredging costs. The researchers are studying the causes of siltation in Ontario Great Lakes harbours, posing such questions as what causes navigation channels to become clogged with sand and silt, and what can engineers do to solve this recurring problem which hampers navigation and costs large sums annually. This problem of siltation is being tackled both in the laboratories of the Department of Civil Engineering at Queen's and in the field which in this case is a group of Ontario harbours. The research team is working in close co-operation with the Federal Department of Public Works and the National Research Council. Prof. R. J. Kennedy is chairman, and his colleagues are Prof. Arthur Brebner, Dr. B. Le Mehaute, T. M. Dick and I. Collins.

In the laboratory at Ellis Hall a large flume or model harbour is being built in which experiments will be conducted simulating conditions in Ontario harbours and navigation channels.

D. C. MADDUX

Student at Eighty. At the age of eighty-one, D. C. Maddox, retired Ottawa civil servant and a Queen's graduate in engineering returned to the campus this summer as a student. He intends to complete the requirements for a B.A. degree.

Exactly sixty years ago Mr. Maddox entered on his first job as a chemist in London, England. In 1899 he graduated from Westminster College of Pharmacy, winning the silver medal in chemistry and physics. Emigrating to Canada in 1907 he worked as a druggist in several points in Ontario and Manitoba. During World War One he served overseas, and on his return to Canada took the engineering course at Queen's. He graduated in 1922 with a B.Sc. degree in geology and mineralogy. He joined the borings section of the Geological Survey, Ottawa, and continued in the employ of this department until his retirement in 1946.

This past summer Mr. Maddox studied philosophy and psychology.

ATHLETICS

A big question mark hangs over the Intercollegiate league this year as the curtain is ready to go up on another football season. Toronto Varsity, who waltzed off with the honours in 1958, have lost sixteen players, and Western, McGill and Queen's, who battled on about even terms, also need a lot of replacements.

Queen's would appear to have the biggest problem because of the lack of depth at the quarterback position. Cal Connor, who hobbled through last fall's schedule with an injured foot, but who showed promise of developing into the best in the league, was a casualty at examination time. The Number Two man, Dave Richards, has to hurdle some supps before he is eligible to play.

Altogether, the Tricolour lost an even dozen, six through graduation and six in the battle with the Faculty. Those departing with a sheepskin were Ron DeLisle, Jocko Thompson, Dave Wilson, Jim Shearn, Bob Burleigh and Mitch Wasik. The others were Cal Connor, Terry Dolan, Pete Wityk, Ken Takasaki, Noel Rebick, and Paul Beck. At least two of the latter will be returning, but will not be playing, of course.

Coach Frank Tindall expects to have about thirty with some experience in Intercollegiate football, senior and intermediate, when practices start after September 1. At centre he has John Ware, Gus MacKay, who weighs in at only 150 pounds but is a lineman of senior calibre for all that, and Pete Saegert, who will be returning to the fold after a year of ineligibility.

At the guard position there is Jerry Steinberg, Ross Arber, Bill Awrey, son of the one-time football coach, and Ken Osborne. In addition, Doug Hargreaves, who graduated a couple of years ago, may be back.

For tackles there are Sam Poaps, Frank Hawkins, Bill Johnson, Gord Dougall, and Stew Watts. For ends there will be Don Robb, Don Plumley, Dennis Sharp and Ralph Birch.

The half-line carries a lot of strength in Captain Bill Truelove, Mike Wicklum, the Tricolour leading ground gainer last year, Bob McAleese, Robin Ritchie, Dick Pearce, Jim Green, Ken Plumley, and John Carrick. For fullbacks there are Terry Porter, who is expected to succeed Jocko Thompson as the kicker, Dave Skene, Joe Reeve, son of the one-

JENKINS TROPHY 1959

Awarded annually to the students who brings most honour to the University by his athletic and scholastic ability, the Jenkins Trophy this year went to Gary Lewis, who was Captain of the senior football team in two championship years. Gary, who graduated as a medical doctor and is now interning in Seattle, Wash., is shown holding the Trophy with Coach Tindall.

time coach (note to Coach Tindall: When is that boy of yours coming to Queen's?), Bill Watson, Gary Strickler, Wayne McGill.

Some fine-looking prospects are expected to enrol at the University this year, but who will be eligible to play and who will be able to make the team will not be known for a while. Just about the time members get acquainted they take on the Allouette Lakeshores of Montreal in an exhibition tilt at Kingston on September 12. Other exhibitions are a game with St. Lawrence University at Canton, New York, and a home game against McGill on September 26.

The schedule this year includes a night game, against McGill in Montreal on October 9. A night game had also been planned against Varsity in Toronto, but this has been abandoned.

On his staff Coach Tindall will have as assistants Hal McCarney, the well-known innkeeper from Gananoque, Al

Lenard and Jake Edwards. Gary Lewis has departed for Seattle to practise a little doctoring, and Jack Cook, one-time captain and formerly with the B.C. Lions, will be added to the staff in his place. In addition, Juan Sheridan who played for the Montreal Allouettes for ten years and who is now in Kingston, will be back to help out. Paul Fedor, of the Toronto Argonauts, who was injured early in the Big Four season, may also be available for coaching duty.

When he hasn't been showing football films at boys' camps, addressing service clubs, or being the guest speaker at such special events as the Athletic Night at Stratford, Ont., this summer, Coach Tindall has been drawing naughts and crosses on the dining-room tablecloth in an effort to come up with some strategy to offset his myriad problems. Now, if he can only figure out a series of plays that do not call for a quarterback the prospect should brighten.

An illustrated address on a trip to Russia was given by Dr. G. A. Harrower, associate professor of physics at Queen's, at the dinner meeting held by the Belleville and District branch at the C.P.R. Recreation Hall in Trenton on June 3.

In the autumn of 1958 Dr. Harrower had the honour of being one of twenty-one scientists chosen to represent Canada at the conference of the International Astronomical Union held in Moscow in connection with International Geophysical Year.

Dr. Harrower spent three weeks in Russia and travelled 6,000 miles. He showed beautifully coloured pictures taken in Moscow, Samarkand and Leningrad and supplied a humorous and informative commentary on the people and the customs as they appeared to him.

The speaker was introduced by W. L. MacDougall, Com. '28, and was thanked by A. S. Robb, Sc. 36.

During the business portion of the meeting Dr. G. S. Cronk, Med. '15, Belleville, was elected president for the ensuing year. Dr. Cronk succeeds G. Archie Frost, Arts '50, Trenton, who acted as chairman.

CONSTITUTION TO BE REVISED

Revision of the constitution of the Alumni Association to encompass the new relationship with the University in connection with the Alumni Fund, and other necessary amendments have been under study of the National Constitution Committee, headed by Dr. Wallace Trioup, and consisting of H. I. Marshall and Dr. B. G. Ballard, for a considerable period. It is expected that the final draft will be ready for the approval of the Directors within the next few weeks, and will be presented at the annual meeting of the Association on October 16.

Notice of motion not already given include Section 44 (a), with reference to the Alumni Fund. Previously this section had covered the arrangement whereby the University would provide an executive and clerical staff, the supplies and all expenses of the programme. Now it will simply read: "The Association has direction of the Alumni Fund, the programme of annual giving by alumni of the University"

At the spring meeting of the Board of Directors the following amendment to notice of motion for amendment to section 44 (d) was given: "Branches may claim rebates up to a maximum of $1.00 out of each contribution of $5.00 or more to the Alumni Fund in any calendar year, less whatever expenses for mailing, etc., assumed by the head office of the Alumni Association and which are to be charged at the discretion of the Secretary-Treasurer. The Branches may also claim up to 3 per cent of the previous year's contributions to the Alumni Fund, after the credit to the Alumni Association has been deducted, to cover the operating expenses attributable to the conducting of an Alumni Fund canvass."

New York Society Enjoys Outing At Country Estate

The beautiful country estate, "Craigwood," of Dr. John E. Hammett, Med. '19, and Mrs. Hammett, at Netcong, New Jersey, was the setting for the annual picnic for members and friends of the New York Society of Queen's on June 6.

Many took advantage of the opportunity for a wonderful summer outing. There was swimming and diving in the private lake on the property, and there were games and prizes for the children. The children also enjoyed the "barnyard zoo."

The picnic was a great success, as a long series of these events has proved to be in the past. The guests were warm in their praise of the hospitality shown by the Hammetts.

Open Letter

To the Women Graduates

It is with much satisfaction that I again address myself to the Alumnae of Queen's. A dream of two years ago is fast becoming a reality. The third women's residence is started and progressing rapidly. A furnishing committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. D. W. Boucher has been active during the past six months planning the equipment and getting quotations. So many things are happening at Queen's that I hope you will be at the Fall Reunion and see them for yourselves.

After the Board of Trustees authorized the building of the third residence for women nearly two years ago, the Alumnae were asked to contribute through the Alumni Fund. The response was very gratifying. Last year at the annual meeting, the Queen's University Alumnae Association was asked to assume a large part of the cost of the furnishings. The generosity of individuals, of the Branches, and of the Levana Society towards this undertaking has been outstanding. If all Alumnae who have not contributed already would do so before the end of the year, I am sure our obligation will have been discharged and we may turn our attention to other needs. Send your donation to the Alumni Fund and designate it for the furnishing of the new women's residence.

A special general meeting of the Q.U.A.A. is being called for Saturday morning, October 17, at 11 o'clock in the Common Room of Ban Righ Hall. The agenda will include the report of the Marty Memorial Scholarship convener, Dr. Pauline Jewett, and will bring to the attention of the Alumnae the necessity for increasing the scholarship. A report from the furnishing committee will be given and plans for the Residential Annual Meeting in May 1960, will be discussed.

As we expect many Alumnae to be in Kingston for the Reunion a coffee party at 10.30 a.m. in Ban Righ Hall is being arranged, and we hope that all alumnae will give a couple of hours on Saturday morning to renew old friendships with other women graduates and assist your executive in making wise decisions for the future of your Association.

An executive meeting will be held at 9.00 a.m. Saturday morning in Ban Righ. There is important business to discuss and a full attendance is most desirable. If the presidents of the Branches are unable to attend will they please send a proxy.

It will give me much pleasure to welcome you to our meeting.

President, Alumnae Association

TRICOLOUR SOCIETY

Honour Organization

Now Has

213 Members

Appointment Is Recognition

Of Valuable Service

To University

by George LaFleur

In the profusion of awards, crests and other forms of recognition distributed annually at Queen's the honour of being admitted to the Tricolour Society is generally accepted as the most esteemed.

This admission, according to the constitution of the Alma Mater Society, "... shall be limited to postgraduates and to students in the second term of their final year, who, maintaining a satisfactory academic standing during their undergraduate course, have rendered valuable service to the University in non-athletic, extra-curricular activities, namely the major offices of student government, journalistic work, debating, dramatics, and to such other students as may, by unanimous decree of a special committee appointed for this specific purpose, be recommended for admission to the Tricolour Society."

Established in 1940, after a study of similar honour organizations at other universities, the Tricolour Society now has 213 members, an average of approximately eleven new appointments per year. In recent years, however, there has been a movement towards making the Society considerably more exclusive and since 1955 only thirty-one members have been added to the ranks.

At present the admittance of a student to the Society begins with a nomination by any five students, given to the Junior A.M.S. representative of their particular faculty. The nominations, coupled with a list of the students' qualifications and contributions to the University, are studied by a small committee of the A.M.S. executive. Next they are passed to a committee of students and staff, with the Principal as chairman, where the final decision is made. This final committee, whose staff members include the five Deans and the Principal of the Theological College as well as the Principal, considers all nominees, not only those recommended by the A.M.S. committee.

As with most of "the best laid plans" discontent has arisen in the past dozen years. While there has generally been no criticism of those chosen, the problem of omission has proved to be a sore point. Referring again to the A.M.S. constitution we find that "A minimum number of students shall be admitted to the Tricolour Society each year so as not to jeopardize the distinction of this Society." But how is the "minimum number" to be chosen from those who have rendered "valuable service" to the University and how is the term valuable service to be defined?

This question was first brought into the public eye in 1947 when Gerry Stoner, Journal editor at that time, declined the honour of being admitted to the Tricolour Society. In the Journal of Friday, February 28, he wrote:

H. I. MARSHALL

J. R. MATHESON

J. M. COURTRIGHT

"I deeply appreciate the honour conferred upon me when the Alma Mater Society granted me a Tricolour award. I regret my convictions are such that I cannot accept. I trust that those who graciously made the award will receive my withdrawal in the sincere spirit in which it was made."

Stoner then stated his objections to the justification of the Tricolor Society, bringing forth several weak points which, to this day, have not been overcome. His argument was as follows:

"Much of our confusion today arises from lip service to principles which no longer accord with the institution actually used to express them. These institutions, lacking a theoretical justification in the accepted ethical or rational forms, should not be recognized as respectable or legitimate.

"The Tricolour Society of Queen's University is such an institution.

"There is little doubt of the high nature of the principle that inspires the annual awards of the Society, namely a recognition of outstanding service to the University. The question arises by whom and by what standard shall the nominees be chosen? Shall the final settlement be elective, arbitrary, or fortuitous?

"At present the Tricolour Society is selected by the Faculty Deans, and the Principal, on the recommendations of the Junior Representatives of the A.M.S. We do not disagree with any of the other selections made this year. But does the Society extend far enough to include all those people who have worked eagerly for the good of the University? Can any society hope to cover such a field and still restrict its numbers?

"The question is one of omission but there appears no logical norm around which to classify potential candidates. In making an absolute declaration of a man's outstanding service to the University there will arise great differences of opinion.

"Is it the scholar, or the man who devotes time to extra-curricular activities at the expense of schoolwork, who makes the greater contribution? Is it the widely publicized member of the student government, or the little known president of the Biology Club or the S.C.M., who yields his time most unselfishly? Are the eventual selections those people whom the student body at large would elect to such an honour?

"These are only a few of the questions which put the ultimate selection beyond the scope of any group who would arbitrarily decide on the awards."

The main difficulty, then, would seem to be a lack of impersonal standards such as are found in academic or athletic recognition. However, any move in this direction would only lead to the transformation of the Society into a prize thrown open to all competitors. The term valuable service would be replaced by quantity of service or perhaps quality of service as positions were sought for their ultimate influence in the Tricolour admissions.

DOROTHY WARDLE

G. F. BRUCE

As now stated in the constitution “. . . no admissions to the Tricolour Society shall be granted by tradition, that is, no student automatically becomes a member of the Tricolour Society simply because he or she holds a certain executive position on the campus.” A glance at Tricolour statistics, which shows 144 of the 213 members coming from the ranks of the A.M.S. executive, would appear to contradict this, but more than the superficial facts must be considered. In the formation of this executive it is invariably only the interested who are candidates and the capable who are elected. Even the most popular student would be hesitant to run for office if his qualifications were not sufficient to insure efficient handling of the position. With the necessary qualifications to fulfill the executive post and occupancy of a position of the A.M.S. executive to provide further opportunity to render “valuable service” to the University it is not abnormal that a majority of the admissions to the Society are from the executive.

A further review of statistics reveals a remarkably even distribution of Tricolour awards among Arts, Levana, Science and Medicine. In the twenty-year life of the Society 66 of its members have come from the Faculty of Arts, 55 from the Faculty of Science, 44 from Levana and 42 from the Faculty of Medicine. Certainly there is no emphasis on any one faculty.

What of the future of the Tricolour Society? Almost inevitably it comes under annual attack by the Journal. The people closest to it agree that much of the criticism is valid. The problem, however, is one which runs in circles. Suggestions to make membership more exclusive are countered with others to make it more inclusive. Proposals to limit annual awards to one per faculty are face to face with proposals to create a secondary award to satisfy those who criticize the omissions. Everyone agrees that something should be done but what is it and who is to do it?

Whatever is done in the future the critics of the Tricolour Society only point to the methods used, not the results obtained.

The following have been named to the Society since its inception in 1940:

An Appreciation

HUGH JOHN STYLES

● Queen's lost one of its best known staff members with the death in June of Professor Hugh J. Styles, head of the Department of Engineering Drawing in the Faculty of Applied Science.

A teacher at the University since 1937 Professor Styles has been described by a colleague as "... a man of high standards, a hard worker who admired the same characteristic in others." Especially interested in first and second year students he was well liked by both students and staff, and annually called out the names at Convocation.

Born and educated at Arnprior, he taught public school for three years before enrolling in the Faculty of Applied Science at Queen's. In 1929 he graduated in the field of electrical engineering with a B.Sc. and later obtained his M.S. from the University of Michigan in mechanical engineering. After graduation Professor Styles spent two years in the field as an engineer in electrical design, powerhouse and lock design with the Welland Ship Canal until its completion in 1931.

In 1937 he returned to Queen's after several years' work in electrical design and maintenance with gold mines in British Columbia, Northern Ontario and Northern Quebec. A teacher of mathematics for one year he then switched to engineering drawing.

A few days before the outbreak of World War 2 he was mobilized with the No. 1 Ordnance Workshop Company with the rank of Major. He went overseas in 1941 as officer commanding the No. 3 Army Field Workshop with the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel, returning to Queen's and resuming his teaching career in 1945.

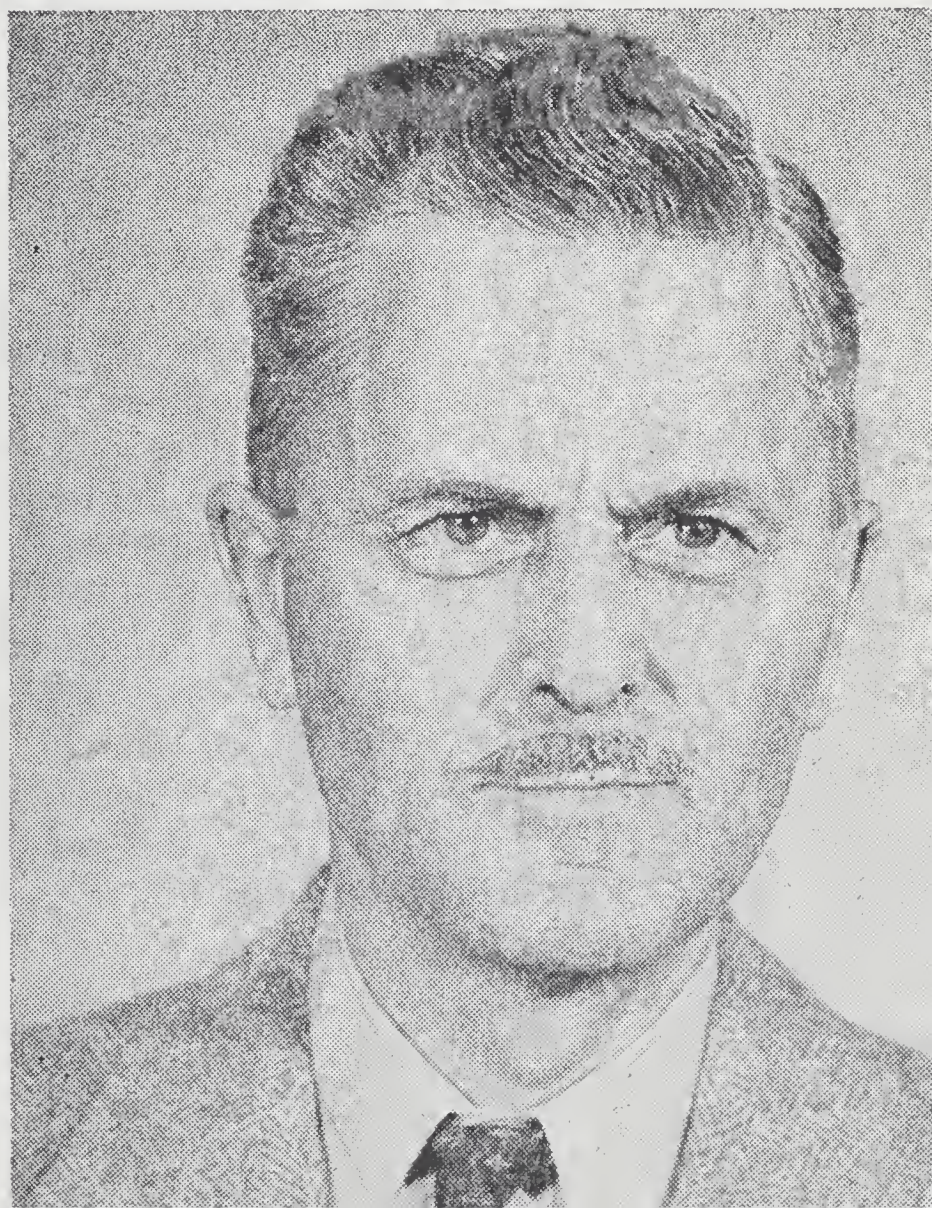

Professor Styles, who had been President of the Engineering Society in his undergraduate days, worked as Secretary to the Faculty of Applied Science and even after his retirement from this post continued to help with many administrative details. He was also Secretary of Camp No. 3, Kingston, of the Ritual of the Calling of an Engineer, commonly known as the Iron Ring Ceremony, and a member of the American Society of Engineering Education, a subject in which he took a keen interest.

Interested in colour photography, Professor Styles spent his summers travelling through the U.S. and Canada.

At the time of his death Principal W. A. Mackintosh summed up the general feeling of those who had known Professor Styles when he stated "His resourcefulness as an engineer, his dependability as a teacher, and his quiet loyalty as a colleague will be greatly missed by all his associates."

Residences. Completion of the main section of the third and largest unit of the men's residences at Queen's made possible the accommodation of an additional 230 students when classes resumed this fall. Work on the four-storey building is continuing and it is expected that it will be finished early in 1960. McNeill House, Morris Hall, and the third unit, as yet unnamed, will provide accommodation for approximately 600 students, more than a quarter of the male enrolment expected for 1959-60.

Construction of the new women's residence is proceeding rapidly and completion is expected by the end of January, 1960. The new residence is a T-shaped five-storey structure on Stuart Street, adjacent to Adelaide Hall. It will house about 170 women students. The two existing women's residences, Ban Righ and Adelaide halls, and other accommodation brings the present total of women in residence to about 250.

Tuition Fees. Students in all faculties were faced with an increase in fees when school resumed this fall. Hardest hit were the students in engineering—freshmen and sophomores now pay $480, third- and fourth-year students pay $530, highest in the university scale. Students in the two pre-medical years pay $385, while those in the four years of the full medical course pay $500. Arts students now pay $365 a year. Provided that the fees stay unchanged for the next few years, here are the grand totals that Queen's undergraduates can expect to pay for tuition leading to a degree: Faculty of Arts and Science, $1,460; Faculty of Applied Science, $2,020; Faculty of Medicine, $2,770.

University Concerts. This year's University Concert Series opens on October 13 with the Hart House Orchestra under the direction of Dr. Boyd Neel. On November 12 the celebrated pianist, Rudolf Firkusny, will appear in Grant Hall, followed on December 12 by Donald Bell, young Canadian baritone. Internationally famous harpist Mildred Dilling is scheduled as guest artist on January 12, and the season will close on February 22 with Marian Anderson, famed American contralto.

Appointment. Dr. F. Dermott Barrett has been appointed associate professor in the School of Commerce and Business Administration. Dr. Barrett will direct the management conference programme which is presented annually at Queen's for business executives in various fields, and he will teach administration in the School of Commerce. He comes to Queen's from the Banff School of Advanced Management where he was associate director. He has had wide experience in business, including several years in staff training and development with the Aluminum Company of Canada Limited and the Canadian National Railways, and as a management consultant in Montreal. Dr. Barrett holds the degree of Bachelor of Science (in psychology) from McGill and the degree

NEWMAN HOUSE

Newman House, the new home of Queen's University Newman Club and Newman Club Alumni of Kingston, was officially opened on September 26 with representatives of the University and a large gathering of alumni and students. It was formerly a private residence.

of Doctor of Philosophy in industrial economics from Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Theological Alumni. The sixty-seventh annual conference of the Theological Alumni Association will be held at Queen's October 19-22. This year the Chancellor's Lecturer will be the Rev. Shaun Herron, minister of the United Church, Weyburn, Sask., and former editor of the British Weekly. The general subject of his lectures is "The Preacher in his Generation."

Newman House. The new home of Queen's University Newman Club and Newman Club Alumni was officially opened on September 26 with representatives for the University and a large gathering of alumni and students. The house, formerly the residence of the Dwyer family, is located at 131 Johnson St., and was made available to Newman Club as a headquarters by the Archbishop of Kingston. The president of the Newman Alumni, W. B. Monk, was chairman for the programme. Rev. E. J. Keyes, chaplain of both clubs, thanked all who had made the house a reality, and especially mentioned Miss Estelle Dwyer, whose generosity in the first place made the project possible. Miss Dwyer was a sister of the late Dr. J. G. Dwyer, Arts '02, Med. '05, LL.D. '27; Edmund Dwyer, Arts '01, Sc. '02, and W. M. O. Dwyer, Arts '07, Sc. '09.

Honorary Degree. Principal W. A. Mackintosh was one of a distinguished group to receive an honorary LL.D. from the University of Saskatchewan on the occasion of its golden jubilee. The citation read, in part: "Dr. Mackintosh is a shining example of the academic in the service of government. In addition to serving as a member of several commissions and boards, he has been special assistant to the deputy minister of director-general of research for the Department of Reconstruction. His great influence on the economic policies of the government during the Second World War is well recognized. Not the least valuable aspect of his service to government is that unlike too many other academics, he refused to be enticed into the service permanently, but insisted on returning to academic halls."

ATHLETICS

● Queen's Golden Gaels racked up two victories in three exhibition games before the Intercollegiate season opened: Sept. 12, Queen's, 21, Montreal Lakeshore Allouettes, 14; Sept. 19, St. Lawrence University, 28, Queen's, 7; Sept. 26, Queen's, 6, McGill, 0.

Of these the most significant was the contest with McGill. Statistically the Tricolour were behind, but on the scoreboard the home forces were on top. Both teams showed strength defensively, or was it lack of strength offensively? In any case neither team could get much of an attack rolling, and most of the game was waged between the 30-yard stripes.

The Queen's score came on a 30-yard forward from the fourth quarterback Coach Frank Tindall tried out, Gary West, to end Don Robb, who made a spectacular catch on his fingertips and skidded over the goal-line on his back for a touchdown.

On the same weekend Varsity trounced Western 25-6, so it would appear that the Blue and White, last year's champions, must be favoured to repeat. Queen's are scheduled to meet the Blues on October 17 and 24.

In the game against the Lakeshore Alouettes Queen's prevailed by three touchdowns to two. The Gaels looked sharp for their first game of the season, particularly in view of the fact that they had had the benefit of only ten days' practice. Mike Wicklum, who was the team's leading ground gainer last year, was the standout performer in this contest, making several long runs and scoring one of the majors. The victory was costly in that Queen's may have lost the services of Fred Endley, a promising rookie fullback, for the season, when he sustained a severe knee injury.

Against St. Lawrence in Canton, New York, in a game played under American rules, the Tricolour lost for the first time in four encounters. The Larries were full measure for their win, outplaying the Gaels in most departments, and two of their touchdowns came on long run-backs. One of the stars for St. Lawrence was the son of Neil A. Morrison, Sc. '23, New York City.

The turning point in the game came in the third quarter with the score tied 7-7. Quarterback Terry Porter flipped a 20-yard pass to Robin Ritchie at the 50-yard line and the speedy half picked up a key block and threaded his way downfield for a touchdown. The other Queen's major scores were registered by Don Robb and Gary Strickler.

The members elected will serve until March 31, 1966.

B. W. SARGENT

● One of the western world's top scientists, a Queen's University professor has been awarded the gold medal for 1959 of the Canadian Association of Physicists "for achievement in physics." He is B. W. Sargent, M.B.E., M.A., Ph. D., F.R.S.C., R. Samuel McLaughlin Research Professor of Physics and Head of the Department. The presentation recently was made to Dr. Sargent by Dr. B. W. Currie, retiring president of the Association and Dean of the School of Graduate Studies at the University of Saskatchewan, during the Association's annual meeting.

Highest award of the Association, the gold medal was designed five years ago by a committee consisting of Professor Larkin Kerwin, Dr. R. H. Hay of Kingston, and Dr. Sargent. Previous winners were Dr. J. A. Gray who for many years was Chown Science Research Professor of Physics at Queen's University, and is now retired, Dr. G. Herzberg and Dr. J. S. Foster.

In the citation to the medal Dr. Currie outlined some of the highlights of Dr. Sargent's career. Born in Williamsburg, Ont., B. W. Sargent graduated from Queen's University in 1926 with an honours degree and the medal in physics. He studied for the M.A. degree under Dr. J. A. Gray, and his thesis and related work earned him the Exhibition of 1851 Scholarship and a studentship to Emmanuel College, Cambridge University.

With this award Dr. Sargent attained the goal of ambitious young physicists, to work under Rutherford at the Cavendish Laboratory. He spent two years there on further beta ray experiments.

On being offered a lectureship in physics by Queen's University Dr. Sargent returned to Queen's in 1930. Further work on beta ray spectra led to his Ph.D. from Cambridge in 1932 and to the publication of a paper in which a relationship, sometimes referred to as Sargent's law, was pointed out between the half-lives of the beta-active bodies and the high energy limits of their spectra. Dr. Sargent's work was particularly significant in that it directed attention to another aspect of beta-emission, then one of the most puzzling problems of modern physics.

During the later thirties Dr. Sargent continued measurements of beta-spectra from naturally radioactive elements. At the same time he built a cloud chamber of original design and did some preliminary experiments with it.

During the summers of 1941 and 1942 he collaborated with Dr. G. C. Laurence in some very secret experiments which Laurence had initiated to test the feasibility of a nuclear chain reaction using uranium oxide and carbon.

While these experiments failed to provide a conclusive answer, owing to lack of adequate resources, they served to demonstrate that Canadian physicists were alive to the question of the hour.

THE BEGINNING OF RADAR

A holograph memorandum written by Dr. Robert Watson-Watt (now Sir Robert) in January 1935 marks the beginning of radar research, the importance of which in World War II is beyond estimation. This original memorandum of eleven pages, foolscap, has been presented to Queen's University Library by Sir Robert through the good offices of the Rector, Dr. L. W. Brockington.

An accompanying letter by Sir Robert and photostats of two official documents (declassified in 1950) explain the origin and import of this historic memorandum.

In the latter part of January, 1935, Mr. H. E. Wimperis, the Director of Scientific Research, Air Ministry, telephoned the Radio Department of the National Physical Laboratory of which Sir Robert was Superintendent, and invited him to call at his office in London. On arrival Sir Robert was asked unofficially, as a personal favour, for his opinion on the possibilities of damaging enemy aircraft or disabling the crew by means of radio beam — the so-called "death ray". In reply he expressed doubts about the practicability of such a device, but promised to produce a quantitative analysis of the problem.

The analysis was made in the hand-written memorandum now at Queen's. It demonstrated mathematically that disablement of air crew or craft was "very much beyond present practical limits" but concluded as follows:

Meanwhile attention is being turned to the still difficult but less unpromising problem of radio-detection as opposed to radio-destruction, and numerical considerations on the method of detection by reflected radio waves will be submitted when required.

So impressed was Mr. Wimperis by this unofficial report, that he submitted it to the first meeting of the Committee for Scientific Survey of Air Defence (commonly called the Tizard Committee) on January 28, 1935. As a result, the Secretary was instructed to ask Sir Robert for further data on radio-detection. In Sir Robert's own words: "I formulated a quantitative problem as to the response from an aeroplane treated as a halfwave dipole, immersed in a known field . . . The solution proved so encouraging that I was satisfied on the practicability of a scheme which I then put forward in detail. No part of it depended on knowledge other than that which was freely available in the literature".

Sir Hugh Dowding, Air Member for Research and Development, was not completely convinced, so an experiment was arranged on February 26, "showing that a copious supply of energy was contained in the echo, from an aircraft some eight miles away, of the short-wave beam from the Daventry station of the B.B.C." The success of this demonstration led the Air Ministry to provide complete facilities for Sir Robert in order to bring his invention into full-scale application.

The Library is proud to possess this famous memorandum by the inventor of radar, now a Canadian by adoption.

EARLY CHILDREN'S BOOKS IN THE LIBRARY

The recently published catalogue of early children's books donated to the Toronto Public Library by Mr. Edgar Osborne has created much interest in this Toronto collection, one of the finest and most complete of its kind.

University libraries do not, as a rule, attempt to collect children's books, but the Douglas Library was fortunate enough, some years ago, to acquire a small but choice collection of early children's books which had been built up over a number of years by Mr. Harry Hereford. Little known to students or others who use the library, the books occupy some six feet of shelf space in the Treasure Room. On checking our holdings with the Osborne catalogue, Mr. Mackriss of the cataloguing department found thirty-four items either not in the collection at Toronto, or represented in it by different editions. The list is appended.

The history of children's books is of much interest. Up to the last decade of the 18th century the emphasis was heavily theological, impressing upon the child that he was "born not to live but to die". From about 1790 to 1830 the child was instructed in the utilitarian virtues of application and industry. Those who failed to learn their lessons were warned of the dangers of hell fire. Later in the century came heavy-handed moral tales for the very young and more robust tales of adventure for older readers. Before the end of the century, sentimentality, still with us, invaded children's literature. Many books that have remained to fascinate children, however, were exceptions to the common types and trends at the time of their publication.

In the earliest children's books crude woodcuts were the only illustrations, but the appeal of pictures to the young attracted skilled artists and by the mid-nineteenth century illustrations were scarcely less important than text. Tenniel's drawing for Lewis Carrol have never been superseded and the stories of Beatrix Potter are inseparable from her delightful illustrations.

ANCHORS AWEIGH

In a previous issue, we called attention to the Anchor Paperback Series, published by Doubleday, which presents in attractive format original works and reprints of lasting value at prices all can afford. Since then the publishers have sent us some twenty new titles in this excellent series. We were glad to see a new unexpurgated edition, translated and edited by C. S. Singleton of Castiglione's The Book of the Courtier, with thirty-two pages of reproductions of renaissance paintings and drawings. ($1.45) Two new volumes contain Kierkegaard's first great work, Either/or, originally published in 1843 and made popular again by the post war revival of interest in this Danish philosopher. (Vol. 1, $1.65; vol. 2, $1.45) One of the earlier volumes in the Anchor series was Alex de Tocqueville's The Old Regime and the French Revolution (trans. by Stuart Gilbert); now, translated for the first time into English, and edited by John Kukacs, there is a companion volume by Tocqueville: The European Revolution and Correspondence with Gobineau. ($1.45)

Two books by Henry Adams are of special interest — his classic work, Mont Saint-Michel and Chartres ($1.45) and a new selection from his published writings, entitled A Henry Adams Reader, edited and introduced by Elizabeth Stevenson. ($1.45) American literature and criticism are represented by Selected Poems and Letters of Emily Dickinson (ed. R. N. Linscott, $1.45); George W. Cable's Creoles and Cajuns: Stories of Old Louisiana ($1.45); Selected Writings of John Jay Chapman (ed. Jacques Barzun, $1.45); Literary Biography by Leon Edel, a McGill graduate, now Professor of English at New York University ($1.10); Walter Jackson Bate's Preface to Criticism ($1.10)

For those interested in the European theatre, there is The Classic Theatre, in two volumes, the first of which contains six early Italian plays, and the second five German plays of Goethe, Schiller and von Kleist ($1.65) A convenient source book for the study of Marxism is a volume edited by Lewis S. Feuer: Marx and Engels, Basic Writings on Politics and Philosophy ($1.65); also an excellent abridgement of Leon Trotsky's history of the Russian revolution, selected and edited by F. W. Dufee under the title The Russian Revolution ($1.65)

Going backwards in time, Samuel Noah Kramer, in History Begins at Sumer, reconstructs life as it was lived five thousand years ago in Mesopotamia. ($1.65) Returning to the present, Erving Goffman writes on The Presentation of Self in Everyday Life ($1.10); Raymond Aron On War in the atomic age ($1.10); and Dr. Hannah Arendt describes the central dilemma facing modern man in The Human Condition ($1.65). We are glad to commend these attractive, inexpensive volumes to the readers of Douglas Library Notes.

When the joint Anglo-Canadian Atomic Energy Project of the National Research Council was set up in Montreal, no time was lost in arranging Dr. Sargent's leave of absence from Queen's so that he might join it.

A few months later, after collaboration with the United States had been established and it had been agreed that a heavy water uranium reactor should be built in Canada, Dr. Sargent was made responsible for direction of neutron multiplication experiments to provide as quickly as possible the basis for calculations of the critical size necessary for the reactor which it was then estimated would cost $10,000,000.

These experiments were completed in about three months and their soundness was demonstrated when, in the spring of 1947, the reactor at Chalk River went critical at very close to the expected heavy water level. In recognition of this work Dr. Sargent was made a member of the Order of the British Empire in 1946.

During most of the six years he was at Chalk River Dr. Sargent was head of the nuclear physics branch of the physics subdivision of the atomic energy project, moving up in 1951 to be assistant director at the head of the subdivision.

After the retirement of the late Professor J. K. Robertson in 1951 Dr. Sargent was appointed professor of physics and head of the Department of Physics at Queen's. In 1954 he was appointed R. Samuel McLaughlin research professor.

Since the retirement of Prof. J. A. Gray from the chair of Chown Research Professor of Physics in 1952, Dr. Sargent has been responsible for directing the research programme associated with Queen's synchrotron.

His experience in neutron research at Chalk River has been turned to good account in the study of photo-neutron reactions produced by the high energy X-rays of the synchrotron. Students under his direction have completed or are engaged in studies of many other features of the interaction of high energy X-rays with matter.

A former president of the Canadian Association of Physicists, Dr. Sargent was a key member of its committee on the establishment of a laboratory in Canada for the study of high energy particle physics. Recently he was reappointed to the National Research Council for a second term of three years. He also is a Fellow of the Royal Society of Canada and of the American Physical Society and is noted as a distinguished experimentalist, administrator, and teacher as well as a top-ranking physicist.

What does it mean to be rated?

Not long ago men and women with coronary artery disease, tuberculosis or diabetes were unable to obtain life insurance. Today it is possible for many of these people to be accepted in a special premium classification. Technically speaking they are said to be "rated" policyholders. For many years Manufacturers Life has contributed leadership in this special field. Today we are well known for our progressive outlook and for the favourable premium rates being offered.

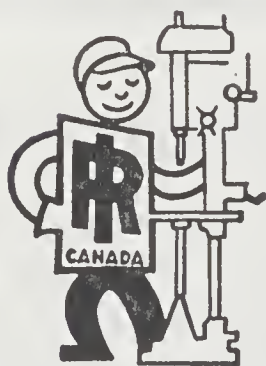

Actually 90% of the people applying for Manufacturers Life policies today are accepted at regular rates. Another 8½% are offered insurance at the lowest possible cost considering their particular physical condition, while only 1½% are declined. Whatever your needs, you can be sure of progressive life insurance service when you call the Man from Manufacturers.

the QUEEN'S REVIEW

NOVEMBER, 1959

Ellis Hall

Canadians, more than any other people, benefit from electric power. Abundant low-cost electricity is one of the important reasons for so many busy factories . . . greater production of goods . . . and better paying jobs. In offices, on farms, and in homes, everywhere, electric power makes life easier and more enjoyable.

What Does LBE Mean to You?

LBE stands for "Live Better . . . Electrically", and these words have a very real meaning behind them.

In the home, for example, planned lighting brings new charm and cheerfulness to every room. Modern appliances in the kitchen and laundry save time and toil. Other appliances contribute to our leisure and entertainment. Automatic heating and air conditioning add to our comfort. There probably isn't an area in your home that cannot be equipped electrically to give more convenience, more comfort, and more service.

In home, office or factory the first essential is an up-to-date wiring system—to get the best results from the electrical products now in use, and provide for those you expect to acquire. Your local power company, your provincial Electric Service League, or any qualified electrical contractor will be glad to provide expert advice and help you to plan to "Live Better . . . Electrically".

Manufacturers of equipment that generates, transmits and distributes electricity . . .
and the wide variety of products that put it to work in home and industry.

The World's Riches

The real riches of this world cannot be measured in dollars and cents. But one of them—a happy family—can be protected by the dollars and cents you invest in life insurance.

Make sure you have enough life insurance.

HOW MUCH LIFE INSURANCE SHOULD YOU OWN?

Most of us have asked this question only to discover there is no ready-made answer because needs and circumstances vary from family to family. The father of three children has greater needs and responsibilities than the young man who has just recently married. Some people have more substantial financial reserves than others. How much Life Insurance should you own to meet YOUR needs? Would it be $15,000?—$25,000?—$50,000 or more?

The Man from Manufacturers is in business to help you arrive at the right answer. Through his Security Graph Service you yourself can determine if you have enough life insurance to do the job you want done. Ask him about this special service today.

REUNION 1959

One Thousand Graduates and Friends

Return to Campus

Twenty-two Members of the Classes of '09

Enjoy Programme

Upwards of one thousand — graduates, wives, husbands, and friends — from all over Canada and the United States came back to the Old Ontario Strand for Reunion 1959, October 16-18.

Under the Dix Plan thirty-four classes were officially scheduled to return and all of these were represented to some degree, in a few cases by more than 50 per cent. In addition, several classes held special reunions. Outside the official reunion years there were many representatives of other classes who came along to join in the festivities.

The tone for the whole weekend was set by members of the classes of '09, no fewer than twenty-two of whom turned up to celebrate their fiftieth anniversary, and a more spirited and enthusiastic group it would be difficult to imagine. It was the largest representation of fifty-year graduates in the history of Queen's reunions. Those who were on hand were:

Arts '09 — R. S. Foley, Hugh Macdonnell, and S. H. Henry, Toronto; W. M. Goodwin, Manotick; J. B. Stirling, Montreal, Que.; R. W. Warwick, Ottawa;

F. D. Wallace, North Bay; Miss Ethel Ross, Williamstown; Miss Alexandria Howson, Peterborough; Judge J. H. McDonald, Sault Ste. Marie; Rev. H. D. McCuaig, Kingston, Mrs. J. R. Glassford (Margaret Thomas), Miss Mary Macdonnell, Prof. J. A. MacRae, Mrs. Anna Leslie Jamieson, Kingston, and Mrs. M. Y. Williams (Lula Philp), Vancouver.

Science '09 — Dr. C. W. Drury, W. J. Orr, Toronto; Dr. M. Y. Williams, Vancouver, B.C.; D. S. Nicol, Halifax, N.S.; S. A. Woods, Burlington; C. U. Peeling, Camp Hill, Pa.

Medicine '09 — Dr. H. C. Workman, Port Colborne.

The '09'ers were the guests of the Alumni Association at the football game and at the Reunion Dinner in Wallace Hall on Saturday night. They were presented with sterling silver spoons bearing the Queen's crest and the words "Fiftieth Reunion," the presentation being made by Dr. John E. Hammett, president-elect of the Alumni Association. These senior graduates used the John Orr Room as their headquarters throughout the reunion.

Registration was held in the lower Common Room of the Students' Memorial Union. The graduates were registered in a permanent record book and presented with identification cards. They were also asked to register by classes, for the convenience of their classmates and class organizers.

Registration began on Friday afternoon, and continued through the evening and Saturday morning. During the afternoon tea was served in the McLaughlin Room, under the convenership of Mrs. Ian MacLachlan. Those pouring were Miss Hilda Laird, Miss Jean Royce, Mrs. V. B. Crothers, Mrs. Leslie Smith, Mrs. C. H. R. Campling and Mrs. H. J.

IN MEMORY OF THE LATE DEAN D. S. ELLIS

Hamilton. Other assistants were Mrs. Lloyd Munro, Miss Elsie Robinson, Mrs. C. H. Travers, Mrs. Graham Thomson, Mrs. J. E. Hawley, Mrs. L. E. R. Stephens.

A tour of the campus and the City by bus was arranged for those who preferred this mode of sight-seeing. Dr. H. W. Curran, director of the Department of Extension at Queen's, was in charge. He brought his listeners up to date on the many developments in Queen's and Kingston that had taken place since their graduation.

The University Reception in Grant Hall on Friday evening was an outstanding success with approximately 400 in attendance. Principal W. A. Mackintosh and E. C. Gill, chairman of the Board of Trustees, greeted the graduates and their friends. Also present were many members of staff, and each was surrounded with former students renewing old acquaintances. During the evening refreshments were served by the Kingston Alumnae branch, under Mrs. C. H. R. Campling and Mrs. Vernon Ready.

On Saturday morning several classes held year meetings at various points around the campus, including the Union, the Science clubrooms, and the men's residences. Coffee was served at a special party for the alumnae, in Ban Righ Hall. Coffee was also served in Morris Hall, for the many sightseers who had come down to see the men's residences.

A plaque to the memory of Douglas S. Ellis, late Dean of the Faculty of Applied Science, was unveiled by Dr. J. B. Stirling, vice-chairman of the Board of Trustees and chairman of the building committee, in a brief ceremony held in Ellis Hall Saturday morning. Dr. Stirling spoke in tribute to the work of Dean Ellis as a student, teacher, soldier, and dean and said that it had made a great imprint on generations of students. Others who took part in the ceremony were Principal Mackintosh and Dr. S. D. Lash, head of the Department of Civil Engineering.

Luncheon was available, cafeteria style, in the Students' Memorial Union, at noon, and hundreds of graduates and their friends mingled with the students on this occasion. During the luncheon hour piano music was provided by Dick Edney.

It would be pleasant to report that Queen's triumphed over their traditional rivals, Toronto Varsity, in the football game in the afternoon, but, alas, it was not meant to be. However, the Gaels gave a good account of themselves before bowing out 7-0. The score was 1-0 with less than five minutes to go, and the home forces brought the crowd to its feet with a last-minute drive that almost pulled the game out of the fire. It was a good showing for a team that was expected to lose by three touchdowns, and it gave the graduates an opportunity to speculate on what the result might have been if there had been a "Pep" Leadlay, or a "Red" McKelvey or a Harry Batstone, or a Hank Brown, or a Ronnie Stewart, or a host of other great athletes from the past out there on the field to lend a helping hand.

After the game several hundred alumni and friends flocked to Ban Righ Hall for the Principal's Tea. Receiving at the door were Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Mackintosh. Thoroughly chilled after an afternoon's exposure to cold rain, the guests quickly revived with hot tea, sandwiches and cakes served by members of the Faculty Women's Club, under the direction of Mrs. C. A. Curtis, president. Pouring tea were Mrs. A. R. C. Duncan, Mrs. H. G. Conn, Mrs. L. G. Macpherson and Mrs. W. R. Lederman. The assistants were Mrs. A. C. Plewes, Mrs. W. D. Gilbert, Mrs. A. M. Laverty, Mrs. A. V. Corlett, Mrs. K. G. Crawford, Mrs. H. W. Curran, Mrs. H. S. Pollock, Mrs. A. M. Fox, Mrs. M. M. Ross, Mrs. R. A. McQueen, Mrs. F. A. Hames, and Mrs. H. W. Hilborn.

With J. Alex Edmison, chairman of the National Programme Committee of the Alumni Association, as master of ceremonies, the Reunion Dinner in Wallace Hall proved to be a memorable occasion. It was Mr. Edmison's first official duty at the University since he left his post as director of endowment and public relations at Queen's to become a member of the National Parole Board, and he showed that he had lost none of his old touch in getting his audience into the spirit of things.

The dinner was reserved for the senior graduates, down to such relative Johnny-come-latelies as the members of the class of '34 who were celebrating their twenty-fifth reunion. The guests of honour were the members of the classes of '09, plus a few others of even more senior vintage, including W. H. "Whiskers" MacInnes, Arts '02, Theol. '05, of Vancouver, B.C., who showed that the passage of time had done nothing to dull his vivacity and enthusiasm since the years he had served as secretary of the Alma Mater Society's Athletic Committee.

The fifty-year graduates were introduced one by one, as Mr. Edmison extolled their accomplishments on the campus and in the intervening years. The other guests gave them a hearty round of applause and then they, in turn, were introduced by classes.

During the proceedings the Principal dropped in to extend the greetings of the University and to express his appreciation of the attendance of so many alumni. He assured the guests there was always a warm welcome for them on the campus of their alma mater.

The chairman called upon Dr. M. Y. Williams, Vancouver, B.C., permanent president of the class of Science '09, to say a few words, and Dr. Williams expressed the appreciation of the fifty-year graduates for the welcome that had been extended to them.

A spirited sing-song enlivened the proceedings, with N. G. "Pat" Stewart, Arts '11, Sc. '15, a member of the Board of Directors of the Alumni Association, serving as leader, and with Dr. C. H. McCuaig, Med. '21, a past president of Association, providing the piano accompaniment.

After the dinner the fifty-year graduates retired to the Reading Room for a private meeting, while others attended the showing of the film, "Queen's University at Kingston," in the lower Common Room.

While the Reunion Dinner was taking place, a reception and buffet dinner was being held in the LaSalle Hotel, with upwards of three hundred in attendance. Designed for the more recent graduates, no formal programme was attempted, but the event proved highly successful as a meeting place and it is intended to make this a permanent feature of the Reunion Weekend. Mr. and Mrs. Gelindo De Re and Dr. and Mrs. D. W. Keenleyside were hosts and hostesses for this happy affair.

Also, on Saturday evening, eleven individual class dinners were arranged at various points: Medicine '29 and '30 and '31 were at the Cataraqui Golf and Country Club; Science '30, Science '31 and Science '50, British American Hotel; Medicine '34, Yacht Club; Science '47, Morrison's Restaurant; Science '48, I.O.O.F. Hall; Science '48½, Roy York Cafe; Medicine '49, Glenarden. The Class of Science '34 held a dinner at the Cataraqui Golf and Country Club on Friday evening.

For the younger and more energetic alumni there were Football dances in the Gymnasium and Grant Hall, on Saturday evening. Some of the members of the Medical years renewed their youth at the Medical Formal, held this year at the LaSalle Hotel, on Friday evening.

The formal programme came to a close with the University Church Service in Grant Hall on Sunday morning. The service was conducted by Rev. A. M. Lavery, University Chaplain, and there were about two hundred in attendance. The Vice-Chancellor and Principal, Dr. W. A. Mackintosh, read the First Lesson, and Miss Anne Horton, Peterborough, Ont., president of the Levana Society, read the Gospel Lesson.

The Chaplain, who officiated and took the prayers, preached on "What About Your Roots?" and emphasized that the value of the individual man, brotherhood, freedom, the three rallying cries of civilization in the face of the new paganism, are not mere ideals for the Christian, but are rooted in eternal reality, in the purpose of God revealed in Jesus Christ.

Reunion Notes

Much of the success of the Reunion Weekend may be attributed to the Kingston alumni who opened their homes to the visitors. Their generous hospitality went a long way towards en-sureing a warm welcome for the graduates and their friends from out of town. Cocktail parties, receptions, buffet dinners, and informal gatherings added to the rich memories many of the graduates were able to carry away with them.

Credit must also be given to the many members of staff who made themselves available at registration headquarters and at the various University functions. And many were the informal reunions as the graduates looked up their former professors. One Commerce group paid a visit to Prof. J. L. McDougall after the University Reception on Friday evening to remind him of his prediction that within ten years of graduation many of them would be driving Cadillacs. They taunted him with the fact that not one Cadillac-owner was among those present, but they did acknowledge that they had prospered in many other ways.

"Memory Lane," a collection of pictures of the past and a display of year-books and other memorabilia, was housed this year in the TV Room of the Students' Memorial Union, and proved to be a popular warmer-upper of memories. All of which would seem to be an appropriate place to remind graduates never to throw out old Queen's pictures — send them along to the Alumni Office which will be happy to act as custodian.

A hearty vote of thanks is due to Dr. John Orr, chairman of the Students' Memorial Union Council, and to J. E. Wright, warden, who went out of their way to make sure that the graduates were made welcome on Reunion Weekend. All of the facilities of the building were placed at the disposal of the visitors and everywhere there was a warm welcome.

Special commendation goes to Miss Anne Corrigan, Reunion Secretary, and the alumni office staff who worked on the preparations for this year's reunion, by getting in touch with the executives or interested members of the reunion classes many months in advance, providing class lists, sending out class letters, making hotel reservations and attending to many local details.

The Classes of '09 wound up their busy and interesting weekend with a meeting in the Reading Room of the Union after the Reunion Dinner on Saturday evening. Letters were read from classmates unable to attend and reminiscences were swapped, but the highlight was a paper read by Dr. M. Y. Williams of Vancouver, B.C. He traced the history of many of his classmates and told of their accomplishments in a manner which held the attention of his audience. . . .

Twenty-three members of the Class of Medicine '29 turned up for their thirtieth reunion, and held successful gatherings at the homes of Dr. Gordon Mylks and Dr. Ford Connell and at the Cata-raqui Golf and Country Club. Dr. D. C. Matheson was appointed honorary president of the class and Dr. Gordon Mylks was named as the new class President. Dean G. H. Ettinger awarded diplomas to the doctors in recognition of thirty years of medical practice. These were enscribed in Latin and signed by Dean Ettinger and other prominent members of the Faculty. Fortunately, a translation accompanied the diplomas, which stressed the hazards of medical practice and its rewards. At the Golf Club meeting the guest speaker was Dr. H. L. Tracy, professor of Classics, and head of the Department, who gave a most amusing address on some Greek and Latin roots of the English language. . . .

Guests at the head table for the Reunion Dinner in Wallace Hall were Judge and Mrs. J. H. McDonald, Dr. and Mrs. M. Y. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. I. Alex Edmison, Dr. and Mrs. John E. Hammett, Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Geiger, and Rev. Dr. H. D. McCuaig. . . .

Eighteen members of the Class of Science '30 were present, and held meetings on Friday and Saturday evenings. Herb Dickey and Pete King made the arrangements. . . . Science '31 met at Prof. J. S. Campbell's house on Friday night and at the British American Hotel on Saturday. . . . J. A. Broadbent of Vancouver, B.C., permanent president of the Class of Arts '29, and his wife were prominent at all the various functions. . . . Morgan Brown, permanent president of Arts '30, was also much in evidence. . . . Dr. and Mrs. G. B. Macpherson entertained the members of Medicine '30 at their home on Friday evening. . . . Dr. and Mrs. J. T. Tweddell also had a houseful on Friday with two classes present, Medicine '31 and '59. . . . A. B. M. Bell and Crawford Hall led the Arts '30 contingent into town. . . .

Science '34 marked their twenty-fifth reunion in fitting fashion with a cocktail party and dinner at the Golf Club on Friday evening. J. C. L. Elliott, permanent secretary, was the organizer, and among thoughtful other details he arranged for a bus to take members and their wives to the football game and back to their quarters afterwards. . . . Sparked by Dr. J. E. "Bud" Gorman, Dr. Perry White, and Dr. Gib McBroom the Class of Medicine '34 had a dinner at the Yacht Club, with happy results. . . . Science '47 put on a dinner at Morrison's Restaurant on Saturday night. Murray Gill, class president, was the party whip. . . . Commerce '48 set up their own registration desk with Eric Bronskill and Mac Sinclair looking after the arrangements. . . . George Jewett and John Smythe arranged a cocktail party and dinner at the Odd Fellows' Hall for Science '48. The class held a meeting on Saturday morning in the Science Clubrooms in Clark Hall. . . .

Science '48½ attracted thirty-five members, and seventy-four sat down for dinner at the Roy York Cafe on Saturday night. Dr. H. W. Harkness, "whose graduation speech is still remembered," was a guest of honour. The members and their guests wore 48½ maple leaf pins, 'mums, and ribbons. Derek Austin got the reunion off on the right foot with a party at his home on Friday night. . . .

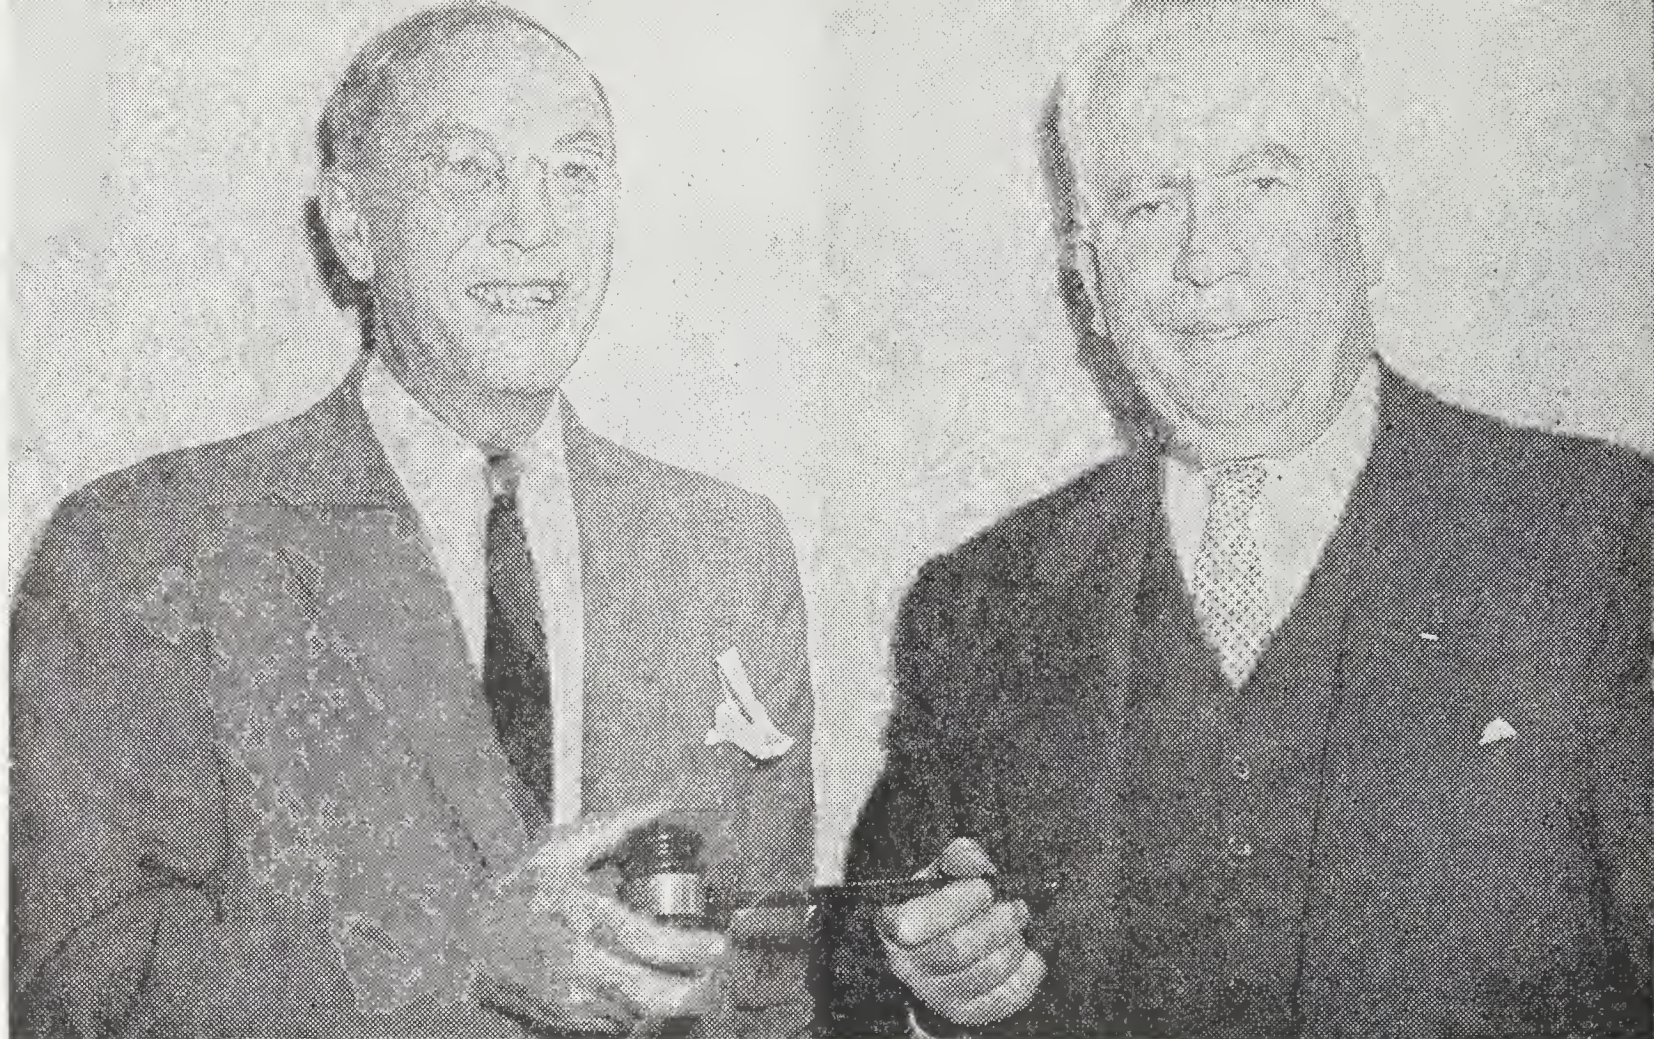

Thanks to the influence of Cmdr. John Chance, permanent president of Arts '49, his group and others of the same vintage enjoyed the hospitality of H.M.C.S. Cataraqui. . . . Science '50 had a good reunion in spite of some difficulties which left a few scars. George Devlin and Jim Minnes were the guiding spirits who would not permit any barriers to stand in the way of a wingding. Dean and Mrs. H. G. Conn were guests of honour. . . . Dr. H. F. Williamson did a good job of getting the members of Medicine '50 together. The group stayed at the Princess Motel, and enjoyed a cocktail party on Friday. Plans were made for the fiftieth reunion, in the year 2,000. . . .

Phil Roy took over as the organizer for Science '29, after the untimely death of Prof. J. H. Styles. . . . Harris Campbell and his wife from Bryn Athyn, Pa., came the farthest of any of the members of Science '28. . . . Dr. L. B. Cronk was in charge of the Medicine '47 arrangements. . . . Medicine '48 used the Princess Motel as their headquarters, with Dr. W. R. Ghent serving as the local M.C. . . . Tom McEwen and George Manjuris looked after the Arts '50 group. . . . Dr. K. G. Appleby came all the way from Vancouver for the Medicine '54 reunion. The group met for cocktails at the home of Dr. and Mrs. D. B. McNaughton, before the Formal on Friday evening, and at the home of Dr. and Mrs. K. M. Adams before dinner on Saturday. . . . Only a few members of Medicine '57 turned up, but they had a good time. They went to a party at Dr. and Mrs. D. W. Boucher's cottage after the game, and also enjoyed cocktails at the home of Dr. and Mrs. D. B. Jennings.

. . . In the absence of Geoff Bruce, who is off to the Far East on a diplomatic junket, the affairs of Arts '47 were looked after by Hank Wightman.

Three Science years met on weekends other than the official Reunion: Science '55, on October 3; Science '49 and '58, on October 31. . . . Headed by their permanent president, Eric Jorgensen, forty-five members of Science '49 came to town, most of them accompanied by their wives, to find Jim and Dot Williams had the situation well in hand. Dot entertained the wives at a sherry party on Friday evening, while the men were holding a stag at the LaSalle. For the football game the men turned out with the "snazziest" Queen's caps seen around these parts in many a moon (there are still a few available at the Alumni Office, price $2.00) — the girls sported 'mums. After a buffet on Saturday the group wound up with a reception at the La Salle, at which Principal and Mrs. Mackintosh, Dean and Mrs. H. G. Conn, Prof. Arthur Jackson, and others were guests. . . . Herb Harmer, permanent president of Science '58, was the first of his class to come into town, and was probably the last out.

Alumni Board Meets

•Dr. John E. Hammett, New York, N.Y., was elected president of the Alumni Association for the ensuing year, at the sixty-fourth semi-annual meeting of the Board of Directors on October 16. Dr. Hammett succeeds D. G. Geiger of Toronto, Ont., who had served for the past two years.

H. I. Marshall, Ottawa, Ont., was named as First Vice-President, and Dr. John Orr, Kingston, Ont., as Second Vice-President. Appointed for a one-year term as "additional" directors were: B. W. Burgess, Montreal, Que.; Col. P. C. King, Kingston; A. S. Robb, Belleville; N. G. Stewart, Kingston.

Up to September 30, the sum of $84,730 had been contributed by 3,391 donors as compared with $64,317 from 2,339 at the same period last year, it was reported on behalf of the Alumni Fund Committee.

Because of the fact that returns are still coming in from the third appeal, sent out in September, and because, in previous years, the fourth appeal, in December, has been the most productive the committee felt it reasonable to expect that the 1959 objective of $150,000 from 6,000 contributors would be realized. Another encouraging factor was that personal canvasses were being conducted in the larger centres where there is a concentration of Queen's alumni.

This year, to date, there are 545 new donors, that is, alumni who have never before participated in the programme of annual giving. Of this number, thirty-two are from the Class of 1959.

ELECTED TO BOARD

In the annual election of Directors the following have been elected to the Board of Directors of the Alumni Association for the ensuing three-year period: W. W. Ashworth, Brockville; Dr. O. E. Ault, Ottawa; Dr. O. A. Carson, Kingston; Dr. John E. Hammett, New York, N.Y.; Miss Evelina Thompson, Toronto.

The resignation of Mr. D. L. Rigsby, as chairman of the National Alumni Fund Committee, was accepted with regret. ## Senior Football Team in Third Place On Strength of Two Wins

The Intercollegiate league was divided into two divisions this year, with Toronto and Western in the first, and Queen's and McGill in the second. Sports writers dubbed it a competition of the "haves" and the "havenots."

With a squad of largely inexperienced men, Head Football Coach Frank Tindall fielded a team that, while it fulfilled the predictions of a second-division finish, won two games and came within an eyelash of pulling an upset against Varsity, not once but twice.

Queen's was faced with a perennial problem, that of breaking in a new quarterback. Coach Tindall hasn't had the same quarterback for two consecutive seasons for, lo, these many years. He came up with a dandy in Cal Connors last year, but his selection was like the kiss of death, for Connors was a casualty at examination time, and the hunt was on again. The mantle ultimately fell on Kent Plumley, who had no previous senior experience. Plumley turned out to be a good choice, improving steadily, running the team well, and although he didn't have the strongest or most accurate arm in the league, he found his receivers often enough that the opposition was not able to ignore the threat of a pass.

The Queen's team, as usual weak in bench strength, lost the services of Fred Endley, a promising rookie fullback, in the first game of the season, which Queen's won 21-14 incidentally, over the Montreal Lakeshores (Queen's won 6-0 over McGill and lost 28-7 to St. Lawrence University, Canton, N.Y., in the other two exhibitions). In the first league game Doug Hargreaves, the best two-way lineman on the roster, was sent to the sidelines with an injury that eliminated him for the rest of the season. Other players were forced out of action for varying lengths of time.

The two league victories were scored at the expense of McGill. Queen's won the first one, in Montreal, 16-14, piling up a commanding 16-0 lead, and then hanging on grimly when the Redmen came to life in the second half and scored two touchdowns. In the game at Kingston, Queen's and McGill battled on even terms, the Gaels dominating the first half, but unable to score, and the Redmen taking over the second half, but only able to count a single, Queen's won this encounter 6-1 on the strength of a 37-second explosion at the beginning of the second half, moving the ball 94 yards in two plays for a major score. Mike Pettit took McGill's kick-off at the 16, raced to his left and handed off to Norm Dunstan on the run. Dunstan picked up his blockers and raced to the McGill 47. On the first play from scrimmage, Plumley pitched to Dave Richards who passed to Bob McAleese. The later ran 35 yards to score without a hand being laid on him.

Queen's never got out of their own end after this spectacular display, as McGill put on the pressure and six times got within the Queen's 15-yard line. The Tricolour defensive platoon threw back every potential scoring thrust, once at the one-yard line, but not before they gave their supporters ulcers on top of ulcers. The final three minutes seemed more like three hours.

In the two go's with Toronto, Queen's lost 7-0 in the reunion game at Kingston and 7-6 in Toronto. In the first one, the Tricolour trailed by a mere 1-0 with five minutes to go, then lost the ball on a third-down gamble. Varsity quickly took advantage of the situation to score an unconverted touchdown. Even then the Gaels were not through and launched a drive the length of the field which was finally snuffed out by an intercepted forward pass.

In the second game Queen's made it even closer, losing out 7-6 in a spirited struggle. Each team scored an unconverted touchdown and the Toronto winning margin was registered on a 29-yard punt that hit just behind the goal-line and hopped into touch before the defenders could do anything about it.

Against Western Queen's did not fare as well, dropping the first game 20-8 and being overwhelmed 55-13 in the final game of the season. In the first one Queen's lone touchdown came on a 90-yard kick-off return by Mike Wicklum in the first quarter and knotted the score at 7-7. Western went ahead to stay early in the second quarter.

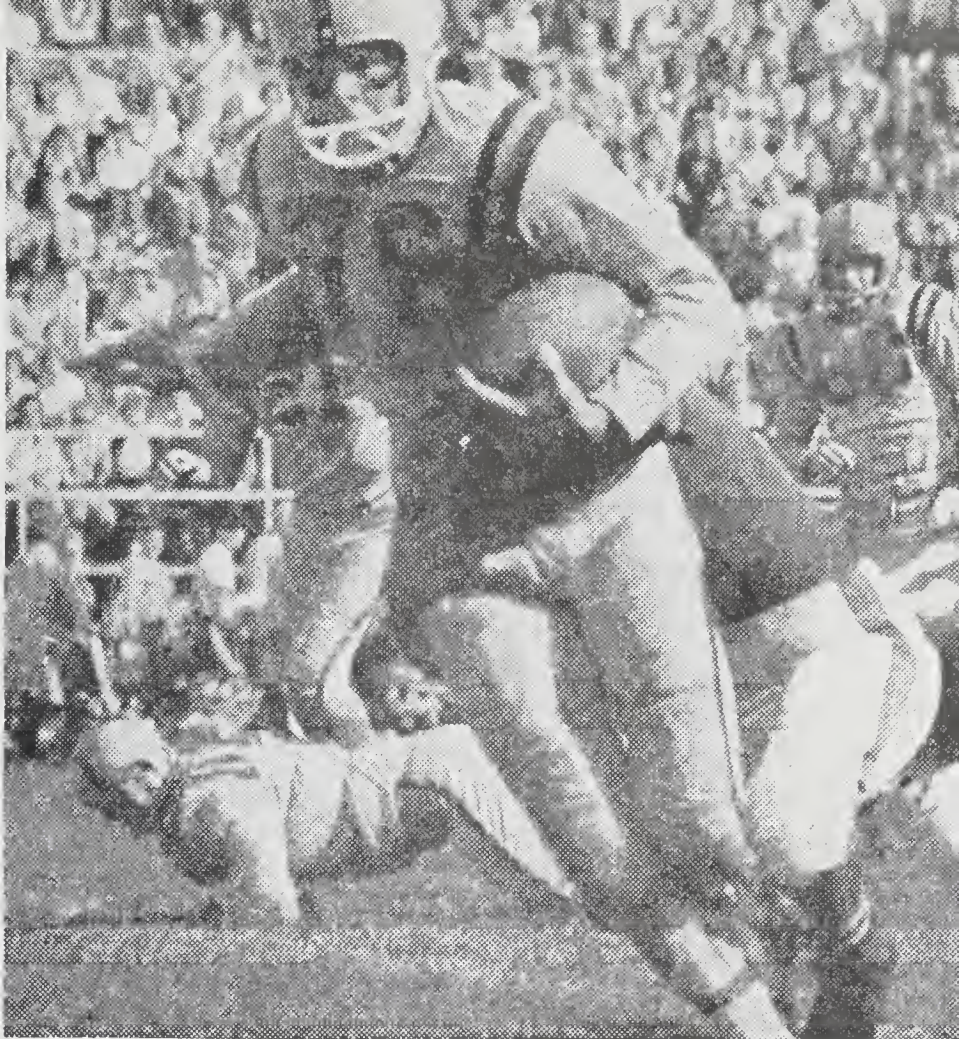

In the other game Queen's scored a touchdown in the first quarter for a short-lived lead, Mike Pettit taking off on a 94-yard gallop that ended in pay dirt. The score was 20-7 at the half, 26-13 at the end of the third quarter, but Western really rolled in the last fifteen minutes, scoring four majors, three of them in the last four minutes, as the Tricolour defence collapsed.

GRIDIRON ACTION

Mike Wicklum, one of the leading ground-gainers for the 1959 edition of the Golden Gaels, in the midst of one of his spirited sorties.

Western and Varsity finished the schedule with an identical 5-1 record but Western was declared the champions on the strength of having outscored Varsity on the round in their two games. This unusual state of affairs arose out of a league decision that there would be no play-off this year in order that a winner be declared in time to participate in the Churchill Cup for the Intercollegiate championship of Canada. Western won this championship with a 34-7 victory over the University of British Columbia Thunderbirds.

And the prospects for next year? There will be the usual search for a quarterback as Kent Plumley will graduate in the spring. There will be a loss of eight others through graduation: backs, Gord Johnson, Dave Richards; centre, Pete Saegert; linemen, Don Plumley, Dennis Sharpe, Ross Arber, Jim Shearn, and Dave Wilson. If the examinations do not prove too formidable a hurdle for many of the others, Tindall should have the nucleus of a club stronger than this year's as there are some good players due to come up from the intermediates.

Alumnae Association Meets

At a special general meeting of Queen's University Alumnae Association in the Common Room, Ban Righ Hall, Kingston, on October 17, an important decision was taken to raise the value of the Marty Memorial Scholarship award to go into effect for the spring of 1960. Chairman of this Committee is now Miss Anne A. Smith. Miss Katherine Macdonnell was appointed a member of the Committee.

The president, Mrs. William J. Hyde, thanked the Levana Society, the branches and all contributors for their generous help towards furnishings for the new residence for women. There is, however, still need for more money for this purpose and all were urged to further effort before May, 1960.

Student rooms in the new residence will be comfortably furnished with Scandinavian type furniture, with an extra chair in the double rooms and bookcases in all rooms. Hangings, chair, bed and pillow covers will be in colours of white, yellow, coral and blue tones to harmonize with buff walls.

Cost of furnishing single rooms will be close to $400.00 and double rooms $775.00. A list of articles needed for library, common rooms, study rooms, sitting rooms, music room, recreation room and waiting room has been sent to branch presidents by the secretary of the furnishing committee and those members wishing to contribute a special article may do so by sending cheques to Q.U.A.A. Treasurer, Mrs. E. M. Van Koughnet, 551 Lakeshore Road, Beaurepaire, P. Q., stipulating the purpose to her. The honorary secretary also has a list and members may write to her: Mrs. F. W. Benn, 4800 Cedar Crescent, Montreal 29, P.Q.

Miss Jean Richardson and Miss Diana Blake were nominated for appointment by the Board of Trustees to Ban Righ Board for a term of three years.

The next meeting of the Alumnae Association will be the annual meeting on April 29 and 30, 1960, taking the form of a residential weekend at a cost of $10.00 per person covering accommodation for two nights and all meals.

At the close of the special meeting members were conducted on a tour of the fine new residence, still under construction, by Mr. Colin Drever and Dr. John Orr.

W. I. GARVOCK — A TRIBUTE

There is a very simple phrase current, at least in the Ottawa Valley, in praise of just sheer good solid character, through and through — “salt of the earth.” It carries all one would want to say of “Bill” Garvock, dead this last week, with such tragic suddenness, following upon what was known to be a difficult, but not deemed a dangerous operation.

William Ironside Garvock was his full and given name. “W. I.” he signed himself but “Bill” he was through all his boyhood in New Edinburgh, when his family were almost as long and firmly established as the grey granite of Government House itself. He was “Bill” through Queen’s, where, thick-set, strong and durable, with shoulders muscled like a fine-bred young bullock, he was awarded his gold “Q” in winning for his university the Inter-collegiate wrestling championship of Canada.

But this was incidental to a degree course marked by a responsible competence in all his subjects, and cheery, conscientious service in all campus life. In class and college undertakings, in the University’s publication, the Queen’s Journal, and in the religious associations, no less than in all athletic activities, “Bill” Garvock was there, steady, reliable, humorous, just loving to hear or to relate any yarn that might brighten the trail.

The trail, too, he loved — tramping, paddling, portaging, fishing, though his innate kindness held him back from much of the joy of hunting.

Of course, his background, philosophy of life, and proud sense of country and of duty would make him one of the first men in uniform in World War I. Through its years, he slogged cheerfully in the PPCLI — the “Princess Pats” — continuing all these forty years since — a loyal and unselfish service in the dwindling ranks of the regimental veterans.

His love of clean, decent sport made him an admirable journalist in the sports department of the Ottawa Journal.

This he left, however, to enter the investment field in the firm of his classmate and lifelong friend, D. I. McLeod of McLeod, Young, Weir. There his friends became his customers, his customers his friends, for he was trusted as one who would never sell for the premium but upon whose solid integrity one could rely for counsel, consideration and safeguarding.

H o n o u r, kindness, cheeriness, deep-grounded in principle and a reasoned faith in life, a love and respect for his God — these were what marked Bill Garvock’s living, gave him dogged strength to face whatever fate offered, stayed with him, unfearing, as death came through the fading light of his days here.

A very fine, rugged gentleman of great simplicity and kindness has gone, and to his wife, who equalled him in kindness and whom he did not surpass in gallant courage, and to his sterling son, young “Dr. Bill”, there remains that fine memory, and the loving sympathy of a very wide range indeed of Ottawans and Queen’s friends everywhere.

Miss Ethel MacEachran, B.A. '22, at Toronto Ont., on October 27. Miss MacEachran went to Korea under the auspices of the Presbyterian Church and there founded and was the principal of Ham Heung Girls’ High School for many years. She returned to Canada just before World War Two, and since then had served the United Church of Canada in mission fields in Montreal, Regina, and Saskatoon. She retired in 1953.

William Morgan, B.Sc. '15, of Pachuca, Hidalgo, Mexico, on October 7, after a lingering illness. A graduate in mining engineering, Mr. Morgan had served for many years as general mine superintendent of Cia Real del Monte y Pachuca. Among the survivors is his wife.

Miss Lulu Frances Morlock, B.A. '40, at London, Ont., on October 6. Miss Morlock first enrolled as an extra-mural student at Queen’s in 1927, and completed her course at Summer School. A school teacher by profession, she taught for many years in Victoria School, Windsor, Ont.

Charles H. Moxley, Arts '09, on May 19, Lloydminster, Sask. Mr. Moxley had served Lloydminster as a druggist for many years. The survivors include his wife and daughter.

Dr. William T. Shirreff, M.D. '03, of Ottawa, Ont., on November 4. A veteran of World War One, Dr. Shirreff had practised his profession for more than fifty years. He was one of the outstanding communicable disease specialists in Canada and had served for many years as medical officer of health for Ottawa and as superintendent of the Isolation Hospital. A keen sportsman, Dr. Shirreff played football for Queen’s and for the Ottawa Rough Riders, and had raced at Henley wearing the colours of the Ottawa Rowing Club.

Kenneth Lambert Sunderland, B.A. '57, at Ottawa, Ont., on August 21, in his twenty-ninth year. A graduate of Ottawa Teachers’ College he taught public school for three years, secondary school at South Mountain for two years and at Cobden for one year.

Dr. John E. Tilden, M.D., '28, of Aldershot, Ont., on November 2. He had carried on a successful practice as a physician and a surgeon, and was medical doctor for the National Steel Car Corporation for some years.

He was for a long time the physician for the Hamilton Police Department and was also Medical doctor in attendance of the Hamilton Jockey Club when it was in operation.

Rev. Herbert Victor Workman, Arts '16, Theol. '20, of Seaforth, Ont., on August 16, aged seventy. Mr. Workman had retired last year after forty years in the active ministry in the central conferences of Ontario. He collapsed and died in the pulpit while conducting a service in the Cavan, Ont., United Church.

A Tribute

THOMAS CALLANDER

by James A. Roy

Queen's University has been very fortunate in having had such a large number of distinguished scholars from the Old Country attached at one time or another to its teaching staff. One has only to go back a few years to come across the names of John Macnaughton, John Watson, Ernest Scott, W. B. Anderson, T. R. Glover, Nathaniel Micklem, Hamilton Fyfe, and, in a slightly different sphere, Thomas Seccombe. Every one of these men was—or still is—a scholar who added lustre to the annals of Queen's. One or two—Watson and Seccombe, for example—were prolific writers. Others added to their scholarly administrative ability. Others, like Professor Callander, wrote little and spent their energies in the class-room.

An Aberdonian by birth, Professor Callander was educated at Gordon's College in the Granite City, attended its University and graduated M.A. with First Class Honours in Classics. From Aberdeen he went to Trinity College, Oxford, where he took a First in Greats. He came to Queen's in 1903 as Professor of Greek, the Greek Chair being at that time a separate and important one. Among his honours students was J. M. Macdonnell, the first man to go to Oxford from Queen's as a Rhodes Scholar; and younger Macdonnells, one a Rhodes Scholar, stood high in Mr. Callander's Honours classes. But he would have had no patience with the university teacher who gives little time or thought to members of less advanced classes, devoting his attention only to honours and graduate students, and to "his own work." Members of Professor Callander's pass classes before the First World War still speak with warm appreciation of his keen interest in them and in their work.

For some years after his appointment at Queen's he spent his summers on archaeological work in Asia Minor, and for a time there seemed a possibility that he might devote himself to that branch of classical learning. But the outbreak of the First World War and intermittent bouts of ill-health at first hindered and finally put a stop to his archaeological work. The results of his researches, and the conclusions he was able to draw from personal observation, were embodied in the Chancellor's Lectures which he delivered to large and interested audiences at Queen's. He also contributed several authoritative papers on his favourite subject to the Journal of Hellenic Studies and various American learned publications.

Thomas Callander was in many ways very much of a "Queen's Man". It was not only that he had taught there for almost a quarter of a century; he had also identified himself very fully with the problems and perplexities of its academic life. He had many good friends who could appreciate his finer qualities, but his closest confidants were Old Countrymen. After he left Queen's he and Mrs. Callander finally settled in Guernsey, but for some years he was able to make an annual visit to Edinburgh. I used to meet him on these occasions, and it was then that I realized how much Queen's had become part of him. Too many Old Country scholars had been in the habit of coming to Queen's or to some other Canadian university, and leaving after a few years.

Their Canadian period had been a mere episode in their lives—a temporary post where they might “gain experience,” as the phrase was, a place where they could mark time until there was a likely vacancy in the Old Country. This was never Professor Callander’s attitude. He had given his loyalty to Queen’s and he remained loyal to Queen’s. “The good old Kingston days” he used to speak of with a touch of nostalgic regret.

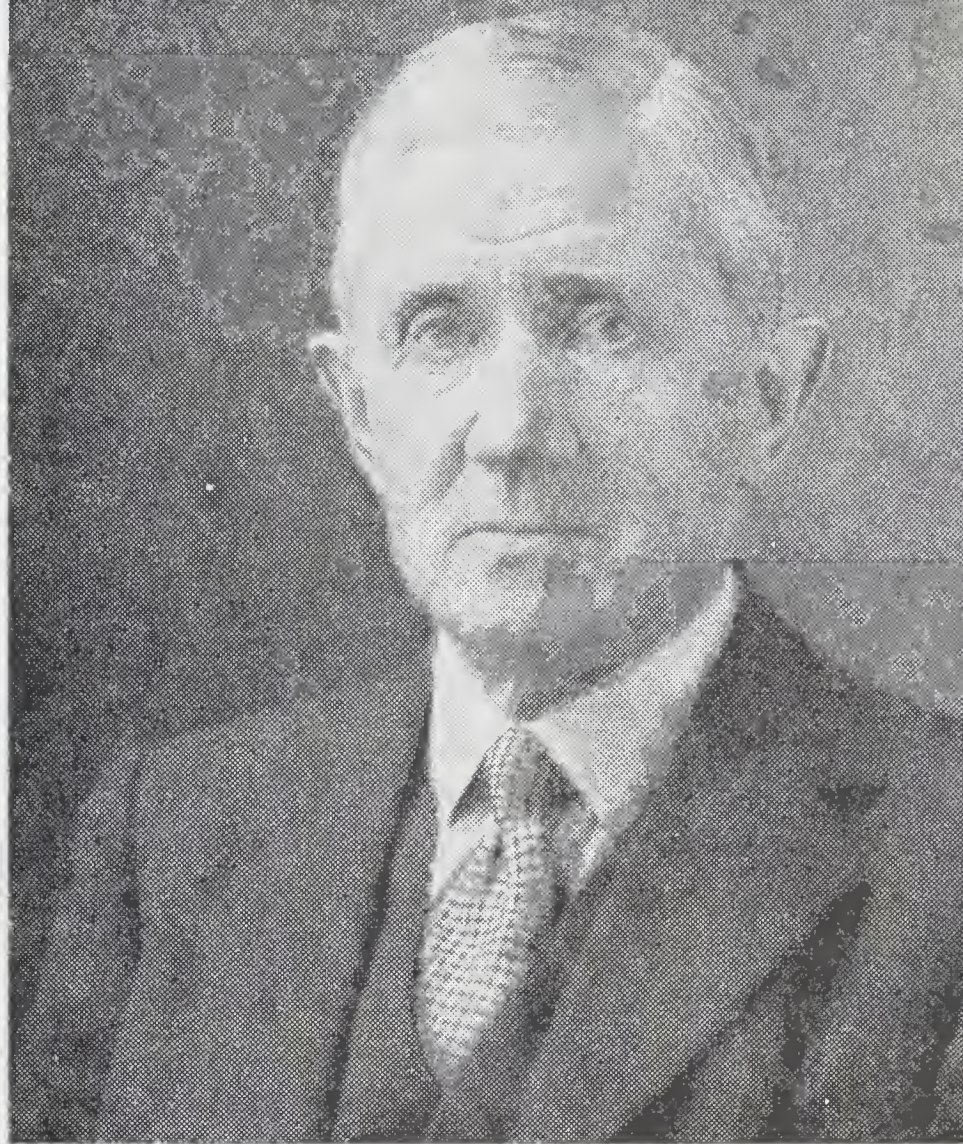

I knew what he had in mind—not the disappointments and frustrations inevitable in academic life, or the frictions and frailties that can disturb equanimity, weaken one’s thinking and lessen one’s potentialities—but the rich intellectual life he had known in his earlier years at Queen’s. They were full years. Great men were writing—philosophers like John Watson—undistracted by many of the things which today work against the scholar. Men, students and professors alike, had not only the time to read but to think and absorb what they learned. They could walk and talk and discuss along quiet roads. There was good conversation and a fertile exchange of ideas. Tom Callander was always at his best among friends; they drew him out. They tapped an unsuspected well of humour in his nature—humour without taint or malice. There were delightful dinner parties at the Callander’s home by the lake shore; an old fashioned courtesy which was very pleasing, all the more so because it was instinctive and unforced. At the far end of the table, almost half hidden by the shadows cast by the soft candle-light, sat Mrs. Callander, a stately hostess, talented and witty. That was what Tom had in mind when he spoke of “the good old Kingston days.”

Professor Callander was first and foremost a scholar. He was accurate without being meticulous. He was not like Browning’s Grammarian, one of those necessary but narrow precisians who . . . settled Hoti’s business —

Properly based Oun —

Gave us the doctrine of the enclitic De.

PROF. THOMAS CALLANDER

He left that work to others and relied on their results for textual accuracy without which a proper interpretation of the classics there cannot be. Professor Callander took a broad view of his authors, pondering over them in order to make sure of their meaning. Cautious by nature, he tended to be sceptical about hearsay evidence and what he could not prove by reason and logic he rejected. One question to which he reverted time and again in conversation, was, “What is the true nature of a Classical education and what, if any, advantages has it over education in modern literature and language?”

In his later years Professor Callander’s interests were British Foreign Policy since the time of Bismarck. His later views were a radical change from his earlier. It is hoped that his book on this controversial subject will be published in the near future.

Tom Callander was devoted to his family and it was a hard blow to him when a younger brother who had come to Canada was badly and permanently injured in an accident. He himself had the misfortune to be dogged for a great part of his life by ill-health or the fear of it, not so much for himself but for others dependent on him. This interfered with his activities and at times affected his outlook. But those of us who knew him had the highest regard for his talents and abilities and deeply felt his passing. Professor Callander was one of that company who were

Loftier than the word suspects,
Living and dying.

The Norfolk Hotel,
Nairobi, Kenya.
November 3, 1959

The Editor,
The Queen's Review,
Kingston, Ont.

Dear Sir:

In the February issue of the Review I read with interest an article by Mr. Tim Smith (Sc. '36), announcing that he and his partner, Mr. Ted Robertson, of Nairobi, were willing to plan safaris for tourists while visiting Africa. I wrote to Mr. Smith, had one interview with him, and here I am!

For the sake of any of your readers who are looking for a pleasant climate to avoid the rigours of a Canadian winter, I suggest East Africa. The roads are good, railway travel comfortable and air services available to all important centres. The hotels are clean, moderate in price and less crowded than in Europe. Food is abundant and the service excellent. Here in Nairobi I am guided in my sight-seeing and safari by Mr. Robertson and his charming wife who have spent their lives in this country and are raising four fine children, as keen naturalists as they.

I came by cruise ship from Montreal in September to Italy, by B.O.A.C.

Britannia to Uganda (nine-hour flight with one stop at Khartoum) I have spent three weeks in Uganda at the Equator at 4,000 altitude where coffee and bananas are grown and one sleeps under a blanket. The daily showers keep the country green and encourage agriculture in valley and on steep hillside. I am amazed at the progress in this land in half a century.

Kenya is dry and anxiously awaiting November rains. Nairobi is the most flower-bedecked city I have seen anywhere in the tropics. Rows of jacaranda are in full bloom on the main thoroughfare and Princess Elizabeth Way is a riot of colour with hedges of bouganvillea and islands with formal flower beds.

Early next month I sail from Mombasa on a Farrell 12-passenger freighter for Cape Town, making calls at East coast ports, and expect to spend Christmas in South Africa.

Yours sincerely,

Viola M. Davidson (Arts '18)

BAGPIPES NEEDED!

Have you any old bagpipes lying around the house?

If so, would you consider lending or selling them to the Queen's pipe band? The band is now built up to the point that there are not sufficient instruments to equip all the qualified players, all of whom are students.

Address all correspondence to the Band Manager, A.M.S. Office, Queen's University.

PRINCIPAL'S REPORT

The Principal's Report for 1958-59 has now been published and copies may be obtained on application to the Principal's Secretary, Queen's University, Kingston, Ont.

The Faculty Of Law

Now in Third Year of Operation

First Graduates
Will Receive Degrees
In May, 1960

Queen's University Faculty of Law is now in its third year of operation and has a teaching staff of ten, a student registration of fifty-nine and a library of more than 20,000 volumes.

Establishment of the present Faculty of Law dates back to 1957. In March of that year the Law Society of Upper Canada invited the universities of Ontario to take part in legal education on the same terms as those accorded to its own Law School at Osgoode Hall. Two months later Queen's University Trustees agreed to establish a Faculty of Law offering a three-year course for the degree of Bachelor of Law. Instruction began in September, 1957.

Principal W. A. Mackintosh pointed out at the time that this actually was the re-opening of the Faculty of Law at Queen's since the University had established this Faculty in 1861 and made two brief abortive attempts to maintain it, in 1861-4 and 1880-3.

Acting Dean of the Faculty on its establishment was Dr. J. A. Corry, Vice-Principal of Queen's University, and he was succeeded last year by W. R. Lederman, Professor of Law at Dalhousie University and a member of the Bars of Saskatchewan, Nova Scotia, and Ontario. Winner of the Vinerian Scholarship, the blue ribbon of legal studies at Oxford University, Dean Lederman has had ten years' teaching experience in law and stands in the front rank of legal scholars and law teachers in Canada.

Native of Regina, Sask., W. R. Lederman graduated from the University of Saskatchewan with the B.A. in 1937 and the LL.B. in 1940. Chosen Rhodes Scholar for Saskatchewan in 1939, he had to postpone attendance at Oxford University until after the war. From 1940 to 1945 he was a staff captain with the Royal Canadian Artillery in the United Kingdom and Northwest Europe. On demobilization he taught

THE NEW LAW BUILDING

A new building is planned to house the Faculty of Law, and the private homes along Union St. and Lower Alfred are now being torn down to make room for the structure. Above is an architect's drawing of the building. Construction is expected to start in the near future.

law for a year at Saskatchewan University Law School, then studied at Oxford University for two years, receiving the B.C.L. in 1948. After another year of teaching law at the University of Saskatchewan, Professor Lederman was appointed Sir James Dunn Professor of Law at Dalhousie University, a post he held until his appointment as Dean of Queen's University Law School.

To carry the main burden of instruction in the first year, two full-time teachers were appointed to Queen's Law School in 1957. They were H. R. S. Ryan, who had been in active practice at Port Hope for the past twenty-four years, and D. A. Soberman, a member of the Ontario and Nova Scotia bars who had been teaching in the Faculty of Law at Dalhousie University. Besides Dean Lederman, Professors H. J. Lawford and J. B. Dunlop joined the teaching staff in 1958. Last year single classes were taught by Dr. J. A. Corry and two senior members of the Kingston Bar, T. D. Slater, Q.C., and T. R. Wilcox, Q.C. In September, 1959, two more full-time teachers were added to the staff, Professor Allan W. Mewett who had taught for three years at Saskatchewan Law School, and James M. MacIntyre, a recent Viscount Bennett Scholar at Harvard University.

Student enrolment continues to be encouraging. Last session the enrolment was thirty-six, made up of eighteen students in each of the first two years. This year enrolment in the first year is twenty-three, bringing the total to fifty-nine. Dr. Corry last year pointed out that Queen's University Faculty of Law did not want, any more than the University as a whole, to become large. A total of 150 to 160 students in the Faculty of Law seems to offer the best balance of manageable classes for teaching purposes with the desirable support of revenue by fees.

Until its own building can be erected, the Law School's staff, students and library are being accommodated in Morris House, second of the three men's residences. Here are located the administrative offices, classrooms and library. Dean Lederman reports that the library collection now numbers more than 20,000 volumes.

The full three-year curriculum is now being taught in the Faculty and the first graduates of Queen's Law School will receive their degrees in May, 1960. The assembly of staff and resources for a first-class Faculty of Law at Queen's University continues at a rapid pace and is being pressed with the urgency that the task deserves and demands.

SOCIAL ENGINEERING

●To encourage the development of a type of social leadership which should ultimately lead to a more stable world society, Dr. Alex E. MacRae of Ottawa for fifteen years has been financing a scholarship in social engineering at Queen's University. Later he established a similar award for a student from Glebe Collegiate Institute in attendance at Queen's.

Distinguished Queen's graduate in the field of professional engineering in the protection of patentable inventions and other industrial literary and artistic property, Dr. MacRae first gave the award in 1945. Since then he has given over $14,000 to promote his ideal and has indicated a readiness to contribute more if application of the idea appears to be practicable. He has stated that the giving of a few dollars to a bright student, while good, is of relatively little importance.

Known as the A. E. MacRae award in social engineering — applied Christian Democracy — it seeks to promote on the part of the individual a clear understanding of the meaning of these two words which identify the Canadian way of life as opposed to dictatorship which bores from within to destroy, and the practice of factually appraising his every act from the point of view of his own good and that of others concerned. The object is to make it as easy as possible for people to co-operate in achieving a desired objective.

Said Dr. MacRae: "The prize is based on the idea that maximum social progress primarily demands of education the production of individuals of capacity to lead others in doing things which, in the long view, are for the continuing good of all. A keen sense of personal responsibility for the common good, as opposed to the mere temporary benefit of a particular agency, is essential in efficient social leadership. Functionally and precisely the word engineering means the application of known knowledge to the solution of a particular problem. Because education in applied science (formally began professionally about the beginning of this century) made it easy for the individual to so apply knowledge, tremendous progress has been made in the last thirty-five years. If education in social matters made it as easy for the individual to apply the precise functional meaning of the words Christian Democracy, the individual would be better able to discharge his responsibility to a society in which the individual can be free and maintain his own dignity. In an atomic age this seems to me to be the primary and immediate responsibility of university education—Queen's can and should lead the way."

Co-operation for the common good is the ideal, he said. Co-operation in medicine and chemistry is providing new cures for diseases, and in the field of manual work has provided high levels of production with less physical effort required of the individual. Unfortunately, in so far as rule by law enacted by parliament (democracy) is concerned the tendency is to reduce the competent individual to the status of the less competent, and the latter suffers most as a result. Co-operation in medicine and psychology has shown that a large proportion of physical ills are caused by a faulty understanding of the words used by the expert physician with the result that the patient fails to do the practical things necessary to his own welfare.

"It should be possible by more realistic leadership to cause people to balance emotion with reason, prejudice with privilege, rights with responsibilities, and thus achieve more rapid social progress," said Dr. MacRae.

The basic principle is that scientifically trained people are governed by facts only in reaching a decision in a specific set of circumstances. They have no opinion to offer on a given project until they have analyzed and measured the facts involved. This is not to suggest that they are necessarily skilled in purely social matters as a result of their university education. It should be recognized that there is in reality no conflict between true religion and science. Without practical experience the layman cannot understand the language of either.

"If this factual approach to the solution of problems is applied with the same vigor and skill in social matters as in scientific and applied research, we should make much more rapid progress."

In contrast, there are two features in people's thinking in social matters which need much consideration. First they personify their basic ideals and develop loyalties to institutions rather than to the ideals themselves. Secondly, they fail to emphasize sufficiently the responsibility which must be discharged by the individual if the organization is to serve the true purpose in society which it seek to achieve.

"As a result we have people with common ideals so vigorously asserting their loyalty to separate organizations that friction develops and co-operation becomes impossible. With this sort of educational leadership we think in terms of church organizations rather than of the obligations which churchmen must discharge if they are to be worthy of the name. We think in terms of political parties rather than of policies. Thus we stir up personal antagonisms which merely confuse the issue and make co-operation difficult. This has arisen because Deweyism in education and socialism in politics has so far removed responsibility from the individual that we must guard against economic disaster which would delight our ideologically very active opponents in the cold war," said Dr. MacRae.

With the object of aiding in the development of persons with real capacity for social leadership who will think in terms of ideals, policies and laws to enforce them rather than of institutions and political or other parties, Dr. MacRae has been contributing his annual prize. He urges recognition and application of the ideal stated by the late Chancellor Dunning when he emphasized the supreme importance of "the dignity, freedom and responsibility of

Rector. Dr. Leonard W. Brockington was the unanimous choice of the executive of the Alma Mater Society for the position of Rector, when his fourth three-year term ended this fall.

The position of Rector was created under the provisions of the Act of 1912 by "the registered matriculated students . . . to hold office for three years, or until his successor is elected." Dr. Brockington is the first Rector in the history of the University to be elected for more than one term.

As Rector, Dr. Brockington is the sole representative of the students on the University's Board of Trustees. His Rectorial Address, delivered some time during each three-year term, has been an event which the students have eagerly anticipated.

The Rectors of Queen's, with their years of election, are as follows: 1913, The Rev. S. W. Dyde; 1916, James L. Robertson; 1920, Brig.-Gen. A. E. Ross; 1925, William H. Coverdale; 1929, Oscar D. Skelton; 1935, The Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett; 1937, The Hon. Norman McLeod Rogers; 1940, The Earl of Athlone; 1944, Dr. B. K. Sandwell; 1947, 1950, 1953, 1956, and 1959, Dr. L. W. Brockington.

Leonard Hall. The new men's residence is to be named Leonard Hall in memory of the late Col. R. W. Leonard. Reuben Wells Leonard was a graduate of the Royal Military College of the Class of 1883 who saw active service in the North West Rebellion of 1885, and in civilian life had a long and distinguished career in railway construction and mining. On his death in 1930, a substantial part of his estate was left to the Leonard Foundation to provide bursaries and scholarships for university students.

Early in 1914, Colonel Leonard made a proposal to the University for the erection of a number of residences for men, with provisions for a joint board in control of the residences. Agreement could not be reached on this proposal, but, in 1923, Colonel Leonard presented to the University the title to an extensive block of land on the lakeshore, since

MAJOR JOHN RICHARDSON, 1796-1852

I.

Neglected as an author in Canada in his own day, Major John Richardson, could he return to his former haunts, would derive wry satisfaction from his posthumous fame and the improbable prices that his own first and early editions now fetch. His War of 1812, which sold only some thirty copies when published in 1842, and a copy of which went for 7½ pence at a Kingston auction soon afterwards, is now a rare item eagerly sought by collectors of Canadiana.

Of his many manuscripts only one is known to exist—a literary document of historic interest in the Edith and Lorne Pierce Collection at the Douglas Library. Entitled “On Desertion in Canada,” it was intended as an article for an English review. When the editor rejected it, Richardson revised the piece for inclusion in his autobiographical work, Eight Years in Canada.

Most of the author's voluminous correspondence has long since disappeared. In the Douglas Library, however, are three holograph letters—one to the editor of United Services Journal<sup>1</sup>, March 22, 1845, re “On Desertion in Canada,” and two to Hon. William Morris, October 13, 20, 1847; also a photostat of another letter to Morris<sup>2</sup> written in 1842, the original of which belongs to a private collector in Montreal. The letter of October 13, presented to the library by the late Mr. Fred Ketcheson, was published in Douglas Library Notes vol. 3 no. 3 (1954); the text of the second letter, recently acquired by Dr. Lorne Pierce, is given below.

II.

Among the pioneers of Canadian literature, none had a more colourful career than John Richardson. The son of an assistant army surgeon, he was born at Queenston, October 4, 1796. At fifteen he became a cadet in the 41st Regiment, served in the War of 1812, was captured at Moraviantown, spent a year in American prisons, was finally released on parole and made his way back to Canada. He then obtained a commission in the King's 8th Foot Regiment and sailed for Europe. Arriving too late to see action at Waterloo, he put in a tour of duty in the Barbadoes. Retired on half-pay he spent the next ten years in London and Paris before attempting authorship. His first literary venture, the poem Tecumseh, published in London, 1828, enjoyed a mild success. The novel Ecarté, which followed, was a failure, redeemed, however, by its successor Wacousta, a three-volume work which proved popular and was republished in the United States.

In 1834 Richardson enlisted in the British Auxiliary Legion recruited in London by the Spanish Ambassador to assist in quelling the insurgent forces of the pretender Don Carlos. From the campaign journal he kept, Richardson published an account of The Movements of the British Legion (London, 1836); in a second enlarged edition the following year, he included a stinging personal attack on his commanding officer, Lieut. General Sir de Lacy Evans. For his military services Richardson gained his majority and was created by Queen Christina a Knight of the Order of St. Ferdinand (first class). When the Legion was disbanded in 1838, he returned to Canada as a special correspondent of The Times. His pro-Durham articles, however, soon brought this assignment to an end.

III.

For the next ten years Richardson tried desperately to support himself as an author and journalist. He first projected a "revised Canadian edition" of Wacousta, expecting to attract patriotic patronage for "the first and only writer of historical fiction the country has yet produced". The prospectus<sup>3</sup> for this work was well advertised in the provincial press for over six months and gave the names of sixteen booksellers from Montreal to Detroit who had agreed to keep lists of subscribers. So feeble was the response, however, that the author dared not risk publication. Meanwhile he had advertised a new work, Personal Memoirs of Major Richardson "as connected with the unprecedented oppression of that officer while in Spain by Lieut. General Sir de Lacy Evans". The implication of scandalous revelation attracted enough subscribers this time to have the book published by Armour & Ramsay of Montreal (1838). Then followed, also by subscription, a new novel, The Canadian Brothers, issued in 1840 by the same publishers. It received a long and favourable review in the Kingston Chronicle and Gazette for February 15, 1840.

With this encouragement Richardson decided to turn publisher himself and set up a press in Brockville. He brought out a paper called The New Era or Canadian Chronicle which ran for less than two years. It was chiefly the vehicle for his own literary productions, the most ambitious of which was a history of the War of 1812. It was to be in three parts dealing with the right (or west) sector, the centre and the left, but only the first of these was completed. He campaigned to have the work adopted as a school text. Dr. Egerton Ryerson as Superintendent of Education was at first sympathetic, but when Part I appeared in book form (from the type of the New Era in which it had run serially) he turned it down. Granted £250 by the legislature, Richardson used the money to pay his debts and wrote finis to his historical project.

IV.

It was while Part I was running as a serial in his paper that Richardson wrote to William Morris (then Warden of the Johnstown District and Chairman of the Board of Trustees of Queen's College) for information concerning the war on the eastern frontier of Upper Canada. Morris, who had served during the attack on Ogdensburg, sent his personal recollections and promised some additional notes. Five years later, Richardson wanted to use this information in another connection and wrote for permission to do so. The occasion was a protest against the British Government's discrimination in awarding 1812 campaign medals to British units which had fought in Canada but not to the local Canadian militia. A pseudonymous letter (Richardson's) had appeared on this subject in the Montreal Courier. If the public reacted favourably, Richardson was prepared to supply details of deserving Canadian candidates for the medal. His letter to Morris, written formally as was his custom in third person, follows:

Major Richardson has to apologize for not having earlier acknowledged Mr. Morris' reply to his note. The object of that note will have been ascertained more fully on reference to the letter Loyalist "Detroit" which appeared in the Courier a few days ago, and the effect of which on the country generally Major R. wishes to ascertain before he proceeds to show the importance of those services on the part of the Militia who were present at Queenston, Lundy's Lane and Ogdensburg which have been overlooked in the award of military merit. It can scarcely be assumed that the people of the country—apathetic in all things not bearing on their immediate personal interests though they may be—will fail to respond to the invitation held out to them to agitate this question; but until they do it would be almost hopeless to fight their battle.

Nothing could afford Major Richardson a higher degree of Satisfaction than that his pen should in any degree be instrumental in obtaining for the Militia of Canada that consideration from the Home Government for valuable services rendered which they so greatly merit; and assuredly if they will only put their own shoulder to the wheel and aid themselves, there is every probability even of his isolated overture being crowned with a certain degree of success. In a few days another letter shall be given and the most proper course of action pointed out. If, then the press, either from themselves, or at the suggestion of those more immediately interested among its Supporters, take up this subject seriously and in the same spirit the strong claims of those who have been so shamelessly passed over by the Home Government, shall be detailed. In such case the communications furnished by Mr. Morris to Major Richardson will be highly available to this object sought to be obtained, and the promised continuation will be particularly acceptable.

Should Mr. Morris, independently of the account of the successful attack on Ogdensburg, feel inclined to suggest anything likely to bear favourable on the subject of the letter which appeared in the Courier Major R. will be most glad to avail himself of those views—and will if necessary wait on Mr. Morris whenever and wherever he may please to appoint.

Montreal, 20th Oct. 1847

V.

Richardson's stay in Canada was now drawing to an end—a dead end. For a year he tried editing a regular newspaper in Kingston—The Canadian Loyalist and Spirit of 1812—but he could not compete with the four other papers already established there. He had been passed over in favour of Stewart Derbishire of Quebec as Queen's Printer when a new appointment was made, but accepted a minor post as Superintendent of Police on the Welland Canal, a position abolished within a year. Never averse to proclaiming his own merits and personal slights, he now produced two autobiographical books, Eight Years in Canada, and The Guards in Canada. The latter dealt with long-forgotten affairs of honour in which he had fought duels; the former provided a political commentary with his own neglect and misfortunes as an underlying theme. He has some bitter comments upon the literary obtuseness of Canadians, not one in twenty of whom had ever heard of Wacousta, and, even of those, two-thirds "cared not a straw whether the author was a Canadian or a Turk".

Rebuffed by his fellow countrymen, he resolved to try his fortunes in the United States. From New York he published two or three more novels on Indian warfare—Hardscrabble, Wau-nan-gee, and possibly Westbrook (of which no copy seems to have survived). All appeared as cheap paperbacks of the dime novel variety and could not have earned the author more than nominal royalties. As a last desperate effort he produced a lurid sex novel full of lust and license set in the time of the Crusades. But even pornography failed him and he died penniless in a cheap New York rooming house on May 12, 1852.

NOTES

<sup>1</sup> Major Richardson presents his Compliments to Sir John Philipport, and having recently received from Messrs. Cox and Co a communication stating that a packet addressed through them to the United Services Journal and forwarded by a private hand had not been received by them now forwards through post a duplicate of the contents of that packet to Sir John himself or rather to the Editor of the U. S. Journal.

Should it be received for publication Major Richardson leaves it entirely to the liberality [of] the Editor to determine the amount of remuneration which may be deposited in the hands of Messrs. Cox & Co.

Sir James Alexander was good enough to take the trouble to write to Sir John Philipport on the subject of the Extract in question, but of course as Messrs. Cox & Co. have not received it the only manner in which the deficiency can be supplied is by forwarding another copy. Will Sir John be kind enough to take some notice of the receipt of this communication in his next number after its receipt.

Montreal, March 22nd, 1845

Endorsed on the back by the Editor: "Not sufficiently connected for separate (sic) publication. Ans'd May No. U.S. Jl. 1845".

<sup>2</sup> Major Richardson presents his Compliments to Mr. Morris, and in reply to his note of the 26th inst. which he finds on his return after a short absence from home, begs to express his acknowledgement for the information relative to the events which occurred during the War of 1812 on the Johnstown frontier Mr. Morris has been so good as to offer him.

Major Richardson will gladly avail himself of the information supplied by Mr. Morris, in his account of the centre and left operations of the Army, which will be commenced soon after those of the Right Division (which will not now occupy many more numbers) are completed.

Major Richardson avails himself of the present opportunity of stating to Mr. Morris in his capacity of Warden of the Johnstown District that having seen both Mr. Morrison and the Superintendent of Education for Canada West, he has every reason to hope his account of the war will be by them recommended as a School book. Should it however be a subject for the intercession of the Council, he trusts he may rely upon Mr. Morris for that support of it as National work which will be necessary to its circulation in the District. Some account of the war has long been considered a desideratum in the Country and Major Richardson can only confidently rely upon the aid of those to whom the interests and honourable reputation of the Province are entrusted to accomplish that which were otherwise hopeless. He has been at some pains to obtain the various records connected with every operation of the war and furnished as he will be by the personal exposition and knowledge of those who were actors in scenes to which he was necessarily a stranger, the united narrative of the war cannot fail to create interest and promote instruction.

Major R. will be glad to receive Mr. Morris' notes at the earliest possible period.

Brockville, May 31st, 1842

<sup>3</sup> NEW PUBLICATION WACOUSTA

By the Author of ECARTE

It having been intimated to the Author of the above named work that a very general demand for its republication exists throughout the Country, a revised Canadian edition will, provided the suggestion should prove to be a correct one, appear in the course of the ensuing summer.

It is proposed for the accommodation of those who may prefer that style of publication, to bring out the work in eight monthly parts, at one quarter of a dollar each number, to be paid for on delivery.

Each part will be contained in a wrapper, on which will be printed the several Reviews of the work by the principal critics of the London press, and moreover, to the first number will be appended the autograph letter which accompanied a copy presented to His late Majesty, who took the warmest interest in whatever related to the Canadas.

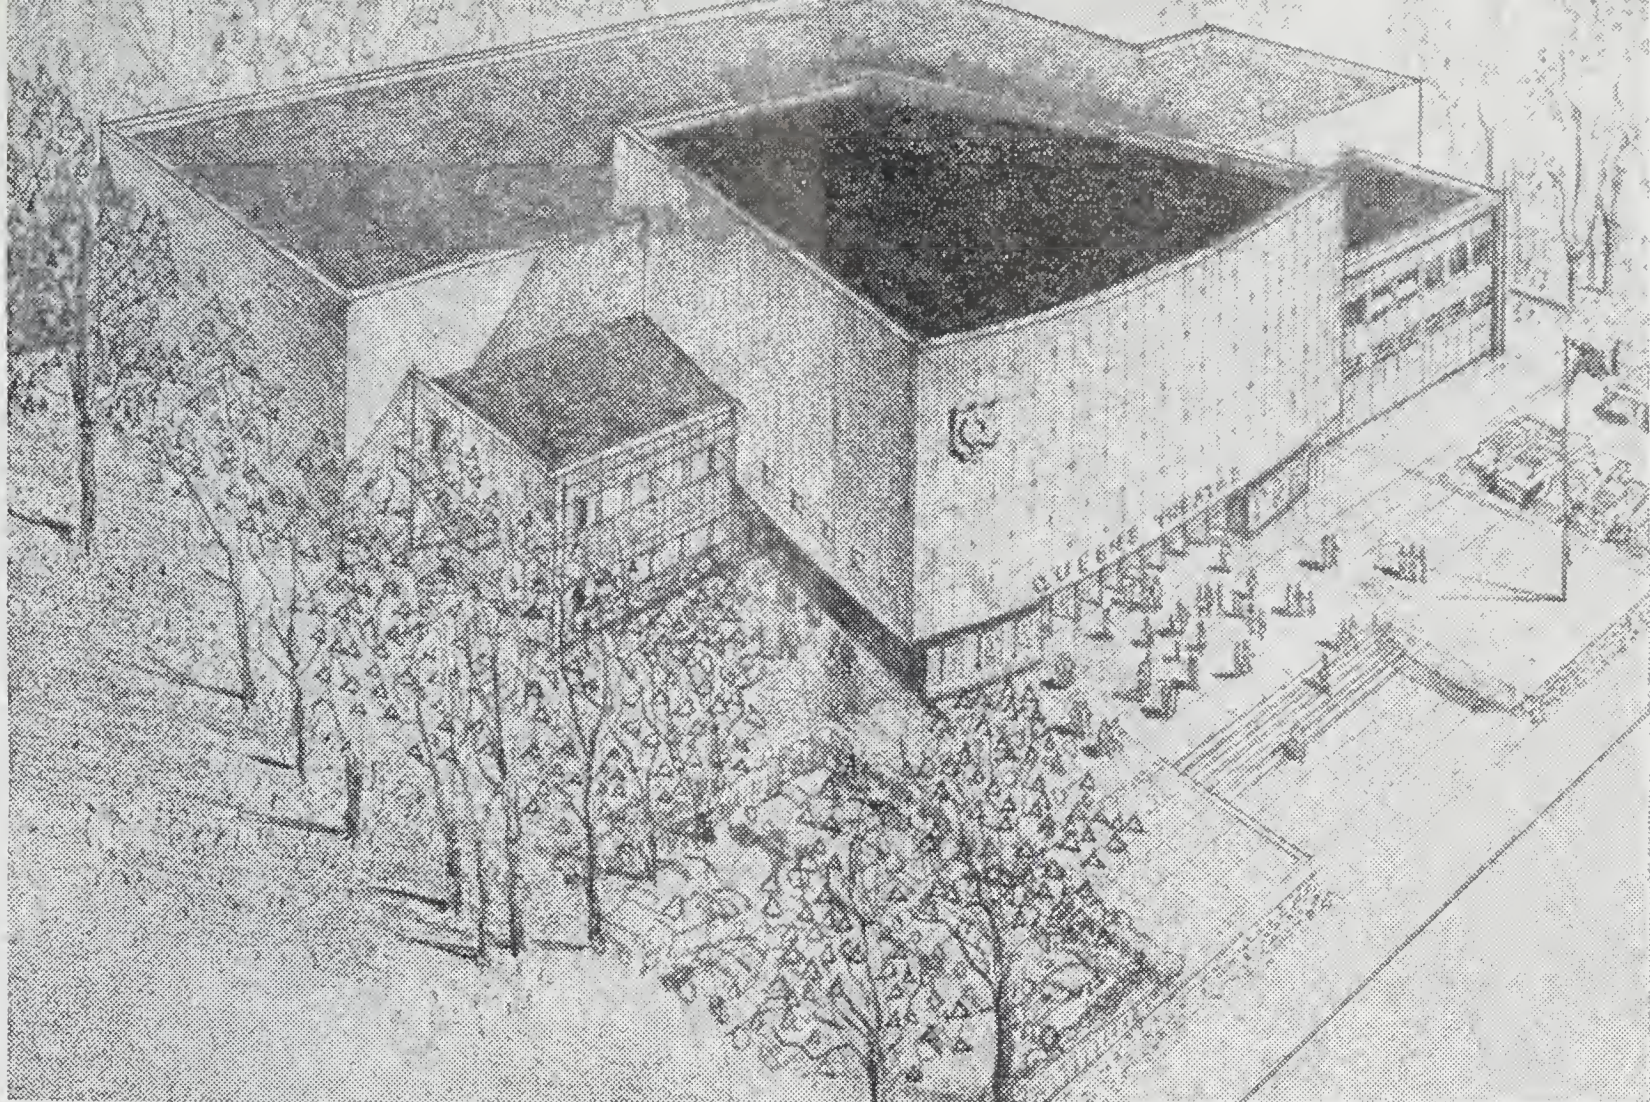

In bringing before the attention of the Canadian public the fact of his being the first and only writer of historical fiction the country has yet produced, the Author feels that he is stating that which will give an interest to the publication wholly abstract from any which may arise from the tale itself. It is this inducement which principally weighs with him in taking the sense of the public on the subject through the medium of the press.

Should the number of applicants for copies of Wacousta be such as to warrant the assumption that the book is really in demand, the first number will appear early in July or August.

Among the number of those gentlemen who have kindly offered to receive the names of subscribers are the following: Messrs. Armour & Ramsay, Montreal; J. Macfarlane Esq., Kingston; R. Stanton Esq., Toronto; H. Rowsell Esq., do.; Mr. Ruthven, bookseller, Hamilton; W. Richardson Esq., Brantford; J. B. Askin Esq., London; T. F. Short Esq., Woodstock; S. Reid Esq., Chatham; W. Duff Esq., Amherstburgh; Joseph Wood Esq., Sandwich; Duncan Campbell Esq., Simcoe; Edw. Ermatinger Esq., St. Thomas; G. S. Jarvis Esq., M.P.P., Cornwall; Doctor Trowbridge, Buffalo; Edward Brush Esq., Detroit (the scene of the tale). Subscriptions will also be received at the office of the Chronicle and Advertiser, Niagara.

Niagara, May 15th, 1838.

STUDENTS PLAN THEATRE

Under the auspices of the Alma Mater Society, plans are being made for a theatre which will serve the needs of the Drama Guild, Glee Club, Faculty Players and the University Concerts. The students started the project with a one-day campaign which raised $1,109, and are now looking for other sources of revenue. George Stecko of Windsor is chairman.

known as the Leonard Field. He did this in recognition of the distinguished war service of Queen's students and graduates in World War One.

Thirty-two years elapsed before the University was able to undertake the building of men's residences. The naming of the third and largest unit, Leonard Hall, perpetuates a name which has been associated with this project for more than forty years and is a recognition of Colonel Leonard's interest in and generous provision for university education.

A. M. S. Building Fund. Under the auspices of the Alma Mater Society a fund has been started for a theatre, which will serve the needs of the Drama Guild, Glee Club, Faculty Players, and the University Concerts. The plans call for a structure which by means of a gallery and moveable partitions can accommodate audiences of 750 or 1,500, as required, at a cost of $750,000. To start off the project the students held a Dollar Drive which raised $1,109 in a one-day campaign, and the committee is investigating other sources of revenue. On the committee are: staff—Dr. William Angus, Prof. H. W. Tracy, Dr. Graham George, and Mrs. A. R. C. Duncan; students—George Stecko (chairman), Windsor, Ont., Doug Munro, Kingston, Roger Davidson, Ottawa, John Hayden, Peterborough, Dianne Campbell, Windsor, Gordon MacRae, Lancaster, Bob Penty, North Bay.

Registration. There are 2,922 students registered at Queen's this year, an increase of 70 over the preceding year. The breakdown is as follows: Arts and Science, 1143, School of Commerce and Business Administration, 95; Arts and Physical and Health Education, 111; Applied Science, 933; Medicine, 333; Law, 59; School of Nursing, 55; graduate students, 183; Industrial Relations, 10. There are 761 women students, of whom 569 are in Arts and Science, 13 in Commerce, 60 in Physical and Health Education, 39 in Medicine, 2 in Law, 55 in Nursing, and 23 taking postgraduate work.

Prof. A. M. Keppel-Jones Speaks On South African Problem

The South African problem was made the subject of an interesting address given by Prof. Arthur Keppel-Jones at the November 10 meeting of the Kingston alumnae in Ban Righ Hall. Mrs. C. H. R. Campling (Ruth Miller), Arts '46, was in the chair.

The speaker said that what has happened and what is happening in South Africa today may be regarded as a classical tragedy. He traced the events that had led up to the tensions which prevail and gave his audience a clear picture of the situation.

Dr. Keppel-Jones was introduced by Mrs. W. M. Smith, Arts '56, and was thanked by Miss Jean I. Royce, Arts '30.

The programme concluded with the serving of refreshments by Mrs. O. R. Lundell (Carolyn Curtis), Com. '54, and her committee. Sixty-five members and friends were in attendance.

Dr. Douglas was thanked by S. J. Covey, Com. '47.

H. J. Hamilton, alumni secretary, spoke briefly, with reference to the Alumni Fund in general, and the contribution made by the members of the Brockville branch, in particular. Reports were also presented by W. L. Sutherland, Sc. '62, G. W. Shannon, Sc. '32, and R. B. McRuer, Sc. '48.

Ottawa Country Supper Attracts Two Hundred and Fifty

Two hundred and fifty graduates and friends enjoyed a rollicking good time at the Country Supper held by the Ottawa branch at East Osgoode Memorial Community Centre at Metcalfe on October 26.

Col. G. W. L. Nicholson was the toastmaster, major domo, and spark-plug for the excellent programme that followed. He led the assembly in a "Table Service Rhapsody," to the tune of "Country Gardens," followed by a sing-song in which he managed to break down whatever little bit of reserve remained among the guests. Doug Westington, Arts '32, provided the piano accompaniment.

An interfaculty track and field meet, featuring such events as hurling the javelin, tossing the caber, and putting the shot, was ingeniously contrived, inspired by the antics of shapely cheerleaders Miss Pat Brown, Arts '58, Miss Mary Elliott, Arts '49, Miss Kathy Walsh, Arts '53, and Mrs. R. M. Dunlop (Judy Reid), Arts '57, P.H.E. '58. The judges were Miss Kay Derry, Arts '30, Harry Redfern, Arts '38, and H. J. Hamilton, Arts '31.
